Brittania, in the Air.
Two Italians Celebrate.
A Really Big City.
What's Wrong With Us.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

BRITAIN'S AIRSHIP R-100, greatest that ever rose into the air, is crossing the Atlantic to Montreal, with 37 crew and seven passengers. The R-100, faster than the Graf Zeppelin, represents Britain's determination to rule the ocean of air as for centuries she has ruled the ocean of water, regardless of expense.

GERMANY AND ENGLAND make the effort. We look on and do little. It is all the more surprising, as we have the money, the industrial skill, and in the White House a great engineer, who must be sorely tempted to put this country ahead in a field that is purely one of engineering skill.

TWO CELEBRATIONS in Italy yesterday. It was Mussolini's forty-seventh birthday, and the thirtieth anniversary of King Victor Emanuel's coronation.

The Italians congratulated Mussolini and their king enthusiastically. They adore Mussolini, their great national hero, looking upon him as the saviour of Italy from "the fate of Russia."

They love their king, a modest, courageous and sincere man.

FOURTEEN YEARS ago Mussolini took control of Italy and her government, and thus in all probability prolonged King Victor Emanuel's reign by 14 years.

What would have happened had Mussolini adhered to his early Socialistic and Communistic belief, the ideas that put him in jail?

Could he have put his black shirts on Communists instead of putting them on Fascisti, repeating in Italy the experiment in Russia?

NEW YORK CITY'S population is fixed finally at 6,959,195. It will pass 7,000,000 in a few months.

Manhattan Island, which until recently was all of New York, has lost 18.6 per cent in 10 years. This is made up by gains in the outlying boroughs, 180.1 per cent in Queens, 28.6 per cent in Brooklyn, 73 per cent in The Bronx.

QUEENS IS probably the fastest growing big place in the world. Manhattan still holds the pocketbook.

Hundreds of thousands work there, and sleep elsewhere. Americans from all over the nation come to spend their money between Fourteenth and Fifty-ninth street, to say nothing of what they spend downtown in Wall Street.

WHEN YOU are traveling serenely in an express train, and it stops suddenly you put your head out of the window to look, or you ask the conductor: "What is the matter?"

We were all traveling in the prosperity express train. It stopped with a jolt last October, and everybody is still asking "what is the matter?"

ADOLPH ZUKOR, an intelligent American business man, who retains his capacity to keep cool and think clearly even when business is not so good, says:

"For one thing, we had lost our heads. We began to think about a dollar as we ought to think about a 25-cent piece.

"After awhile we shall learn what money is, what thrift and common sense means. Then we shall be better off than we ever were.

"Nothing better than this so-called 'slump' could have happened to us.

"For my part, I was never more optimistic in my life."

MR. ZUKOR of course speaks sincerely and his optimism is justified.

This country needed a lesson and is having it.

How long it will last, nobody knows.

TWO RUSSIAN ships loaded with pulpwood for newsprint are excluded. Other Russian ships now on their way here will also be excluded.

The cargoes are said to be the product of "convict" or "slave labor."

In either case, they should be excluded.

We don't let our convict labor compete with free labor, and ought not to allow Russian convict labor to compete.

BUT IF WE quarrel with Russia and exclude her goods because we do not like her political opinions, we are acting foolishly. Such action might prevent Russia spending hundreds of millions in America, giving employment to American workers and profit to American capitalists.

If our "best minds" haven't brains enough to keep American workers employed, they should allow Russia to give them work, if Russia will.

CANADA'S ELECTION surprised many of our friends in the North.

Mackenzie King, who has been prime minister for 12 years, lost the election to a Conservative, a lawyer, named Bennett.

King, educated at Harvard, was always on friendly terms with the United States. Perhaps his defeat means that Canada doesn't like our new tariff.

For the first time a woman is elected to the Canadian Parliament. Nine more that wanted to be elected failed.

Vesuvius Erupts, Naples in Panic

QUAKE ZONE FACES NEW MENACE

Populace Flees to Streets As Cinders Spout From Crater Long Dormant

By GUGLIELMO EMANUEL.
International News Service.

ROME, July 30.—Fresh terror spread among the population of earthquake-damaged Naples today as its ancient killer, Mount Vesuvius, suddenly shot huge volumes of smoke and tons of glowing cinders into the sky.

A heavy pall soon clouded the city, bringing thousands of anxious residents to the streets and rooftops in alarm as the outpourings from the crater gave no sign of a letup.

First warnings that Vesuvius again was becoming restless were noted a few days ago when there was an ominous rumble and intermittent clouds of smoke spouted from the crater. The recent earthquake, it was believed, may have been a factor in preparing the way for new eruptions.

Meanwhile the work of reconstruction in the regions in South Central Italy, devastated by the earthquake of last week, went on with renewed vigor. The Italian Cabinet Council, which voted $5,200,000 as a first contribution for relief and reconstruction of its 7,500 square miles of ravaged territory, decided work should begin at once and be pushed with greatest speed, to complete it by the time winter approaches.

Food shops have been reopened in the stricken areas and all lines of communication have been reestablished.

An unofficial survey showed that at least 3,000 homes must be completely or partly rebuilt, which averages the government contribution at approximately $500 per house for reconstruction. This is considered an ample sum for construction of a presentable and modern home in the afflicted provinces.

SHIPS SIGHT R-100 OVER ATLANTIC

Big Airship 500 Miles From Belle Isle; Expected to Land Tomorrow Morning

BULLETIN.

LONDON, July 30.—(AP.)—Speeding along at more than 70 miles an hour, the British dirigible R-100 was more than two-thirds across the Atlantic Ocean today with the expectation that she would sight land by 8 o'clock tomorrow morning, Greenwich Meridan time, or about 4 a. m. Pittsburgh time.

So much speed had the ship picked up because of favorable winds that she seemed likely to cut down even this margin of time and reach the coast of Newfoundland a little earlier than expected.

This afternoon the dirigible was estimated to be about 500 miles from Belle Isle.

Another message received by way of the postoffice beam system said the dirigible had passed over the steamship Tuscania.

At 3:15 a. m., Pittsburgh time, the dirigible was sighted near mid-ocean by the S. S. Ansonia.

Signals and greetings were exchanged. Apparently all was well.

International News Service.

LONDON, July 30.—The British dirigible R-100, blazing a triumphant path across the North Atlantic on her flight from England to Canada, at noon, G. M. T. (8 a. m, Pittsburgh time), had passed well beyond the half-way mark of her water jump from Ireland to the Newfoundland coast.

At that hour the R-100 radioed the air ministry that its position was 39.20 degrees west longitude, 54.40 degrees north latitude.

With all six of her powerful motors roaring in unison the big ship was making a ground speed of 70 knots per hour.

MESSAGE RELAYED

'SHAKEDOWN' CHARGED TO PITTSBURGH COAL CO.

100 Residents Warned to Buy Remaining Pillars Or Surface Supports Go

Notice has been served on a group of Mt. Lebanon property owners by the Pittsburgh Coal Company that it intends to remove the pillars of coal supporting the surface—unless the property owners purchase the unmined coal. News of the proposal has created intense interest.

The notice has been sent to about 100 persons, according to C. E. Lesher, vice president of the coal company. It has been received by three or four hundred persons, according to Ira H. Edmundson, president of the Mt. Lebanon Chamber of Commerce. Others—possibly 5,000—may be affected later.

TERMED "SHAKEDOWN"

Edmundson denounces the whole proposal as a "shakedown." He declares he believes the coal company has no intention of removing the coal pillars.

The area involved is described by Lesher as "a strip from 400 to 600 feet wide, crossing Washington avenue in Mt. Lebanon at Central square, extending across the town from east to west, with smaller strips projecting off to the north and south at several points."

Lesher declares his company intends to proceed within a year and denies that the company can be held liable for subsidence of the surface. He says the company simply offers assurance against removal of the supports if the property owners wish to take it.

County Solicitor W. Heber Dithrich declares the law requires that in mining adequate support must be provided for the surface.

Recipients of the coal company's letters say they were told the price would be 75 cents a ton unless all the owners of a block went together, when the price would be 50 cents a ton.

This price was declared to be outrageous by a mining engineer. He asserted 25 cents a ton should be the outside price.

LETTER TO OWNERS

Lesher explained the proposal substantially as follows:

"We have sent this letter to about 100 persons:

" 'The Pittsburgh Coal Company has completed all its development work in certain tracts of coal in Mt. Lebanon Township, Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, and is now engaged in removing the remaining coal in said tracts.

" 'We find that some of this coal is under property owned by you. If you wish to have any of the coal left, please call at our office, 1147 Oliver Building, Pittsburgh, Pa., at once, and make the necessary arrangements.'

"This is entirely a voluntary action on our part; we are under no obligation to make the offer.

"We have done this to provide an opportunity to these prop-

WASTE CHARGED ON AIRPORT

Grading for the city-county airport will be finished in the near future with the filling of a few small roads and completion of negotiations for the remaining acreage, according to Norman F. Brown, director of the Allegheny County Department of Public Works.

The director made his observations in replying to a report that County Commissioner C. C. McGovern had criticized the work on the airport and charged that project was "rotten with inefficiency, extravagance and waste."

COMPLETION PLEDGED

The grading of the land for the airport was awarded to the Vang Construction Company on a bid of $1,470,000, the highest of three proposals, owing to representations to the County Commissioners that Vang would complete the work in the specified 250 days.

The original time limit of the contract expired last March 25 and the minutes of the County Commissioners' meetings indicate the contractor has been granted extensions of time on two occasions.

McGovern declared he has no knowledge of such minutes being adopted at a regular meeting.

HOOVER ORDERS DRY DRIVE

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Complete reorganization of dry law enforcement personnel may be announced today as a result of a conference late yesterday between President Hoover, Attorney General Mitchell, Assistant Attorney General Youngquist, in charge of prohibition enforcement, and Amos W. W. Woodcock, prohibition director.

The plan was further discussed today when Attorney General Mitchell, with Woodcock and his aides, met with the prohibition administrators from the 12 districts, the first meeting since enforcement was transferred from the Treasury to the Department of Justice.

ALL DISTRICTS AFFECTED

The President conferred with the Attorney General and his assistants an hour. They discussed recommendations of the special commission on law enforcement and observance, as well as the recommendations of Treasury officials.

It was made plain the changes would affect every district and community in the country.

It was indicated there are to be

Cashier's Gun Routs Bank Robbers

STEUBENVILLE, O., July 30.—Shots fired at two unmasked bandits by Ray Davidson, cashier, frustrated an attempted holdup today of the Brilliant Bank and Savings Company at Brilliant, near here.

Escaping to the street, the pair returned the fire through windows, narrowly missing both Davidson and Alfred Lawler, assistant cashier. No one else was in the bank at the time, police reported.

The taxicab in which the bandits fled was found abandoned near Rush Run, an hour later. It was the car which had been hired last night by two men from the Wiley Taxicab Company here, police say, and which was driven by William Dugan, 32.

Last midnight a call, presumably from Dugan, was received stating he had a flat tire in Canton. Nothing further has been heard from him and his employers fear for his safety.

GIRL STABBED, MOTHER HELD

Anna Mitichison, 17, of Fite station, Versailles Township, is in McKeesport Hospital with several stab wounds in her left arm, alleged to have been inflicted by her mother, Mrs. Margaret Whitacre, 37.

The mother is being held by McKeesport police.

The girl, according to information obtained by the county detectives, interfered when her mother started toward her brother-in-law, Thurman Whitacre, 40, with a butcher knife during a quarrel over room rent.

The mother, enraged, is said to have turned on her daughter and struck her with the knife.

Detectives are seeking the brother-in-law, who fled after the cutting. He roomed at the Whitacre home until a week ago.

2 DRIVERS HELD FOR DRINKING

Two of the 62 motorists arraigned in Traffic Court today were held after police had testified the defendants were driving while under the influence of liquor.

They are Thomas Friend, of Heman street, arrised in Schenlay Park, and J. D. Pierce, of Rockford, Ill., taken into custody after his machine had collided with a parked auto in Coltart Square.

In the 60 remaining, 20 were discharged, 17 fined, 13 held over and 10 failed to appear.

Germans on Flight to America Delayed

KIRKWALL, Orkney Islands, July 30.—(AP.)—Bad weather today again delayed Wolfram Hirth and Oscar Weller, German aviators, in their flight to Iceland, the next step in an air voyage from Germany to the United States.

Pittsburgher Safe In Earthquake Zone

J. Frank Lanning, president of Lanning & Co., of 127 First avenue, is safe in Italy, according to a cablegram received today at the company's offices.

Fear had been expressed for his safety because the last communication from the Pittsburgher had been from Sorrento, in the devastated earthquake zone. The cablegram, dated at Naples, read:

"All is well."

Coolidges to Spend 10 Days in Vermont

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., July 30.—(INS.)—Plans for a 10-day trip to the "old homestead" in Plymouth, Vt., during August, were being made today by former President and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge.

His secretary announced that the Vermont trip was the only summer vacation so far planned by the Coolidges.

Davison Hops Off on 10,000-Mile Tour

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(INS.)—F. Trubee Davison, assistant secretary of war in charge of aviation, hopped off at dawn today on the first leg of a 10,000-mile air inspection of army aviation activities. His first scheduled stop is Greenville, S. C.

Government Price-Fixing Futile, Coolidge Says

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., July 30.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

The European cartel for maintaining an arbitrary price for steel has been abandoned. The plan failed. Some years ago our government was trying to fix a price for silver. More recently the British were trying to control rubber. In Brazil it was coffee, in Cuba sugar, and in Canada the wheat market. Our producers tried to hold the price of copper, and the farm board went into wheat and cotton.

Calvin Coolidge.

None of these efforts has been a success. It is not possible to repeal the law of supply and demand, of cause and effect, or of action and reaction. Value is a matter of opinion. An act of Congress has small jurisdiction over what men think.

When the consumer buys a product it goes out of the market and disappears. When private or public agents buy to fix an arbitrary price, the product is still in the market. Every consumer knows it and waits for the resale. The price can be held only as a local or temporary expedient, which usually makes matters worse. But because all of us are bigger than some of us, not even the United States Treasury is powerful enough to put an arbitrary price on the great world staples with any permanent success.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

Bayard in Delaware Race as Anti-Dry

WILMINGTON, Del., July 30.—(INS.)—The battle on prohibition in Delaware took a new turn today when former U. S. Senator Thomas F. Bayard announced his candidacy for re-election to the Senate on an out-and-out anti-dry platform.

Although Bayard is running on the Democratic ticket, it was announced he will be supported by P. F. du Pont, Irenee du Pont and Lammott du Pont, life long Republicans.

Lindbergh Junior 'Fine,' Says Father

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(AP.)—The Lindbergh baby is "fine, thank you."

Thaw Back in U. S. After Foreign Tour

NEW YORK, July 30.—(INS.)—Harry K. Thaw was back in New York today after a tour abroad during which he visited many countries, but not England. He was barred from entering England two years ago, and on this trip made no attempt to embark onto British soil.

Aimee, Director Sued Over Film

LOS ANGELES, July 30.—(INS.)—Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, and J. Roy Stewart, motion picture director, today had been made defendants in a $10,000 damage suit by Harvey H. Gates, scenario writer.

Gates claims that he entered an agreement with the defendants to write a talking picture scenario for Mrs. McPherson. He alleges they have not paid him the $10,000 or any part thereof.

Alice Longworth to Stump For Mrs. McCormick

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(AP.)—The political genius of Alice Roosevelt Longworth will have to be reckoned with in the Illinois senatorial combat this fall, for Teddy Roosevelt's daughter will be more than a spectator in the battle between Ruth Hanna McCormick and J. Hamilton Lewis.

Mrs. Longworth, now in Jamestown, R. I., said she probably would be in Illinois before the November election.

So active had Mrs. Longworth been already behind the stage of her friend's campaign, it was rumored in the capital she would take the stump for Mrs. McCormick toward the close of the contest.

Though she denied this definitely, she is expected to sit in on the councils of war.

The two women's association dates unbroken back to the Roosevelt regime, when the then "Princess" Alice and young Ruth Hanna played croquet on the White House lawns. They were girlhood chums.

After the Roosevelts left the mansion, and the Hanna family returned to Ohio, the friendship was kept alive.

The widow of Medill McCormick and the wife of Speaker of the House have been abroad together; they were to be seen together in the galleries of Congress and at social gatherings here throughout the late Senator McCormick's term.

When Mrs. McCormick entered the race for the House of Representatives, it was Mrs. Longworth she chose for closest private counsel.

It is said frequently that Mrs. Longworth was a potent influence in Mrs. McCormick's decision to make the Senate race.

Sioux Tribe Names Hurley 'Wxinyapi'

PITTSBURGH'S GOLD STAR CONTINGENT SAILS FOR FRANCE

GOES TO PAY TRIBUTE AT GRAVES

State's Delegation of 178 Leaves New York, on Liner America, for Battlefields

By CROSWELL BOWEN, JR.
International News Service.

NEW YORK, July 30.—Pittsburgh's contingent of Gold Star Mothers sailed for France today, to visit the graves of their sons who died in the World War.

Mothers from all parts of Pennsylvania, 178 in all, are making this pilgrimage, that they may lay a wreath on "his" grave. Perhaps they will pause a moment and remember "him" as a little boy, as a school boy and later as a soldier.

They journey on the liner America.

The United States Army officers in charge of the pilgrimage arranged a tour of New York yesterday which took all afternoon.

The mothers, some of them for the first time, saw the Battery and Grant's Tomb and the Palisades.

Dinner last night in the main dining room of the Hotel Pennsylvania and early to bed was the program. They needed a good night's rest, for most of them arrived here early yesterday.

TAKEN ABOARD LINER

At 7 o'clock this morning, they were called and they breakfasted at 8. Everything was taken care of and they were taken to the boat on special busses. The boat was scheduled to sail at 11 o'clock.

For some of the mothers, it is the first vacation in 30 years. One said:

"It seems so funny having everything done for you, especially when you've been doing housework and getting breakfast year in and year out."

Most of the mothers, when they mention their sons, speak of how old "he would be if he were living."

There was Mrs. Margaret E. Lacey, of Pittsburgh, who said Walter would have been 38 if he hadn't been gassed, adding:

"Walter, my son, was such a talented boy. He was a wireless operator and went up in balloons. When he went to France, I had a wireless set made for him in Pittsburgh, because the government was all out of sets.

WROTE CHEERY LETTERS

"He wrote such interesting letters right up until the time he died. They were so cheery. In one of them, he told us about the time he played the piano for some officers in a French provincial chateau and the major, 'Raspaw,' as they called him, had tears in his eyes when 'Home, Sweet Home,' was played."

"What paper will you put this in?"

Told it would be printed in the Sun-Telegraph, she said:

"Why, that's my paper in Pittsburgh. I have it sent to me wherever I go and am going to have it follow me to France if I can. You know I'm a real Pittsburgher. I'm from the Twentieth Ward."

BAD SIX SONS IN WAR

Mrs. Clara E. Rodgers, of Pittsburgh, said she had six sons in the war. One is Lieut. Com. Bertram S. Rodgers, in charge of the dirigible Los Angeles. Her pretty daughter, Miss Blanche M. Rodgers, is going along, too. It's their first trip to Europe, Mrs. Rodgers said:

"My son Norman died after the armistice was signed.

"My boy died of pneumonia. Of course, I have my five other sons and my daughter, but Norman was—was my boy."

Mrs. Laura W. Insley, of Pittsburgh, looked as if she might have had a husband in the war. She seemed so young, but her son was only 18 when he enlisted. She declared:

"Jack was so young when he went away. He wanted to go over terribly, so we let him. He was killed while carrying messages in Belleau Woods. He was a runner, you see. Jack is buried in the Aisne-Marne Cemetery. I am glad he is buried where he fell, in France."

Some of the other Pittsburgh mothers who sail today are Mrs. Mary Killen, Mrs. Frank C. Paul and Mrs. Margaret Schumucker.

MOFFETT URGES BILLION SPENT FOR NAVY

Air Chief Says Building Up To Limit of Treaty Good Investment to Avert War

BAY CITY, Mich., July 30.—(AP.)—The expenditure of nearly $1,000,000,000 on the Navy was urged as a good "investment" here last night in a speech by Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the Navy's Bureau of Aeronautics, at services dedicating a new airport.

Admiral Moffett dedicated the airport to the memory of James Clements, the first Michigan aviator killed overseas. He said:

"The cost of building to the London treaty navy has been estimated by the general board to be $950,000,000, to be expended over a period of six years, while the expenditure by the Veterans' Bureau for veterans of the last war is more than $500,000,000 annually.

"I know of no better investment for the United States—the expenditure of $990,000,000 for building to the treaty navy. By doing so, we will maintain our self-respect and prestige as a nation, our force for peace, be able to prevent another war, the cost of which will be billions instead of millions.

"Had we had a navy commensurate with our population and resources as a nation in 1914, there would have been no war."

many changes in the administration. These, it was said, will be where an administrator has been found better suited for direction instead of field work, and where new divisions are to be created for the better regulation of industrial alcohol and breweries.

DRASTIC ENFORCEMENT

The President, it was understood, was to send a special message today to the administrators through Attorney General Mitchell, telling them that he expects to see the new dry unit launch upon a campaign of drastic law enforcement and put to the supreme test the question of whether the dry law can be enforced.

Administrators attending the conference today were Jonathan S. Lewis, Boston; Andrew McCampbell, New York City; John Pennington, Philadelphia; R. Q. Merrick, Richmond, Va.; Robert F. Tuttle, New Orleans; W. N. Woodruff, Cincinnati; J. F. J. Herbert, Chicago; M. L. Harney, St. Paul; George H. Wark, Kansas City; John P. Vivian, Denver; William G. SCHOOL LASHING ACCUSATIONS PROBED

New Hampshire Governor's Council Considers Plea To Sift Charge of Cruelty

International News Service.

CONCORD, N. H., July 30.—Gov. Charles W. Tobey and his executive council, at their meeting today, had before them a demand for a thorough public investigation of charges of "barbaric treatment" at the State Industrial School.

The demand was made by Charles S. Emerson, of Milford, deposed chairman of the board of trustees of the school.

Chairman Thomas J. Conway, of the trustees, also sought an "impartial investigation."

DENIES CHARGE

"It is specifically denied," said Emerson in a statement, "that as many as 100 blows were ever struck with the hose pipe at one time upon any pupil, that any of the forms of punishment described ever applied to a girl."

He called attention to the fact that pupils came to the school only after all corrective processes of their homes have failed.

"The source of evidence so far presented in this case is the girls who have received the punishment complained of and presumably they have told their story as truthfully as the type of girl giving evidence regarding themselves could under the circumstances be expected to do," he said.

AWAIT QUIZ, IS PLEA

Some form of punishment was necessary for the maintenance of order, he said, and such punishment must be graded according to the offense.

He asked the public to withhold judgment pending "the findings of a public investigation." The Governor's probe, Emerson said, was made while the superintendent and matron were on leaves of absence and the testimony was never offered to him as a trustee.

Russ Government Considers Action to Get Damages For Ban; Ships Recalled

International News Service.

BERLIN, July 30. — The Soviet government is considering suing the United States for damages as a result of the Treasury Department's refusal to permit ships to land Soviet lumber in United States ports, the Soviet trade commissary announced today, according to a Telegraphen Union dispatch from Kovno.

The dispatch added that the commissar had instructed all ships laden with Soviet lumber, bound for United States ports, to return to Europe.

U. S. HEARS PROTESTS

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(AP.)—The troubled aspect of Russian imports again engaged Treasury officials today as Assistant Secretary Lowman considered the latest appeals against the order barring importation of pulpwood from the Soviet republic.

While agitation continued for wholesale prohibition of imports from Russia, authoritative word came that the American government would not take such action, and would not let the question of its diplomatic non-recognition of Russia affect the trade relations of the two countries.

The recent order barring shipments of Russian pulpwood on the ground it was partially produced by convict labor met with determined protests yesterday from the Amtorg Trading Corporation, which handles Russian trade interests in this country, and from American paper manufacturers, ship owners and charterers as well as an organization of stevedores.

DELAY SOUGHT

The appellants asked that if the order were not canceled its applications be postponed 90 days to prevent serious loss to the livelihood for unloading the vessels.

A decision on these appeals was promised within two days. Lowman yesterday, however, said no one had shown convict labor had not entered into production of the pulp. He gave the Russians leave to submit any evidence on this point.

Under the tariff law convict-made goods are barred from entry, whatever the country of origin.

MERGER AUDITS UNDER FIRE

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 30.—(AP.)—Attorneys for the Cyrus S. Eaton interests, who are seeking to enjoin merger of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company with Bethlehem Steel Corporation, began laying the groundwork today for an attack upon the audits of the two steel firms which preceded their contract to merge.

William N. McDonald, comptroller of the Youngstown company, was called for cross-examination by the Eaton attorneys to furnish and identify data which he turned over to Ernst & Ernst, auditors, prior to their check of the company's accounts. The data included a schedule of maintenance and repairs from 1924 to 1929.

Eaton counsel have indicated they will launch a thorough-going inquiry into the audit of Bethlehem Corporation made by Price, Waterhouse & Co. The merger contract, they contend, was based on the Price, Waterhouse audit and was unfair to the Youngstown company.

With this phase of the suit in progress, there were predictions current that the plaintiffs' case will be complete by the end of this week.

Circus Fans Resent G. O. P.'s Elephant

DES MOINES, Ia., July 30.—(AP.)—The circus fans of America, waxing jestful, in convention here, picked on the elephant-emblem of the Republican party yesterday.

They adopted a resolution pointing out that the elephant is also the emblem of their own organization. The resolution added that "It is quite embarrassing for circus fans to be mistaken for Republicans."

Air Derby Fliers Hop for Nebraska

OGDEN, Utah, July 30.—(INS.)—With cool weather prevailing and clear skies overhead, 10 entrants in the National Air Derby race, from Detroit to Los Angeles and return, started their long flight to Lincoln, Neb., today.

GRILL ACCUSER OF MOONEY

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30.—(INS.)—Edwin McKenzie, attorney for Warren K. Billings, today will resume his cross-examination of John MacDonald, recanting witness in the trial of Tom Mooney and Billings, who branded himself a perjurer yesterday at a hearing before seven justices of the State Supreme Court.

The cross-questioning will be resumed at 10 a. m., when the Supreme Court justices resume their extraordinary hearing. It is to enable the Supreme Court to determine whether it shall recommend to Gov. C. C. Young that he consider a pardon for Billings, now in Folsom prison.

BALTIMORE, July 30.—(AP.)—State's Attorney Herbert R. O'Conor said today he would telegraph additional information to the California authorities, showing John McDonald, Mooney-Billings case witness, to be "untrustworthy and unreliable."

He reiterated that the Baltimore waiter, taken into custody after being sought for years, declared here, in the presence of police officials, that his testimony exonerating Mooney did not apply to Billings.

Pittsburgh Priest Off to War Zone

OSSINING, N. Y., July 30.—(AP.)—Nine missionaries of the Catholic Foreign Mission Society of America and a physician set out today for posts in China and Korea, undaunted by reports of civil war, banditry and bloodshed in the countries to which they go.

The 10 include the Rev. Leo W. Hewitt, Cumberland, Md.; the Rev. Thomas Rae Donovan, 324 Second avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa., and the Rev. Walter Coleman, Minneapolis, Minn.

W. Va. Man Kills Himself in Hospital

BALTIMORE, July 30.—(INS.)—Ludwig Buttina, 28, of Western County, West Virginia, today committed suicide at Johns Hopkins Hospital, where he was a patient.

Butina, who was brought to the hospital for an operation, broke a glass feeding tube and stabbed himself in the throat.

Cuts Hole in House And Takes Furnace

SIOUX CITY, Ia., July 30.—(AP.)—Some varmint accomplished an amazing burglary here within the past day or two.

He chopped a hole in the side of a vacant house, John Carpenter, the caretaker, discovered it. The hole was made so the thief could steal the furnace, and he got away with it.

BURNS FATAL TO GIRL

Albert Higgins, 5, of 6 Tecumseh street, learned tearfully today that his playmate, Mary Juarin, 6, of 4 Tecumseh street, had died from burns in Mercy Hospital.

Albert made a heroic effort to extinguish Mary's flaming clothing last night, according to residents of the neighborhood, when her dress caught fire as a group of children played with burning paper.

He threw his arms around the little girl and tried to beat out the blaze, but was unable. His fingers were slightly burned. Other children ran from the scene, crying for help.

Wi'h baskets of leaves, George Dias and his wife ran from their yard at 10 Tecumseh street. Dias, with the leaves, and Mrs. Dias, with her apron, succeeded in smothering the flames. They suffered burns on the hands.

Mary died at 10 o'clock this morning.

Plays 200 Holes, Loses 7 Pounds

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 30.—(INS.)—Leo De Korn, New York business man and former University of Pennsylvania athlete, was suffering from aching feet and the loss of seven pounds today—the result of playing 200 holes of golf.

DEATH AUTOISTS SEEK BAIL

Habeas corpus proceedings were begun in Criminal Court today to obtain the release on bail of Frank Kubiszewska and Frank Novak, alleged hit-run autoist held in jail on charges of murder.

Judge S. H. Gardner set tomorrow morning for a hearing.

The two defendants were in an automobile, driven by Kubiszewska, which ran into a group of children playing in Lawn street, last Friday, it is alleged killing William Harris, 6, and injuring four others. Coroner McGregor ordered both held for murder.

FOSTER NAMED LINGLE KILLER

CHICAGO, July 30.—(AP.)—Frank Foster, Chicago gunman indicted for the slaying June 9 of Alfred (Jake) Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, today was identified as the slayer of the newspaperman by Policeman Anthony Ruthy who pursued Lingle's assailant across Michigan boulevard from the pedestrian tunnel, scene of the assassination.

Ruthy's identification of Foster broke with dramatic suddenness in court today as attorneys for Foster sought to obtain his release on bail. The patrolman said he was positive Foster was the man he chased through traffic after Lingle had been slain.

Rosendahl Awaits Arrival of R-100

MONTREAL, Que., July 30.—(AP.)—Charles E. Rosendahl, U. S. N., former commander of the Los Angeles, arrived today to witness arrival of the British dirigible R-100.

He expressed keen interest in the new ship, which is larger than either the Los Angeles or the German Graf Zeppelin, in both of which he has crossed the Atlantic.

Princess Binds Hurts of Soldier

PISA, Italy, July 30.—(AP.)—Princess Giovanna, the King's 22-year-old daughter, has been trained well by the Red Cross as Danta Morani, an artilleryman, can testify. Thrown from his horse, he was lying bleeding in the road when the princess came upon him in her motor car. She bound up his wounds and had her chauffeur exceed the speed limit in reaching a hospital.

Hoover Urges U. S. Bureaus Economize

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(AP.)—President Hoover again has urged government departments and agencies to expedite plans to economize on expenditures during the present fiscal year with a view to meeting a possible reduction in revenues because of business conditions.

PEN DRUG PLOT INVOLVES 15

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(INS.)—After several months of investigation the Department of Justice and the Federal Narcotic Bureau have solved the mystery of extensive drug smuggling into the annex at Leavenworth (Kans.) Penitentiary, having arrested 15 persons in various sections of the country, it was announced today.

Among the prisoners was the alleged ringleader, Margaret Horan, of New York, who, officials of the Narcotic Bureau said, was furnishing drugs to relatives and friends of the prisoners in Nashville, Louisville and Bowling Green, Ky., who in turn mailed the narcotics to a guard at the prison, and through him it was transmitted to the prisoners.

The other defendants include relatives and friends of the prisoners, the guard, four prisoners and two physicians. An investigation is continuing at Leavenworth which may involve other prisoners.

A sweetheart of Miss Horan was a prisoner at Leavenworth, according to officials.

Heart Attack Kills Bather After Dive

SCRANTON, Pa., July 30.—(AP.)—Stricken with a heart attack as he plunged into a lake here, Elmer Cooper, 28, this city, was dead when removed from the water. Guards and doctors worked over Cooper for an hour and a half in an effort to revive him. The physicians found that no water had entered his lungs.

Alfonso Retrieves Youngsters' Ball

LONDON, July 30.—(AP.)—Some youngsters have discovered the identity of the man with a gold chain on his left wrist who retrieved a cricket ball they had knocked out of bounds recently in Hyde Park. He was King Alfonso of Spain. The chain was given him by Queen Ena when they became engaged. He has worn it ever since.

REDS PLOTTING, HAYS ADMITS

NEW YORK, July 30.—(AP.)—Arthur Garfield Hays, counsel for the Revolutionary Age and the Communist Party U. S. A. (the majority group), said in Federal Court here today that the aim of the party is "eventually" to overthrow the government of the United States. The leaders are not foolish enough to believe the overthrow could be brought about except by force, he added.

Hays made this statement in arguing for an order restraining Postmaster Kiely from interfering with transmission by mail of the Revolutionary Age. He said, however, that overthrow was out of the question at present, and upon this based his contention that the postoffice authorities should not interfere with dissemination of Communist views by mail.

United States Attorney Tuttle said the matter of freedom of speech and of the press was not an issue, the admitted aims of the Communists being what they are. The court reserved decision.

Exports to Russia Show Big Increase

NEW YORK — (AP.) — United States exports to Soviet Russia from January to June were almost triple the figure for the same period in 1929, while exports to all other nations except Mexico decreased.

Department of Commerce figures show Russia bought $64,424,521 worth of American goods between January 1 and June 1, compared with $23,217,477 in the corresponding period last year.

Solitude Now Worrying Perchers, Up 15 Days

Tree-sitting today assumed more serious proportions as Pittsburgh's champions droned into their fifteenth day aloft. The Gravely brothers with their cousin, Sam King, aloft in a locust and cherry tree, respectively, have passed the last few nights in the solitude that only a tree-sitter knows. The crowds which once gaped at the contestants now pass them by with little more than a passing glance.

With seven of its nine members engaged in tree-sitting, a playground baseball team from Homestead forfeited one of its games yesterday.

The mania has spread to Elizabeth, with two 12-year old boys expecting to remain at their posts until Labor day.

Labor difficulties among refueling crews were slightly nearer settlement today as several sitters agreed to eat only at specified hours.

Fiddling Mellie Will Try To Beat Turk's Age

NORWAY, Me., July 30.—(INS.)—Now that he's over the whooping cough—he whooped this summer just as lustily as a lad of 7—Mellie Dunham, famous fiddler, entering his seventy-seventh year today, predicted that he might live as long as Zaro Agha, the 156-year-old gentlemen from Turkey. Said Mellie:

"The papers say this Turk guy never drank a glass of whisky, whereas I have turned many upside down. The Turk had 11 wives. I have plodded along with only one."

Mellie patted "Gram's" gray head, recalling 55 years of married life.

Since their homestead was destroyed by flames, Mellie and "Gram" have been living in a little workshop, where he made snowshoes until Henry Ford brought "the champion fiddler of Maine" into the public spotlight. Despite the setback in losing their home and belongings they said on Mellie's birthday they were "happy as larks."

Mellie continued:

"I'd be glad to live my 77 years over again."

He plans a fiddling trip through New Hampshire this summer en route to wintering at St. Petersburg, Fla.

THE ROUTE TO MONTREAL OF THE R-100 IN ITS FIRST CROSSING OF THE ATLANTIC OCEAN

Dirigible Passes Half-Way Mark

of Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, and approximately 1,000 miles off the west coast of Ireland.

The message, picked up by the Louisburg radio station and relayed to London, said the airship was experiencing a temperature of 50 degrees, and that it had been in a cloud bank since 10:15 a. m. (6:15 a. m. Pittsburgh time). Before running into the cloud banks the ship encountered a long, drizzling rain.

The message ended with:

"Everything aboard O. K."

Nursed along by the finest crew Britain could gather and commanded by the youthful yet seasoned squadron leader, R. S. Booth, the huge airship cruised along her course throughout the night at a speed averaging between 50 and 60 miles per hour. Based on this estimate and provided a speed in the vicinity of that average is maintained through the remainder of the flight, the 3,000 miles between her home base at Cardington and Montreal should be completed in 60 to 70 hours, a little less than three days. This would indicate that the R-100 is expected to appear within sight of her goal tomorrow.

AVOIDS STORM

An unexpected storm cutting into his path off the North Irish coast decided Squadron Leader Booth, in consultation with the rest of his staff, to abandon the far northern route and push straight across the Atlantic by the shortest east-to-west line, hugging closely the great circle course of steamships.

Slight headwinds replaced the stormy weather as the nose of the R-100 pointed along its new course, accepted with the elaborate meteorological advice furnished by the British Air Ministry. Taking bearings from Slyne Head, Ireland, a westerly point of Erin's Isle, the dirigible coursed fairly steadily along the fifty-third parallel slightly north of the great circle route.

"At 1 a. m. (8 p. m. Pittsburgh time) Booth notified the Air Ministry radio station that his position was approximately 850 miles due west of Cardington Airfield, from which the ship took off at 10:45 p. m. Monday, Pittsburgh time.

COMFORT ON BOARD

Wireless and radio communication with the huge squat-shape over the middle of the Atlantic Ocean and ships at sea and land stations has continued uninterrupted, keeping a fairly accurate picture before the world of life aboard a trans-Atlantic dirigible, the 44 members of crew and technical observers on the flight, intent on establishing a new link between Canada and England, quickly "settled down to normal routine."

Sheltered from the bitter cold outside and enjoying meals that compare with those in the best hotels, the crew members were mixing pleasure with duty and enjoying the novel mode of travel. A luxurious lounge, spacious cabins and promenade decks were at their disposal, and under certain restrictions even smoking was allowed.

The six powerful motors hummed monotonously over the vast expanse of the ocean, and occasionally a clear patch offered a view of a steamer coursing along far below. The R-100 flew at a height of approximately 2,500 feet.

BRITAIN JUBILANT

Britain, watching the dubious progress made at the start by the fastest airliner ever built with anxious interest, was jubilant today as optimistic and encouraging reports were received from the dirigible. Dismayed by recurrent warnings and criticisms flung out freely by politicians and others on the impracticability of the ship, the British public experienced an added thrill when late reports indicated that the R-100 would successfully achieve its destination. Completion of the cruise will also signify Britain's challenge to Germany in the matter of supremacy in airliners.

Although the present flight was frankly heralded as nothing more or less than an experimental one, indications are that regular passenger and mail service between England and Canada will be announced shortly. No paying passengers, no mails and no freight were accepted this trip, but a full commercial cargo probably will be accepted next time. The R-100 has accommodations for 100 passengers, in addition to a crew of 38 men.

Its average speed is 81.05 miles per hour, or an advantage of nearly five miles per hour over that of the Graf Zeppelin. In addition, the comforts offered by the R-100 far exceed those of the German ship.

MONTREAL PREPARES

MONTREAL, July 30.—(AP.)—A large force of troops and police was encamped at the St. Hubert Airport today ready to handle the crowds which are expected to welcome the British dirigible R-100.

Officials expect the huge liner to reach St. Hubert before 8 p. m. tomorrow. The Dominion Meteorological Bureau has forecast favorable weather over the Gulf of St. Lawrence which may enable the ship to better an estimate of 70 hours for the flight.

Cloudy and foggy conditions probably will be encountered off Newfoundland but no storms are expected.

Weather Conditions.

The northwestern high spread considerably farther eastward, but the center is still in the Northwest, over North Dakota and Saskatchewan. It covers practically all of the interior of the country. Low pressure areas are centered off the Atlantic coast, and a trough extends westward over the Gulf states into the far Southwest. There were scattered showers in the Gulf states, the Central plains and Rocky Mountain states, but the rainfall was very light. Temperature changes were slight, towards cooler over the eastern half and warmer over the West.

Aviation Bulletin.

The skies are mostly clear east of the Mississippi and the ceiling is unlimited. Visibility ranges from three miles to unlimited; wind, light, from the West or Southwest. There are no low pressure areas, except off the Atlantic coast and a high centered over the Northern plains covers most of the interior of the country.

Good flying weather will continue tonight and Thursday.

FREE GIRL, MAN GIVEN $50 FINE

Eleanor Bankert, 18, of Charles street, North Side, was discharged and her companion, who told police he was "Col." Bractick, 30, of 919 Federal street, North Side, was fined $50 or 60 days in jail on a suspicious person charge by Magistrate Thomas D. Jones today in Morals Court.

Both were arrested by detectives yesterday in Federal street.

The Bankert girl testified that she became acquainted with Bractick less than a week ago, and at his instigation quit her job to live with him as his common-law wife.

DEMANDS P.R.R. GIVE UP STOCK

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(INS.)—Counsel for the Interstate Commerce Commission today asked the commission to issue an order directing the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Pennsylvania Company to divest themselves of stock they now hold in the Wabash and Lehigh Valley Railroads.

More than a year ago the commission filed complaint against the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Pennsylvania Company under the Clayton anti-trust act.

The theory upon which the complaint was founded was that the Pennsylvania Company, which took title to the acquired stock, was the agent or instrumentality of the Pennsylvania Railroad, which latter thus "indirectly" acquired this stock.

Wheeling Man Gets Building-Loan Post

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., July 30.—(AP.)—K. S. Coleman, of Wheeling, W. Va., was elected vice president of the National Association of Building and Loan Supervisors at a meeting of the national organization here.

Mother May Face Charge Of Kidnaping Own Child

COLUMBUS, O., July 30.—(INS.)—Whether Mrs. Ethel Evans, 30-year-old divorcee, and Jacob Simpson shall be returned to Danville, Ill., to face charges of kidnaping the woman's daughter, Grace, aged 4, will be determined at a hearing before Gov. Myers Y. Cooper here this afternoon.

Mrs. Evans claims she "lent" the child to her sister, Mrs. Otto Schaffer, wife of a Danville detective, so the sister might pose as a mother and thereby share in an estate.

The mother claims the little girl was to be returned to her and that she was to receive $1,000 from the Schaffers for aiding them in inheriting the estate, to gain which it had been stipulated Mrs. Schaffer must be a mother.

Mrs. Evans alleges the Schaffers failed to return 4-year-old Grace and also neglected to pay her the claimed $1,000.

Simpson drove Mrs. Evans to Danville.

The woman and Simpson, arrested, are at liberty under bonds.

Schaffer declared Mrs. Evans "gave" her daughter to his wife and that they had legally adopted the child.

HUNT MISSING GIRL, 13

Police of the Pittsburgh district today were searching for Florence Needham, 13, of 200 Trenton avenue, Wilkinsburg, who disappeared late yesterday in Westinghouse Park, Homewood.

Edwin Smith, 10, of 106 Trenton avenue, who had gone to the park with her shortly after noon, told police Florence wanted to go to Cleveland to see two sisters.

Edwin went home, but said nothing of the incident to his parents. Later in the evening he returned to the place where he had left the girl, and, not finding her, told his father and mother what had occurred.

Mrs. Mary Needham, with whom Florence lives, told police the girl's mother is dead and her father is employed on a British construction job in India. Recently the girl talked about going to Cleveland to visit her married sister.

Telephone calls to Cleveland today revealed she had not appeared at her married sister's home or the homes of two aunts and a grandmother.

CHINESE REDS BURN CITY

LONDON, July 30.—(INS.)—Valuable American property, including the offices of the Standard Oil and Texas Oil companies, has been burned down by the frenzied horde of Communists which has taken possession of Changsha, it was stated in dispatches to the evening newspapers today.

Eight thousand Communist troops are in full control of the city, the messages said, executing prominent Chinese residents and holding others for ransom.

Approximately 10,000 Chinese inhabitants have fled the city, and all but five foreigners have been evacuated on American and British gunboats. Fate of the remaining five, who were captured by the invading troops, is still unknown.

The Communists are engaged in a systematic orgy of looting. All government buildings and foreign properties have been burned. The loot from the ravaged buildings is being distributed among the mob of Communists on the argument that all goods rightly belong to the proletariat.

With virtually the entire city in flames, the Communists have completely routed the government forces and are pushing the latter to the westward.

America to Defy Paris On Long Skirt Edict

NEW YORK, July 30.—(INS.)—Makers of dresses in America announced today they would oppose the plans of French dressmakers to lengthen skirts.

Both the Associated Dress Industries of America and the Industrial Council of Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers declared they would not join the French move to make skirts even longer and that their models will follow the present "medium long" length style.

MINING NOTICE STIRS FOLK IN MT. LEABNON

Property Owners Warned By Pittsburgh Coal Co. That Supports Are to Go

erty owners to assure support for the surface if they wish to do so; they are under no compulsion or pressure whatever.

BUILDINGS MENACED

"This mining area has been under constant operation for about 30 years. The custom is to proceed to the limit of the property, leaving areas as large as a city block where the surface is supported by pillars of coal. This development has reached its limit and, in mining parlance, we are about to begin the 'retreat,' that is, working back and removing all unmined coal, including these supporting pillars, as we go.

"Since the coal at this point is 300 feet deep, these operations may cause minor subsidence on the surface—possibly enough to throw a building out of plumb sufficiently to prevent doors closing and the like—but there won't be any holes opening through the ground.

"No, there is no law which makes the company responsible in the event of such surface damage. That might be true in case we held only limited mining rights, but where we hold complete rights, as is the case generally, the company would not be liable for damages.

"We are not proposing to injure any one. The coal companies acquired their property long before these buildings were erected in Mt. Lebanon. Every one knew that coal mining was in progress.

YEAR'S "WARNING"

"The company is making this offer now, a year in advance of the actual work we propose, in order to give everyone who is affected an opportunity to safeguard his property.

"This same matter probably will come up again later, in two or three years, when similar operations are undertaken in some other district. We hope to be able to make the same opportunities available to property owners then."

Edmundson declared the company's action "a farcical scheme to collect money from property owners for coal which may or may not be under their property." Edmundsen said:

"Since May, when these letters were first sent out I have had numerous inquiries from property owners as to what to do about buying the coal that is supposed to be under their land.

"I am personally satisfied that the process of removing the stumps or pillars of coal would be too expensive and dangerous a matter for the Pittsburgh Coal Company to attempt and it would not pay.

"This looks to me like a scheme to collect money from property owners for coal which may or may not be under the property now. I am so thoroughly convinced that the proposition is farcical that I would not, even if I had the money to spare, buy the coal under my own property."

"BLUFF" SUSPECTED

There is no way of determining whether a property has been undermined except from the company's maps or by survey at prohibitive cost, it was pointed out.

If the coal company does remove the remaining coal it will be taken out of the mines at the Mansfield mine, Carnegie. Other openings of the company at Saw Mill Run and Castle Shannon have been abandoned.

Coal company surveyors have been running lines in Mt. Lebanon recently. Edmundson, said, "probably for the psychological effect this might have on property owners who would conclude that they must act immediately to protect their properties."

MAIN HIGHWAY SAFE

Purchase of the coal underlying the new $250,000 municipal building of Mt. Lebanon was authorized by the township commissioners at their meeting Monday night. This action, according to Township Manager G. J. Irwin, was taken to forestall any future criticism of the officials in the event that there ever is any settling of the building. Irwin said:

"This action was taken not because of any fear of the undermining of the property but to forestall any future blame that might be attached to the commissioners as not having taken every precaution to safeguard the public interest."

Washington road, the main street of Mt. Lebanon, is not affected by the proposed activities of the company. Irwin explained that this road was dedicated as a public highway before the coal rights were sold and the coal the Pittsburgh Coal Company intends to remove is on the east and west sides of the road. The mining rights, he said, prohibit removal of the coal from under the roadway.

Punxsutawney Man Dies in Auto Crash

DUBOIS, Pa., July 30.—Paul Fackiner, 27, of Punxsutawney, died in a Dubois hospital early today of injuries suffered half an hour earlier when an auto crashed into a parked moving van on the Lakes-to-Sea highway near here.

Paul Weiss, of Punxsutawney, suffered a broken jaw, and his wife, Mrs. Vivian K. Weiss, was hurt internally. All were occupants of the car owned and driven by George Harwick, also of Punxsutawney. Harwick, himself injured, was arrested.

Coal Company Defends Removal

The Pittsburgh Coal Company's official statement regarding the removal of "pillar coal" in Mt. Lebanon, given out by C. E. Lesher, vice president, is as follows:

Thirty years ago, when the Pittsburgh Coal Company was organized the Mansfield mine owned by the Mansfield Coal Company was made a part of the new company.

The property of the old company included a pit mouth and tipple near Carnegie and about 4,000 acres of coal land lying to the east under what is now generally known as the South Hills were assigned to this operation.

The Mansfield mine, first known as the Bell mine, was opened in September, 1882, nearly 48 years ago. Title to the coal and mining rights were acquired for nearly all this area about this time.

Twenty years ago, before the present development of Mt. Lebanon, the last acreage tributary to this mine was acquired by the present owners. Thus, when the original surface owners sold the coal companies the coal and the right to complete mining the buildings that now cover Mt. Lebanon had not been built.

DENIES LIABILITY

The coal company owns the coal and has the right to mine that coal without liability to surface owners.

In the years that have passed since coal mining was started here, title to the surface has passed, with respect to most tracts, through several, if not many, hands, but always subject to the reservation that the coal owners had the right to remove all coal without liability to surface owners.

From the time the Pittsburgh Coal Company was organized up till now there have been mined more than 9,600,000 tons of coal through the Mansfield pit mouth. The underground workings extended at one time east nearly to Castle Shannon, on the south to Beadling, and on the north to Banksville. But now the main body of coal accessible to the pit mouth has been taken out and there remain comparatively narrow strips bordering the haulage entries.

Such a strip, from 400 to 600 feet wide, crosses Washington avenue in Mt. Lebanon at Central Square, extending across the town from east to west, with smaller strips projecting off to the north and south at several points.

In the operation of Mansfield mine the time has been reached when this "pillar coal" will be mined. Although it is presumed that, as a matter of common knowledge, all surface owners in this township are informed of the possibility of surface cracks from coal mining, the Pittsburgh Coal Company has attempted to advise the owners of surface under which final mining of coal is soon to be undertaken that coal support can be acquired.

From time to time in the past, owners of surface have arranged with the Pittsburgh Coal Company and with other coal companies for coal support for railroads, street car lines, public utilities, public institutions, as well as many private dwellings.

THUGS KIDNAP TWO WOMEN

CHICAGO, July 30.—(INS.)—Two men flourishing revolvers entered the Baroness Hotel early today and kidnaped two young women guests from their rooms.

Posing as police detectives, the gunmen made Andrew Blackman, the night clerk, show the way to Apartment 116. Entering, they forced the two occupants, Mrs. Dorothy Doyle, 26, and Mrs. Eppa Davis, to accompany them. Both women were clad in night clothing. One of the men struck Mrs. Davis on the head with his revolver.

The kidnapers forced Blackman to accompany them in the automobile which they used for a getaway. He was later thrown from the car and reported to police that the gunmen made repeated threats to kill the two women.

PITTSBURGHER PROMOTED

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(AP.)—Five residents of Pennsylvania in the foreign service of the United States were promoted to higher grades and salaries by the Department of State. Those promoted, the grade achieved and new salary follow:

Frederick T. F. Dumont, Lancaster, Class 2 to 1, $9,000; Pierre Boal, Boalsburg, Class 4 to 3, $7,000; Joseph Black Noble, Wainwright Abbot, Pittsburgh, and Edward I. Nathan, Philadelphia, from Class 5 to 4, $6,000.

6 Dry Agents Best 100 Gunmen in Fight

NEW YORK, July 30.—(INS.)—The "Battle of Brooklyn Bridge" was fought early today as six Federal agents and 100 gangsters clashed over a cargo of liquor which was being transferred from a municipal garage scow to a street cleaning department dock.

After a gun battle the agents won and 22 men were captured—two wearing uniforms of the white-wing department. Two five-ton trucks loaded with liquor were taken.

TWO DROWNING SISTERS SAVED

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 30.—(AP.)—Two Baltimore women, Mrs. Adeline M. Williams, 38, and her sister, Mrs. Ruth Robinson, 25, were taken from the Chesapeake Bay yesterday by Harry Klawans, Annapolis merchant, after Mrs. Williams stepped in a hole and her sister went to her rescue.

The women were brought to the Emergency Hospital by the Naval Hospital ambulance following application of respiration by members of the Annapolis fire department's rescue squad.

Real Estate

As a result of the extraordinary season of dry weather, unusual progress has been made in building operations and road building contracts. Sub-divisions where the improvements included the grading and paving of streets will be ready for the market earlier than had been planned, and many new home owners will move into their residences August 1 instead of September 1 or October 1, as they had planned last spring.

The Freehold Real Estate Company has had just two showers since it began grading its Brookside Farms addition. These rains occurred at night and did not stop the work. Henry Busse, contractor, who broke ground March 16 for St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Mt. Lebanon, has worked on without delays on account of the weather. As a result he is more than four weeks ahead of his schedule. The church will be opened in October.

Local contractors are submitting bids for the erection of two additional cottages on the grounds of the Pennsylvania Training School at Morganza. Each building will contain 40 rooms. The bids will be opened August 7 by B. E. Taylor, secretary of the state department of property and supplies. Eric Fisher Wood and associates are the architects.

Oscar Larson, 438 Winterhill street, is having plans drawn for a 32-family apartment building in Summerlea street. Geisler & Smithyman are the architects.

Dr. D. E. Sable, Pittsburgh police surgeon, will build a new residence at Bartlett and Wightman streets. Sub-bids are now being received.

Emma P. Schoerner has purchased from Walter P. Frazer a property in Denham street, Twenty-fifth Ward, for $5,500, the lot being 35 by 86 feet.

The first unit of six houses in a development which will number 50 moderate price homes in Greentree Borough has been announced. The plans have been completed by Theodore Eicholtz, architect. The name of the owner is withheld.

P. C. Holmes has been awarded the contract for a new two-story brick dwelling to be erected in the Wellington Heights plan, West View, for Dr. Kenneth P. Miller. It is situated on the Perry highway and occupies a lot 50 by 150 feet.

Driver Faces Hearing After Auto Crash

P. W. Hobson, of Grandview avenue, will be arraigned in Traffic Court, the result of an auto accident on Noblestown road last Friday, when Mrs. Hilda Grumbling, 619 Clearview avenue, a victim of the accident is able to appear at the hearing. Mrs. Grumbling and her daughter, Bessie Jane, were both severely bruised when the two cars collided. Hobson also is under the care of a physician.

EAGELS ESTATE $88,974.52

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 30.—(INS.)—Jeanne Eagels, star of Rain and other stage productions, left a gross estate of $88,974.52 when she died about a year ago, it was revealed through the filing in the Surrogate's Court here of a transfer tax appraisal.

The appraisal values the net estate left by Miss Eagels at $58,637.89.

Miss Eagels' mother, Mrs. Julia Eagels, of Kansas City, Mo., is the sole legatee and also is executrix of the estate.

Miss Eagels' home in Ossining was valued at $37,668.50, her Hispano Suiza car was appraised at $600, and miscellaneous effects at $16,719. Miss Eagels left $29,840.65 in cash.

Carton Factory Now in Operation

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., July 30.—The carton plant of the Fort Wayne Corrugated Paper Company began operation yesterday, employing 35 men and women. That number will be doubled in the near future when all machinery is installed.

SKY CLEAR, BOLT KILLS BOY

YORK, Pa., July 30.—(AP.)—Struck by a bolt of lightning from a clear sky, Albert Ingoe, 18-year-old boy, was killed while at work in a field near New Park. His father, J. Alex Ingoe, and his three brothers, working nearby, were stunned.

Several miles distant, about the same time, lightning struck the barn on the Clyde Riale farm, tenanted by Albert Shenberger, and the structure and contents were destroyed with a loss placed at $3,000.

At Delta, York County, hail as big as walnuts, fell, stripping trees and gardens of foliage. The greenhouse of William Ellis was ruined.

FUND SHORTAGE HOLDING UP AIRPORT

$2,000,000 in 1928. That amount has been absorbed, with the exception of about $200,000 according to report.

MORE MONEY NEEDED

Brown declared the $2,000,000 was only for the acquisition of land and the grading of the site. He did not explain why no steps have been taken to provide funds for the construction of necessary buildings on the site, although the County Commissioners were said to have been aware a year ago that additional funds would be required.

Brown stated:

"The grading and sub-drainage of the municipal airport, funds for which were provided in the 1928 county bond issue and by appropriation by the City Council of Pittsburgh, is now completed and the next step of surfacing and erecting necessary buildings and appurtenances is to be determined."

AMPLE ACREAGE

Brown explained that 188 acres of land has been purchased, the board of viewers has made awards on 244 acres, and another 110 acres are in condemnation proceedings. That total of 462 acres will provide an A-1-A flying field in accordance with the United States government requirements, Brown said.

He declared the actual amount of money that will be required for the county to obtain final title to the total acreage is not determined, as appeals to the courts from the Board of Viewers' valuations may be made either by the county or the property owners.

The construction stages of the airport have now reached the status where the County Commissioners are to determine to what extent the ultimate airport will be developed for immediate use, the director stated.

Explaining the plan for development of the airport, Director Brown said:

"From year to year the Board of County Commissioners will be called upon to decide to what extent the airport, as set forth on the ultimate plans, will be brought to completion. This elastic arrangement of completing the ultimate airport is consistent with the modern method of developing any large project, municipal or otherwise.

"In the instance of modern airports, as with the entire aviation industry, a judicious balance must be struck between over-building and at the same time not handicapping the enterprise by inadequate facilities.

"After the municipal airport is in operation for a period of time, the future extensions can be more accurately gauged than the extension now under consideration, because the actual experience from operating the airport will furnish the basis as to how much further the project should be developed."

Mexican Assailant Balked at Flight

MEXICO CITY, July 30.—(AP)—Daniel Flores, who attempted to assassinate President Ortiz Rubio at his inauguration last February, tried to escape yesterday when taken to Chapultepec Castle for a talk with the President. He was struck on the head with a rifle and subdued.

Red Refuel Plane 240 Hours in Air

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., July 30.—(AP)—The Red monoplane attempting to break the 554-hour refueling endurance record of the Hunters approached its two hundred and fortieth hour aloft today. Last night's severe storm made it necessary to put extra gas and oil aboard the plane at its regular refueling this morning.

Report Flier's Body Found In Wilds

LONDON, July 30.—(AP)—Advices from Rangoon say that the body of Eric Hook, English aviator, has been found in the Burmese wilds by an expedition of the London Daily Mail. Hook and James Matthews were attempting a flight from England to Australia when forced to land in the wilderness. Matthews reached safety.

Robert, 16, 1716 Maple street, Homestead, high school boy known as "Lindy" because of his resemblance, and Jack, 16, 117 Eighteenth avenue, Munhall, also a high school sophomore. Both disappeared July 12 and mothers think they'll be found in flying schools.

GIRL POISONED IN ERROR DIES

Poison tablets taken in mistake for medicine proved fatal today for Miss Sarah E. West, 19, of 201 West Seventh avenue, West Homestead, a Squirrel Hill exchange telephone operator, the morgue reported.

Miss West died in McKeesport hospital last night.

Complaining of a headache after her return from duty Saturday night, the girl went to the bathroom of her home to procure what she thought was a headache remedy. Her condition became aggravated a short time later.

Her mother, Mrs. Margaret Traynor, then made the discovery that poison had been taken by mistake.

5 of Family Hurt In Plunge of Auto

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., July 30.—(AP)—Five members of a Baltimore family were injured when their automobile fell about 20 feet down an embankment into a small creek several miles west of here. A punctured tire was believed to have caused the car to leave the road.

J. S. Wailes received internal injuries. Two daughters, Helen, 17, and Anna, 14, each suffered a broken right leg. Mrs. Wailes and another daughter were bruised.

Babe Found in Auto Puzzles Authorities

PRINCE FREDERICK, Md., July 30.—(AP)—Calvert County Hospital officials today were hosts to a 2-month-old baby girl, parents unknown.

Halle Shenton, Seaside Park employe, found the child in the driver's seat of his automobile.

Hospital doctors recalled that almost exactly a year ago a baby girl was abandoned at the park under almost identical circumstances.

RUM 'PAY-OFF' CASE DELAYED

The police trial board today refused to hear the cases of Motorcycle Patrolmen Harry Gordon and Henry Kahout suspended last week because the complainant, Mark Epstein, failed to appear.

Epstein is alleged to have informed Traffic Inspector Jacob Dorsey that he had paid $315 to the two officers after they had caught him transporting a truckload of whisky recently.

Attorney Louis Little was present for Epstein, but the board ruled Epstein must be present in person for the hearing. The case was held over until tomorrow on Little's promise to have his client present.

Mexican Diplomat And Writer Dies

MEXICO CITY, July 30.—(AP)—Jose F. Godoy, writer and diplomat, died at his home today. He was 79.

WOMAN DIES, 8 HURT IN BLAST

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 30.—(AP)—An exploding gas main killed a woman and injured eight children, three perhaps fatally, in a four-family dwelling in the village of Fairport, near here. The house was destroyed.

The dead woman is Mrs. John Cramer, 23, who lived in the house. Her 2-year-old daughter, Joyce, is in a Rochester hospital seriously burned. Five Hess children, three of whom are not expected to recover, were victims of the blast. Their parents, living next door, had left them at the Cramer home for the day. Other families in the dwelling were absent when the tragedy occurred.

Workmen repairing a sewer near the gas main are believed to have accidentally caused the explosion, which rocked the entire village.

Families Driven Out By Paint Shop Fire

NEW BRIGHTON, Pa., July 30.—Several families were driven into the street when fire broke out in the J. W. Book paint shop, Oak Hill, causing a $5,000 loss. The homes of M. J. White and John Ictroci were damaged. Mrs. Merle Householder, who had been ill, was carried from her home by firemen.

Injured by Auto Sues for $20,000

Suit for $20,000 damages is on file in Common Pleas Court today, brought by Joseph F. Baylos, of Oliphant Furnace, Fayette County, against Robert Benson, McKeesport, for injuries sustained June 17, when he says Benson's automobile knocked him down on the Fifth avenue bridge, McKeesport, breaking his leg and otherwise injuring him.

Young Swimmer, Hit By Lightning, Lives

LANCASTER, Pa., July 30.—(AP)—Fred Gould, Jr., 19, was knocked unconscious by a bolt of lightning while swimming in the Susquehanna River at Columbia.

Gould was climbing from the water to a bridge pier when struck and was knocked back into his canoe. A companion took him to shore, where he was revived. He suffered severe burns.

Pittsburgh Regiment, Held Best in Area, Continues Maneuvers at Tobyhanna

TOBYHANNA, Pa., July 30.—Following the announcement by Third Corps area headquarters that the One Hundred Seventy-sixth Field Artillery, Pittsburgh outfit now in camp here leads all regiments in the area, which includes not only Pennsylvania but Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia, officers and men are exceedingly anxious to excel all their previous records.

The announcement from Third Corps headquarters was especially significant in view of the fact that the One Hundred and Seventy-sixth was during the World War an infantry organization. Since 1921 Col. William R. Dunlap and his officers have developed an infantry organization into the most efficient artillery organization in its zone.

MANEUVERS SCHEDULED

The First and Second Battalions today will practice maneuvers limbered, which are the formations that the guns and caissons will take in preparation for the regimental review and field inspection Thursday.

This is the first time that the regiment has undergone such a complete inspection by the Regular Army officers.

BIVOUAC HELD

The First Battalion, under command of Maj. Nicholas J. Sepp, and the Second Battalion, under command of Maj. James A. Marrinan, have returned from overnight bivouac in the vicinity of Newfoundland some 15 miles from Tobyhanna.

The battalions both struggled with artillery problems in the afternoon, going into bivouac after the firing, and the following morning at 5 o'clock went into position for more firing problems, which continued throughout the day, the Third Battalion, commanded by Maj. Walter H. Frick, went into bivouac last night.

Gov. John S. Fisher paid a visit to the camp late yesterday. After watching some of the basic training routine, the Governor reviewed the infantry troops.

MT. GRETNA "DEFENDED"

MOUNT GRETNA, Pa., July 30.—(AP.)—The "safety" of Mount Gretna rested with the One Hundred and Fourth Cavalry, who set out early yesterday to defend the National Guard encampment from the advance of an imaginary enemy. The cavalry bivouacked last night at the Hammer Creek Pass, the key to the Lebanon Valley.

The entire regiment is participating in the maneuvers, which probably will last three days. On the final day some units of the One Hundred and Eleventh and One Hundred and Twelfth Infantry will take the part of the enemy and meet the cavalry in combat. Besides the main force of the imaginary enemy which was moving in from York and Gettysburg, the cavalry also had to prepare to meet another invading division from Lancaster.

WATER-LOGGED CARGO BLAMED IN SINKING

Limestone Saturated by Waves, Say Survivors at Quiz; No Boat Launched

ERIE, Pa., July 30.—(AP.)—A cargo of limestone, absorbing water tossed up by high waves, first caused the listing of the ill-fated sandsucker, George J. Whelan, which tipped over and sank early yesterday off Dunkirk, N. Y., with a loss of 15 lives, according to testimony given last night by surviving members of the crew.

The testimony was given before Capt. William P. Nolan and Capt. James M. Todd, federal inspectors.

The surviving sailors said the high waves were tossed up after the wind suddenly shifted and as the limestone absorbed more of the water the sandsucker began listing to port.

"TIME TO LAUNCH BOATS"

The crew then was called on deck, the survivors related, and sat down on the starboard side.

They testified there was ample time to get the life boats away after it became apparent that the boat would tip over, but the captain did not issue the orders.

The survivors testified the boat overturned so suddenly they were thrown clear, thus accounting for their escape. They said the boat left Sandusky at 7 o'clock Monday morning and was headed for Buffalo.

The boat formerly was a freighter but was transformed into a sandsucker this spring. The exact location of the sinking is believed to be 35 miles north of Erie.

The only officer saved was Irving Chlemacher, first mate. When the survivors were landed here this morning the first mate served as their spokesman.

Chlemacher said its was fortunate the steamer Amasa Stone happened along, adding that all six men would likely have perished if they had remained in the water many hours.

Capt. Waage, in command, had sailed the Great Lakes for more than a score of years. He was a Norwegian, and his widow and baby daughter are now visiting in Norway.

Fighting in Spanish Town Fatal to Five

MADRID, July 30.—(AP.)—Five persons are reported to have been killed and 20 wounded at Santiago de Casteneda in a free-for-all fight that broke out during celebration of a religious holiday.

Dispatches from the town, which is in an isolated region, said the fighting began between groups of young men from rival towns.

Sheer Fabrics in Dark Tones Are Smart

Pattern 1996

Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS.

A stunning frock for summer afternoons has a deep cape collar which attaches itself to a slenderizing front panel continuing from the curved neck to the gracefully flared skirt. Sleeve are optional. A narrow belt of the fabric may be worn wherever most becoming to the individual figure.

Pattern 1996 is charmingly made of voile georgette, chiffon, or dimity. I suggest black or dark blue dotted in white, green or pink. Two dainty flowers the shade of the dots would be delightful on the shoulder.

May be obtained only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 16 requires 4¼ yards of 39-inch material.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped, or stamps, for each pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

Our BOOK of PATTERNS for adults and children including transfer patterns, is FIFTEEN CENTS. Book with pattern, 25c. Address all mail and orders to Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

1.—Enclose 15 cents in coins.
2.—Write clearly NUMBERS of patterns and SIZE wanted.
3.—Write or print your NAME and ADDRESS plainly.
4.—If you want SUN-TELEGRAPH Style Book send 10c extra.
5.—Address your request to

MAP QUIZ INTO BANKRUPTCY

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(Universal)—The Department of Justice and the Department of Commerce today were formulating plans to begin a sweeping inquiry into federal bankruptcy law and practice, ordered yesterday by President Hoover.

While the Department of Justice is conducting a sweeping probe into alleged abuses, partly responsible for a loss of $3,000,000,000 in the last five years, the Solicitor General will work out a new code of bankruptcy procedure to be submitted to Congress with a recommendation that it be enacted into law.

Stealing Old Auto Held Petty Larceny

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 30.—(AP.)—As the county grand jury views things the theft of a small car of 1926 vintage is not grand larceny; the jury refused to indict William Stokes on that charge, as desired by Portchester authorities, but offered to indict for petty larceny.

Police Hold Man 'Beating' Air Ride

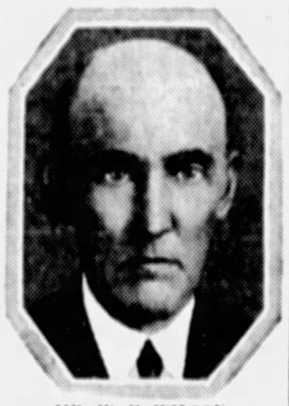
MODERN KONJOLA BROUGHT RELIEF IN THIS CASE

At Age of 67 Man Is Relieved of Neuritis and Stomach Trouble—New Medicine is Strongly Praised.

What joy and happiness over new health has Konjola, the new and different medicine, brought into the world! Just think what this fact means to all who suffer. In two years seven million bottles of Konjola have been used.



MR. W. F. WILSON

A medicine must have merit to make a record like that. Consider, as a typical example of Konjola at work, the case of Mr. W. F. Wilson, R. F. D. No. 3, Eighty-Four, Pa., near Pittsburgh. No wonder he was glad to tell what Konjola did for him. Would you not like to hear all about this new compound of 32 valuable, medicinal ingredients? Then meet the Konjola Man at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, and hear the remarkable story of this remarkable medicine. See what Konjola does, and then decide what you will do about Konjola. But right now read the grateful words of Mr. Wilson, age 67, who recently told his experience to the Konjola Man in the following words:

"Konjola is the best medicine I ever used. It is simply wonderful. For five years I suffered from stomach trouble and neuritis. My stomach filled with gases after practically every meal, and I had severe pains of indigestion. Neuritis struck me in my neck and shoulders. The pains of this dread ailment were dreadful. The sluggish condition of my liver caused dizzy spells and bilious attacks.

"But a four weeks' treatment of Konjola has given me better health than I ever expected to have again. Gas, bloating and pains of indigestion are things of the dread past. I eat what I want, and sleep soundly. Neuritis pains have vanished, and I am gaining in weight and strength. Many of my friends have taken Konjola upon my recommendation, and they are all praising th's fine medicine now."

Konjola contains no alcohol, no nerve-deadening drugs, no heart-depressing chemicals. It is all pure, wholesome medicine, and every drop works.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, explaining the merits of this new and different medicine. FREE SAMPLES GIVEN by the Konjola Man. Konjola is also sold by all Dow Drug Stores in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

WOMAN BOUND, GEMS TAKEN

CHICAGO, July 30.—(AP.)—Mrs. Louis Sontag was going out to dine last night with Mme. Rose Olitska, an opera singer. She dressed early, put on jewels valued at $6,000 and sat down to wait.

Soon the door signal buzzed and Mrs. Sontag opened the door. Two masked men pushed in, carrying pistols and some clothesline. They gagged Mrs. Sontag, bound her in a chair and escaped with the jewels.

An hour and a half later Mme. Olitska arrived and released her friend, nearly unconscious.

Mrs. Sontag's husband is an official of Sears, Roebuck & Co.

FIRE IN STORE ROUTS FAMILIES

Occupants of apartments on the second and third floors of a building housing the Sloan Hardware Company on the first floor, at 516 Franklin avenue, Aliquippa, fled through smoke-filled halls when fire was discovered in the store early today.

The blaze was confined to the first floor and basement of the building.

The loss to the hardware concern was estimated at several thousand dollars by police.

Penny-Royal School At Fostoria Burns

ALTOONA, Pa., July 30.—The Penny-Royal School, at Fostoria, near Bellwood, was destroyed by fire today with $8,000 loss. The building was abandoned recently for school purposes and offered for sale.

RUMANIA JEWS' FOE IMPEACHED

BUCHAREST, July 30. — (AP.) —The Jewish Telegraphic Agency reports that M. Taslauanu, chief secretary in the office of the minister of the interior, whose house was raided Saturday by the police to establish his connections with Rumanian anti-Semitic leaders, was impeached yesterday and removed from office.

The definite charge against him is that he utilized his position in the ministry of the interior to furnish funds to Zelea Codreanu, anti-Semitic leader, while the latter was in jail.

Taslauanu, who was considered the right hand man of Minister of the Interior Vayda Voyvod, did not deny his leadership of anti-Semitic students.

Dr. Voyvod admitted knowing of his secretary's anti-Semitic connections.

The minister's resignation is expected.

Police, Denied Court Costs, May Fight

NEW CASTLE, Pa., July 30.—Members of the city police force, who signed waivers transferring their court witness fees to the city, in accordance with an ordinance passed by Council, are contemplating legal action to get the money. They signed the waivers under protest.

Court costs in 51 cases of the June term of court are involved. These costs have not as yet been paid to the city. Under the ordinance no city employe may retain the court costs, but must sign a waiver or lose his job.

Oil Men Requested To Reduce Output

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 30.—The oil production curtailment movement has extended into Washington and Greene counties. W. R. Shaw, of Bedford, representing the Pennsylvania Grade Crude Oil Association, is visiting independent producers, asking that their output be reduced 30 per cent, in comparison to 50 per cent in the northern part of the state.

EXONERATE DRY IN KILLING

COLUMBUS, Ga., July 30.—(AP.)—W. K. Johnson, Jr., Federal prohibition agent, was freed of murder charges for the death of Ray Rodgers, 20, whom he killed Friday night as the youth tried to deliver whisky to an informer.

Johnson said Rodgers was killed accidentally as Rodgers and his companion, Miss Eunice Johnson, scuffled with the officer for possession of his pistol.

Report on Closed Bank's Assets Made

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., July 30.—A statement of inventory and assets of Jubelirer Brothers' Bank, Brownsville, closed recently by the State Banking Department, shows assets of $319,033.09. An inventory was filed by Peter G. Cameron, state secretary of banking, in Fayette County courts.

Most of the bank's funds are made up of Pittsburgh real estate. It is said depositors are virtually assured of complete payment.

Driver Held After Auto Kills Boy, 14

CHARLEROI, Pa., July 30.—Claude Davis, 14, of Monessen, died late yesterday in the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital of injuries received when struck by an automobile on the Belle Vernon-Monessen road.

Sylvester Corley, 19, Negro, of Monessen, alleged driver of the car, was held in the Monessen jail to await an investigation by state highway patrolmen. According to witnesses, Corley was speeding when he struck the boy.

Merchant Held Up Near Police Station

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., July 30.—An unmasked bandit who yesterday held up Leo Pinter, proprietor of a Seventh avenue store, within a square of the city police station, was being sought today.

The robber, pointing a revolver, forced Pinter into the cashier's cage. He then took $97 and escaped.

Fall Causes Death Of Woman at 90

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 30.—Mrs. Ellen Lambert, 90, of Coal Center, widow of D. O. Lambert, former justice of the peace and Washington County mercantile appraiser, died yesterday of shock due to a fall last Saturday. She leaves five daughters, two sisters and two brothers.

Firemen Rescue Woman from Flames

SCOTTDALE, Pa., July 30.—Overcome by smoke when her home caught fire, Mrs. John Thompson was rescued by volunteer firemen. The flames were confined to the bedroom.

Youngstown Greets Archbishop Mooney

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 30.—Catholics of this city yesterday greeted Archbishop Edward A. Mooney, apostolic delegate to India, upon his arrival here for a six weeks' rest with relatives. He has been on his way to Youngstown since June 1, stopping in Rome en route.

New Slot Machines Promptly Seized

MONESSEN, Pa., July 30.—One hour after a truck had passed out six slot machines to confectionery stores, Monessen police followed and confiscated the machines.

JIM WANTED TO VISIT THE HILLS' TONIGHT, BUT LOOK AT ALL THIS WASH I HAVE TO DO
YOU COULD GO IF YOU USED RINSO INSTEAD OF THAT BAR SOAP. RINSO SAVES ALL HARD WORK

AND THAT EVENING
LET'S GO TO THE HILLS', DEAR. I'M NOT A BIT TIRED. I USED A WONDERFUL LAUNDRY SOAP TODAY... RINSO. IT WASHES CLOTHES WHITER WITHOUT SCRUBBING

AND

A few more reasons why millions use Rinso!

1. Washes clothes so white, even old yellowed linens look almost new again.
2. Easy on the clothes; saves scrubbing and boiling.
3. Rinso is the only soap you need on washday—no bar soaps, chips, powders.
4. Its suds are thick, lively, lasting—marvelously active in tub, washer and dishpan.
5. Very economical; gives twice as much suds, cup for cup, as lightweight, puffed-up soaps.
6. So safe, the makers of 38 famous washing machines recommend it.

Try Rinso and see!

Change to Rinso—and see for yourself how much whiter it washes clothes. Without scrubbing! Get the BIG package. You'll like its lively suds for dishes, too.

Guaranteed by the makers of LUX—Lever Brothers Co., Cambridge, Mass.

NOTED LEADERS DIRECT MARTIAL STRAINS OF BAND MUSIC ON AIR TONIGHT

We Now Present

By ROY JANSEN

Darrell V. Martin Will Be Back Next Week

Distinguished bandmasters will act as guest conductors tonight during the American Bandmasters' Association concert, to be broadcast through KDKA at 10:30 o'clock. Philip Egner, bandmaster of the United States Military Academy; Victor J. Grabel, conductor of Chicago's Band; R. B. Hayward, conductor of the Toronto Concert Band, and J. J. Gagnier, conductor of the Grenadier Guards Band of Montreal, will be included in the program. Some stirring music is promised.

* * *

Vacation plans for Mary McCoy, soprano with the National Broadcasting Company are still being talked about, but not much is being done about them. This popular singer is crowding every week with more appearances before the microphone than most any other person. As example tonight she sings in the Mobile Hour at 8:30 o'clock through WCAE and at 9:30 appears again in the Pleasure Hour over KDKA. And one of her heaviest days is Sunday.

Mary McCoy

Nancy Carroll, one of the popular motion picture stars, will be one of the attractions on the Pleasure Hour tonight at 9:30 o'clock over KDKA.

It's going to be harder for "Howdy" Clark to get up and do his entertaining on the Early Risers hours at WJAS studio. He just got back from that vacation and besides being all sunburned he's all wearied from excessive golf.

* * *

There is to be another of those intimate and interesting interviews before the microphone tonight when Grantland Rice, sports authority, will ask timely questions of Johnny Weissmuller, Olympic swimming champion. This will be broadcast during the Coca Cola program through WCAE at 10:30 o'clock. Weissmuller, the fastest human in water, is a favorite with many people in Pittsburgh and recently visited the city, speaking directly from WCAE studio.

They are getting all het up at KQV over the Midnight Birthday Revel they are going to celebrate Thursday night. It's KQV's eleventh birthday, and Larry Drake and his 16-piece dance orchestra have been engaged expressly for the affair. There will be several other features, too, to make this a gala night.

* * *

This may not be kind, but Jim Huges told it just before he left for Atlantic City. "What do you think of the violinist?" he asked a visitor in the studio the other night. "He reminds me of Paderewski," the visitor replied. "Paderewski is not a violinist," Hughes reminded. "Neither is this fellow!" was the curt retort.

free wheeling

Studebaker's epochal contribution to motoring—the sensation of 1930!

WHAT is Free Wheeling?

This is the question thousands of motorists are asking.

Free Wheeling is the second milestone in automobile development.

The first was the electric starter in 1912.

The second is Free Wheeling with positive control, pioneered by Studebaker in 1930—an exclusive Studebaker feature, manufactured under Studebaker patents and available only in the new President and Commander Eights.

Due to Free Wheeling with positive control, you can shift from high to second, back and forth, at 40—50 miles an hour, and never touch the clutch. You need use the clutch only to start or back up.

For the first time in a motor car you get the full benefit of momentum automatically. When your car has traveled 10,000 miles, your engine has "worked" only 8,000 miles.

The braking power of your engine is available as readily as in conventional cars. Yet your car glides along, in gear and fully controlled, but free and silent as though there were no gears. When you are Free Wheeling your car only seems to be coasting—actually your clutch is engaged and the gears are in mesh.

You save 12 per cent on gasoline, 20 per cent on oil—even more in heavy traffic. Strains on engine, transmission and rear axle are lessened; tire life is lengthened.

There is nothing new to learn—for driving the new President and Commander Eights is simplicity itself. Your steering gear rights itself after a turn—the car swings to "straight ahead"—holds its course true without your tugging at the wheel.

Words and phrases cannot adequately describe the sensation of Free Wheeling with positive control, but a demonstration will make it clear to you.

The new President and Commander Eights are larger, more beautiful, with many refinements, but above all, they give you Free Wheeling with positive control which cannot be obtained in any other cars in America.

Come, experience for yourself the first really new development in motoring in years—an achievement of Studebaker's 78 years of manufacturing progress.

Positive Control

With Free Wheeling under positive control, the full braking power of your engine is instantly, easily and always available in all speeds—high, second and low—for use whenever you desire it.

You shift from high to second, back and forth, at 40—50 miles an hour, and never touch the clutch.

You need use the clutch only to start or back up.

The braking power of your engine is available as readily as in conventional cars.

For the first time in a motor car you get the full benefit of momentum automatically. When your car has gone 10,000 miles your engine has "worked" only 8,000 miles.

You save 12 per cent on gasoline, 20 per cent on oil—even more in heavy traffic.

Strains on engine, transmission and axle are lessened. Tires wear longer.

There is nothing new to learn—Free Wheeling with positive control is simplicity itself. You drive just as you do in a conventional car.

Curtis to Speak At Davis Welcome

SHARON, Pa., July 30.—Vice President Charles Curtis will be one of the speakers here August 23, when James J. Davis, secretary of labor, is honored. Secretary Davis, a former resident, will come here for a visit with his aged father.

STRIKES WIFE, BABY; FINED

Charged with beating his two-month-old daughter and his 17-year-old wife, Peter Salupeck, 19, of 4737 Hatfield street, was fined $100 or 60 days in jail today after a hearing before Magistrate Thomas Jones in Morals Court.

Two warrants, issued on complaint of his wife, Susan, and the Humane Society, resulted in Salupeck's arrest.

The child, Eleanor Grace, Humane Society officials charged, had been beaten July 22 following an argument with Mrs. Salupeck when she refused to quiet the baby's cries. At the same time Salupeck struck her, the court was told.

Salupeck admitted the charges.

Fishing Club Opens Its 52nd Season

MERCER, Pa., July 30.—Members of the Solid Comfort Fishing Club will leave for their camp near North Bay, Ont., today. It will be the fifty-second encampment of the organization, which was formed in 1878. None of the original members of the club survives, but two members who joined in 1884, still are alive. They are Col. Henry Hall, retired Washington newspaper man, and Johnson Zahniser, of Mercer, present head of the club.

School Head Dies After Operation

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., July 30.—L. P. Stonebraker, 41, superintendent-elect of the Struthers, O., public schools and for eight years head of the Leetonia, O., schools, died in the City Hospital today following an operation for appendicitis.

Tardiness Brings Prisoner $100 Penalty

There will be no doubt after today in the mind of Ray Connors, of 3415 Carson street, that Magistrate John J. Sweeney, of South Side police court, has an avid distaste for tardiness. It cost Connors just $100 to learn that.

Police arrested him last Friday at 42 South Twenty-seventh street, reported confiscating liquor and home brew, and charged him with operation of a disorderly house. He was to be given a hearing Saturday, but failed to appear.

He appeared today and said:

"I was unavoidably detained."

Sweeney:

"Who put up your $100 bail?"

Conners:

"Some unknown friend."

Sweeney:

"Well, hunt that unknown friend and tell him to say goodbye to his money. I dislike tardiness."

PATRICIA PITT'S PRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Pittsburghers Honor Dinner Guests at Cleveland

Informal entertainments in summer are almost synonymous, haven't you noticed? And very delightful and intimate are these smaller parties so popular during our tropical season.

Small dinners and luncheons in cool, lofty-ceilinged homes or in spacious country clubs are in vogue. And many of these events are given in honor of houseguests.

The Tom M. Girdlers, of Greystone Farm, Mentor, Cleveland, O., formerly of Sewickley, have had as their house guests the H. C. Bughmans, of Sewickley, and the Dorwin J. Donnelly's, of Pittsburgh.

On Saturday night the Girdlers gave a dinner in their home in honor of their house guests. And the Pittsburgh folks were honored at many other informal events during their Cleveland visit.

Folks who've decided to stay in town for the summer, or those here for a few days or weeks between jaunts to the many gay summer resorts are finding all sorts of diversions, chiefly out-of-door sports.

Riding and swimming, golf and tennis, motoring and even walking, beloved diversion of English folks, are in vogue. One must add that society folks do not take long tramps like English folks, but they do take frequent, brisk walks on cool mornings with their favorite dogs.

Yesterday morning a group of the younger set, and some older folks, too, were seen riding near the Pittsburgh Hunt Clubhouse.

Among them were Jane Flaccus, daughter of the Charles L. Flaccuses; Natalie and Edna Diebold, daughter of the E. A. Diebolds; Marie and Marguerite McCahill, daughters of the David I. McCahills; Gordon C. King, Jr., son of the Gordon Kings; Nancy Patterson, daughter of the Samuel T. Pattersons rides there frequently, too. David I. McCahill was also among the riders.

Polo is becoming more and more popular with society folks. And additional proof of the popularity of this sport is that there'll be a polo field adjoining the grounds of the new Pittsburgh Hunt clubhouse, now nearing completion. The formal dedication of the clubhouse will be held on September 12, the opening day of the Pittsburgh Hunt horse show. The stables are now nearly finished, and will be used all next month.

Polo Vogue

David I. McCahill will leave tomorrow night for Culver, Ind., to attend Father and Son Week at the Culver summer camp. His son, David I. McCahill, Jr., is a lieutenant at the camp. And he will be captain of the polo team at Shady Side Academy next year.

Dr. and Mrs. J. Wade Elphinstone will leave tomorrow by motor for Ahmic Lake, Canada, where they'll remain until the middle of September.

Mrs. Frederic Schaefer and her daughter, Jane, of Devon road, have been at the Barclay, New York. From there they'll go to Woods Hole, Mass., for the remainder of the summer.

And have you heard that the Chester G. Fishers and their family are in the west? The past few days they've been in San Francisco, where they were guests at the Hotel St. Francis.

Any day during the Christmas season is favored by society leaders as a time for their daughter's debuts, for any entertainment for the debutante, and for parties for the younger school set.

Holiday Event

And Christmas eve and New Year's eve are always coveted dates. On Christmas eve this year the Frank J. Kiers will give a ball in their Beechwood boulevard home for their daughter Frances. Some time this fall, her mother will present her to society, probably at a tea.

Tomorrow Frances and her mother are expected home from Franklin, where they've been the guests of Frances' uncle and aunt, the Frank McIntoshes, of Franklin, Pa. And this week-end the Kiers will leave for their summer place in Michigan.

Mrs. Roy A. Hunt has returned home from Seattle, where she attended the annual meeting of the Garden Club of America, and has left with her children for Sugar Hill, N. H., where she'll spend the remainder of the summer.

Travel Chatter

Home from Cape May, N. J., is Mrs. John S. Hunter, of Bayard street. She was the guest of Mrs. Walter Smith at Cape May. Tomorrow Mrs. Hunter will go to Salisbury, Vt., for a brief visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Wells, of Sewickley, are back from Beaumaris, Can., where they were the guests of Mr. Wells' father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Wells, of Philadelphia, at their Beaumaris place.

On Saturday evening, at 6:30 o'clock in the Junior chapel of the Second Presbyterian Church, of Wilkinsburg, Miss Ruth Eleanor Braddock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harvey Braddock, of Trenton avenue, became the bride of Donald Allen Eneix, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Eneix, of Pittsburgh, with the Rev. Dr. John Franklin Toupe, officiating.

Chapel Wedding

The bride was gowned in eggshell Spanish lace with a hat of apple green horsehair. She carried Johanna Hill roses. Miss Jean Braddock, as her sister's maid of honor, wore salmon pink chiffon with a matching hat and carried a dresden bouquet. Virginia Ann Sager, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Sager, as flower girl, wore rose beige organdie. She carried a basket of sweetheart roses. Arthur Raymond McKay, of Washington, Pa., was the best man. The ushers included Edgar Walter Brown, Jr., and Edward Hultman. Miss Garnet Jeffries, cousin of the bridegroom played the wedding music, and Mrs. Tracy Morrison sang.

The bridegroom attended the University of Pittsburgh and is a member of Theta Chi. After a reception in the Braddock home, Mr. and Mrs. Eneix left for a Canadian trip. They will be at home after September 15 in Braddock avenue, Edgewood.

SMITH TO PLAY CAMPAIGN ROLE

NEW YORK, July 30.—(AP.)—The New York Times says former Gov. Alfred E. Smith will resume active participation in politics in the fall by taking a prominent part in the State Democratic campaign, and also by making at least one speech for the Democratic National Committee.

The part Smith will play in the state campaign will be determined at a conference with Gov. Roosevelt within the next 10 days, the paper says, and he probably will make several campaign speeches for Gov. Roosevelt.

The former Governor is on the Tammany slate for delegate to the state convention from the Tenth Assembly District, in which he lives. The delegates will be chosen at the primary election September 16.

MEXICO AWAITS HOOVER VISIT

MEXICO CITY, July 30.—(AP.)—Referring to reports President Hoover is coming to Mexico on a visit, President Ortiz Rubio said today the American President had accepted an invitation which he himself had extended while in the United States, but that no date has been set for the trip.

With respect to the present industrial crisis in Mexico, the President said this merely reflected world conditions and that the government would give all possible aid to industry to help it through the crucial period.

He declared there will be about 15,000,000 pesos surplus in the government treasury at the end of this fiscal year and that the government intends to use much of this in its construction program, so as to give employment to as many Mexican workers as possible.

Preparations for the Westmoreland Federation of Women's Clubs' twentieth anniversary celebration are being made by the president of the Federation, Mrs. David Denman, of Latrobe. The organization originally began in 1909 when several clubwomen from Jeanette, Latrobe, Irwin and Scottdale-Mt. Pleasant clubs gathered in the home of Mrs. Charles Ely, of Jeanette, to discuss plans for enlarging the field of their work.

Club Plans

They were especially interested in libraries for schools, the beautification of their surroundings and, in general, the betterment of the young people of the community. But it was not until 1910 that the Federation was organized.

One of the foremost clubs in the Federation is the Derry Community Club, whose president is Mrs. George M. Barrow. This week a new municipal building is being dedicated in Derry and the council is giving the club one of the large rooms as a meeting place.

The year book of the Latrobe Women's Club, another unit of the Federation, has recently been issued. It includes a schedule of interest to persons interested in the affairs of the day. The members will discuss modern problems, international relations, unemployment, prohibition, penal institutions, and other engrossing topics.

The Ligonier Club has completed a contest on beautiful lawns and gardens and is now preparing for its garden show to be held in September in the Fort Ligonier Hotel.

BOGGS & BUHL

THE LATEST MODE IN SMART SPORTS FROCKS

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, JULY 30—Even if your sole sports equipment embraces merely a compact and a powder puff, you must include several sports frocks in your summer wardrobe. All simple little frocks of such nice materials as shantung right down to fancy fine woolens are called sports dresses, perhaps because it was a sporting gesture of the mode to design for us dresses that are both practical and pretty, with comfort and simplicity the paramount motifs. Some of these have sleeves, others are sleeveless, but with little removable capes to confer an air of formal informality, but all have skirts of medium length and sensible width, making them ideal for those of us that include walking as a major sport, as indeed it is, in these days when a plane and a car is considered standard equipment by the younger generation.

IDEAL FOR VACATION purposes are both of the dresses depicted in today's sketches. The first is a Schiaparelli model in canary yellow shantung.

It is in two pieces; first the bodice which is long and tucked-in and reaching to the knees where it buttons. Over this the skirt is worn. This has an amusing detail at the top, for it ends in points, the top of each being attached to a flat belt and showing in the intervening interstices, the tucked-in-blouse beneath. The wide jabot is in one piece with the bodice yoke and is knotted in front. Applied, stitched bands of the fabric trim the jabot, cuffs, belt, skirt top and hem. There is a wide box-pleat at the front of the skirt.

THE OTHER SKETCH is also of a Schiaparelli model designed for some fortunate vacationist. It is a sports dress of fancy white wool with a yoke and set-in belt of blue and white crochet. The frock is sleeveless but there is a detachable cape of white wool, shaped to the shoulders by means of shallow darts. Similar darts give a certain width to the skirt in a set-in flounce placed low at the back.

Mother of Slain Trooper Gets Medal

HARRISBURG, July 30.—(AP.)—A posthumous award of the Distinguished Medal for valor was made by officials of the State Police to Mrs. O. B. Stewart, of Reynoldsville, mother of Private Charles L. Stewart, who lost his life in "getting his man."

Stewart was fatally wounded at Monessen recently by John Sabo, alleged extortionist, but managed to kill his assailant before he died.

Flow From Broken Main Wrecks Bridge

POTTSTOWN, Pa., July 30.—(AP.)—A 24-inch main carrying water from the Pottstown Pumping Station to Stowe, broke yesterday and the flood of water wrecked a small concrete highway bridge just outside Pottstown. Holes 18 feet deep were washed in the ground around the broken main. About 30 families in Stowe were without water because of the break.

Broadcasting Permit Of Pennsy Renewed

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(AP.)—The Federal Radio Commission has renewed the license of the Pennsylvania Railroad, which authorizes it to transmit information relating to the dispatch of freight and passenger trains in case of complete interruption to land wire facilities between Altoona and Harrisburg. The station's call letters are WHL, and it operates on 257 kilocycles. The renewal license expires September 15.

TALES FROM HOLLYWOOD MOVIE CIRCLES AND LOCAL AMUSEMENT NOTES

June Collyer Borrowed To Play Lead Role In 'Extravagance'

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1930, Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 30.

Phil Goldstone agrees with Prince George, who made the statement that June Collyer was the most beautiful girl in pictures. And, since Tiffany has a story on its schedule that calls for her particular attractiveness, Goldstone has borrowed her from Paramount for the occasion.

She is to play the lead in "Extravagance," an original by A. P. Younger. The story deals with the reformation of a woman whose luxurious tastes far surpass her husband's meager salary.

Deals for both Ben Lyons and Basil Rathbone are being negotiated with the studios that have them under contract.

June Collyer has been alternating between work and a vacation for the past month. Every few days she is called to Pathe for scenes in "Beyond Victory." Between times she has been showing Southern California to her parents, who arrived from the East recently.

DOROTHY LEAVES

Accompanied by her mother, Dorothy Mackaill has left for a vacation in Europe. This will be her first trip since she arrived in this country nine years ago. She intends to be away from Hollywood three or four months, traveling on the Continent and in England. Much of the time will be spent with a younger sister at Hull, England, where Dorothy was born.

* * *

Of all the various types of stories, with the exception of the musicals, since talkies were introduced the mystery melodramas have maintained as steady a pace as any.

With the box office reports showing that the public still enjoys trying to solve murders Fox has purchased "The Spider" for a future Warner Baxter starring picture.

A man in the audience of a darkened theater is shot and killed while a magician is going through his routine of tricks on the stage. Such is the plot of Fulton Oursler and Lowell Brentano's play.

Baxter will portray the magician, who has a difficult time explaining his innocence. The picture is not scheduled for some time and no other members of the cast have been chosen as yet. In the meantime the star is a member of the Foreign Legion in "Renegades," now in production. Noah Beery, Jr., is advancing his screen activities and is in the picture together with his father, who plays one of the leads.

ORIGINAL IDEA

Reversing the usual procedure, Warners are planning to make "Illicit" into a picture, and then present it on the stage. The picture goes into production this week with James Rennie and Barbara Stanwyck in the leads. Following its completion, a cast will be selected in New York, where the play is scheduled to open in the fall. None of the actors who appear in the picture will be seen in the play.

The chances of Robert Coogan becoming an actor are remote, according to a remark his father made the other day on the "Tom Sawyer" rehearsal set. The 5-year-old youngster has been begging his dad to let him play in Jackie's picture, but Coogan Sr. is firm in his refusal.

"One actor in the family is enough for me," he declares. "Robert is going into business if I have to buy him a bank."

Do you know that Dorothy Mackaill's first stage appearance was in a revue in Paris featuring Maurice Chevalier?

'Unguarded Girls' For Pitt Screen

"Ungarded Girls," photoplay that has been running on Broadway in the Earl Carroll Theater, will be presented in the Pitt, Monday, August 4. Besides the film there is a stage attraction which includes living models. The picture will be shown for women only. The program will be continuous from 11 a. m. until 11 p. m.

From Stage

Mary Lawlor, who appears opposite Richard Dix in "Shooting Straight," coming to the Sheridan Square Friday, is an experienced stage actress.

Incorrigible

New lads will say the things that I have said,
New lures will call and you will follow after,
Small use to mourn the romance that is dead—
And tears are hollow substitutes for laughter;

The nights to come will ease what little pain
You carry in your heart because we parted,
And surely love will stir for you again—
For who could bear to see you heavy-hearted?

So, go your way, and rout your thoughts of me,
A careless lad, and scarcely worth the keeping,
For, in a while, I'm very apt to be
Heart-whole again and rather bored with weeping;

And while you make a fairer lad your king—
My patter will be thrilling some young thing!
—Kid Kazanova.

Scene

Broadway and Forty-sixth street: She is blind. He is minus a leg and an arm. He pushes the wheel chair containing her. The actors and other idlers who congest the pavement in front of the Palace and Bond buildings make room for them to pass. The heat is stifling. One long idle actor remarks: "What's the use of squawking? Look at them." The cripple keeps pushing the chair. Her tin cup is empty. The blind woman is playing the accordion. The song she is playing is christened: "Happy Days Are Here Again."

That Glorious Feeling

It is John Foley's report that two stews in a Forty-seventh street hot-spot were discussing the condition of their friend, who was plenty plastered.

"I think," said the phirst phirewater phiend, "that Joe is drunk."

"He ain't so drunk," hiccoughed the other, "his finger moved."

Short Story

A year ago Willard Robison, suffering from what is known as Broadway-poisoning, was forced to peddle his Crestwood home for what he could get. A few days afterward Robison wrote the delightful and popular chune christened "Cottage for Sale," to immortalize the event. Since then, he has been appointed director of the two radio hour. He recently signed a two-year writing contract with Warner's and he begins an RKO tour in a fortnight.

Last week he bought back the cottage.

Confidence

Par wiser men than me hold doubts
And scoff at deathless love and such.
Regarding those who don't as louts
Whose knowledge don't amount to much.

So am I cast down when I find Myself quite free of doubts which taint?
But knowing well what's on your mind,
You think I'm true—I know you aint.

J. P. S.

Kidding a Kidder

And Al (Sophie Tucker's husband) Lackay avers that that 156-year-old Turk went to see Earl Carroll's "Profanities" the other night, witnessing the proceedings from Row A.

As the undraped lassies toe-and-heeled it on the stage the old gazumper snapped his fingers, and groaned:

"Golly! If only I were a boy of 90 again!"

Repetition Is Reputation

For the 'steenth time a time-worn George Bernard Shaw anecdote has made the front pages of the American newspapers in the past 12 months. It is the fable of the woman who, desiring a copy of his book, wrote on behalf of her club for one. Shaw is supposed to have replied:

"A woman's society that cannot afford to pay 15 shillings for a copy of my book has no right to exist."

The woman bought the book by selling his letter and autograph for 15 shillings. Then she wrote him about it.

"What fools women are," Shaw replied. "If you had taken my autograph to the right place you would have gotten £50 for it!"

That gag has made the rounds of the columns in America, but the latest news service to fail for it was the Associated Press, which recently syndicated it as a news beat to its clients.

It strikes some of us that Shaw has engaged an adroit press agent, who is thinking faster than a husband whose wife has just discovered some blonde hairpins in his coat pocket.

Gag

March Lachman avers that he actually overheard it on Forty-second street, near Broadway.

First Chorine: "I don't see why they arrested 'Vanities' and not 'Lysistrata.'"

Second Headache: "'Lysistrata' was written 411 years B. C."

Second Two-timer: "Before Carroll."

In Conclusion

Continuing the controversy regarding Gina Malo, this is to report that the matter will now be closed, the column having additional proof that Gina Malo is Janet Flynn, a former Albertina Rasch dancer. The "Sons o' Guns" management which contracted its new musical comstar would have the playgoers and the press believe that Gina Malo is a Frenchy. This corner, however, pointed out that Gina was Janet Flynn, a local colleen who went to France to improve herself and after two years was heralded as a "find." The management vigorously denied the charges of fraud, and those of us who defended the public were abused.

However, the 1928 files of Dance, the magazine, will reveal a photo of Janet, the caption of which will settle all arguments.

Add Mouthfuls

Oscar Wilde's, "We're all in the gutter—only some of us are looking at the stars."

How!

The lads on the snappy Pathfiner staff relay the one about the two terpsichorines who were swapping chatter at a corner of Broadway in the Fourflushing Forties.

"C'mon, Gladys," said the first, "have lunch with me."

"I've just had lunch with Roody Velly," said the other.

"Then c'mon!" groaned the first, you must be starved!"

Once a week do this . .

Clean the scalp -check DANDRUFF

WHENEVER you wash your hair—and most people do it once a week—douse full strength Listerine on the scalp either before or after the rinse. Then massage the scalp and hair vigorously for several minutes.

You will be simply delighted by the wonderful feeling of cleanness and exhilaration that follows this refreshing treatment.

Moreover, it is unquestionably one of the best treatments for dandruff—for preventing it, and for overcoming it once it has started.

Many hundreds of women have told us that since making Listerine a part of the weekly shampoo, their scalp feels better, their hair looks more attractive, and they are never troubled with dandruff.

Of course, if dandruff does get a start, it will be necessary to repeat the Listerine treatment systematically for several days, using a little olive oil in conjunction with it if the scalp and hair are excessively dry.

Listerine removes and dissolves the dandruff particles and heals and soothes the scalp. Also, if infection is present—and most dermatologists define dandruff as a germ infection—Listerine immediately combats it.

As you know, Listerine kills germs in 15 seconds; even the stubborn Staphylococcus Aureus (pus) and Bacillus Typhosus (typhoid) yield to it in counts ranging to 200,000,000—yet Listerine is safe to use. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

Trolley, Auto Hit, Suit Asks $35,000

Injuries sustained when a street car crashed into the rear of an automobile in which she was a passenger are valued at $35,000 in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court by Mrs. Jennie Sklar, of Monongahela, Washington County, against the Pittsburgh Railways Company.

She was thrown about in the machine and suffered injuries to her head, back, hip and limbs, she says.

Hurt on Trolley Sues Railway Co.

Claiming she was thrown when a street car started as she was alighting from it, Mrs. Mary Kurana, Orr street, has filed suit in Common Pleas Court against the Pittsburgh Railways Company asking $25,000 damages. She says she received body hurts and permanent injuries in the accident, which occurred April 30 at Fifth avenue and Brady street.

VICTOR MARKS 30-YEAR REIGN

ROME, July 30.—(AP.)—King Victor Emmanuel, observing the thirtieth anniversary of the beginning of his reign, attended mass in the Pantheon, near the tomb of his father, King Humbert, who, 30 years ago today, was assassinated at Monza, near Milan.

A parade of Fascists and patriotic associations went from the Piazza Venezia to the Pantheon to place a wreath upon King Humbert's tomb.

Three decades ago, Victor Emmanuel was cruising in the Mediterranean when wireless, then in its infancy, brought him the news of the killing of his father. He ascended the throne as the third ruler since Italy became united, taking with him as his queen the Montenegrin Princess Elena.

Elderly Italians with good memories rehearsed again for the benefit of their children the story of Victor Emmanuel's rush back to Monza, not unlike the more recent historic rush of the Prince of Wales, two years ago, from Africa to the bedside of his stricken father.

At Monza the young King—he was then 30 years old—displayed considerable judgment in his arrangements for a fitting funeral for his father and in preparing for his own, formal accession which took place August 9.

Search Reveals 'Ride' Slaying

ELMHURST, Ill., July 30.—(INS.)—Following an all-night search police today found the bullet-torn body of a man, presumably the victim of a Chicago gang "ride." The body was partially identified as that of Dominick Falduto, of Chicago.

Search was begun last night after the owner of the farm heard a volley of shots.

FILIPINOS FLAY HOOVER CHOICE

MANILA, July 30.—(AP.)—Copies of "The Philippines; a Treasure and a Problem," written by Nicholas Roosevelt, recess appointee to the vice governorship of the Philippines, were hurled into Manila Bay yesterday by Donato Halili, employe of an advertising firm, and Manuel David, a minor government employe, Halili said:

"This is but a feeble manifestation of our most energetic protest against the proposed appointment of Nicholas Roosevelt to the high post of vice governor of the Philippine Islands."

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(AP.)—Nicholas Roosevelt, of New York, was given a recess appointment yesterday as vice governor of the Philippine Islands in the face of opposition from proponents of Philippine independence.

In announcing the appointment after the Senate had failed to confirm Roosevelt at the special session, the President expressed his conviction that the "misunderstanding" on the islands as to the appointee's attitude would be quickly cleared up. He asserted Roosevelt has been staunch in his support of the interests of the Philippine people.

The appointee, a second cousin of Gov. Theodore Roosevelt, of Porto Rico, is now an editorial writer on the New York Times.

Ban Hard Drinks In Irish Cabaret

DUBLIN, July 30.—(AP.)—The first night club in the capital of the Irish Free State serves only soft drinks, it forbids patrons to bring liquor. It has a limited membership of 300 and has been well patronized. Breakfast for all-night dancers is a feature.

When BABIES are upset

Baby ills and ailments seem twice as serious at night. A sudden cry may mean colic. Or a sudden attack of diarrhea—a condition it is always important to check quickly. How would you meet this emergency—tonight? Have you a bottle of Castoria ready? There is nothing that can take the place of this harmless but effective remedy for children; nothing that acts quite the same, or has quite the same comforting effect on them.

For the protection of your wee one—for your own peace of mind—keep this old, reliable preparation always on hand. But don't keep it just for emergencies; let it be an everyday aid. Its gentle influence will ease and soothe the infant who cannot sleep. Its mild regulation will help an older child whose tongue is coated because of sluggish bowels. All druggists have Castoria; the genuine bears Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper.

- For the BLONDE or with grey hair—"Symphonie" overcomes that all-too-neutral look, matches the tone of your skin, brings it warmth and life.
- And if you're "MEDIUM"... you'll admit that you need a distinguishing touch! "Symphonie" gives it—the blush of pearl and rose against brown hair is ravishing!
- With AUBURN HAIR one usually finds a fair skin and partiality to tones of brown in dress. Of all types—"Symphonie" was made for you—its creamy tint lights the burnished copper of your hair.
- And DEEP BRUNETTES find "Symphonie" most flattering. The usual shades of powder form too great a contrast. But here's a tone that's rich and mellow . . . and miraculous!

"SYMPHONIE"

That perfect powder-shade you couldn't buy... nor blend yourself... but always hoped to find! Here it is, triumphant, waiting for your test!

TODAY your face powder is just as fashion-important as your frock! The new clothes demand a new complexion and Armand has created a rare, subtle powder-shade that brings you entrancing fairness for today's more feminine mode.

You'll never know how lovely you really can look until you try "Symphonie" . . . the new Armand complexion powder. It's the greatest cosmetic development since the coming of cold cream powder itself.

"Symphonie" has a secret tint, blended to the exquisite flesh-tones found in Old-World paintings. All women, fundamentally, possess these same translucent tints, but most face powders change or obscure them hopelessly. "Symphonie" complements these basic tones in color, so that you, whether blonde or brunette, have only to apply this powder to see your skin made glorious!

"Symphonie" shade is found only in Armand "Symphonie" Powder, and the rich consistency of this particular blend furthers the effect of the magic new shade. Follow directions for applying, as given in the Armand "Little Hat Box," and be rewarded with a loveliness that is quick to come and not soon to go!

- "With the new clothes . . . the new complexion." This billowy cotton gown by Best & Co., complexion by Armand, compliments by everybody!

BUILDINGS LOST IN FOREST FIRE

HANCOCK, Md., July 30.—(AP)—Three buildings were destroyed by fire that swept yesterday over 50 acres of the Maryland state game preserve and adjoining lands of the Woodmont Rod and Gun Club. A flock of wild turkeys was consumed by the flames. Loss was estimated at $75,000.

The fire started in the summer home of Mrs. Edward Spicer, of Cumberland, that at one time had been used as a clubhouse by the sportsmen. The house, closed and full of antiques, was destroyed.

The underbrush, tinder dry by the prolonged drought, burned quickly and in a short time the flames had reached a valuable stand of timbed. The pump house and boat house on the grounds of the gun club were lost.

HARRISBURG, July 30.—(AP)—A fire in the mountains north of Liverpool, Perry County, was unchecked early today after burning over 200 acres. Several hundred men from half a dozen towns helped a detail of state police and fire fighting squads from the Department of Forests and Waters.

Members of a Duncannon fire company said at least one farm house was in danger of being burned. Lack of water prevented extinguishing the flames.

SIMMONS RESTS IN HOSPITAL

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(AP)—Senator Furnifold M. Simmons, North Carolina's 76-year-old dean of the Senate, has entered a Washington Hospital to regain strength after his labors in the tariff debate. His condition was reported as not serious.

The North Carolina Democrat entered the hospital two days ago, but his presence there was not made public until last night. Mrs. Simmons has been in the same hospital for the past six weeks.

Dr. D. H. Kress, who is attending the Senator, said Simmons was exhausted after the last session and his unsuccessful political campaign for renomination in North Carolina.

Injured in Fall, Asks City to Pay

Injuries sustained when she fell through a hole in a landing on city owned steps in Colwell street have caused Virginia Thomas, of Pasture street to sue the city for $25,000 damages in Common Pleas Court. She says that a week ago Wednesday two boards in the landing were loose and when she stepped on them they let go and she fell several feet to the ground spraining her ankle and back and injuring her spine.

Fall from Raft Fatal for Child

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., July 30.—Falling from a raft in Bluestone hole in Dunbar Creek, Betty Lanigan, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Lanigan, of Dunbar, was drowned.

Four playmates, frightened when she disappeared beneath the surface of the water, ran half a mile to a store and told James Reed what happened. He hurried back and, diving twice, recovered the body.

TWO RUM BOATS ESCAPE SHOTS

NEW YORK, July 30.—(AP)—Brooklyn police reported that a Coast Guard cutter had fired upon two alleged rum runners while pursuing them off the coast along Coney Island.

Thousands of bathers witnessed the chase, the report said, and two policemen fired at the boats as they passed close to a pier. Both boats escaped.

Boy Gets 50 Years For Killing Mother

IDA GROVE, Ia., July 30.—(AP.)—Lester Mohr, 14, confessed slayer of his mother, Mrs. Gus Mohr, was sentenced to 50 years imprisonment.

The boy who pleaded guilty said he had been drinking "spiked" beer and had gone home where he quarreled with his mother over some work.

DOG RACE TRACK FAILS TO REOPEN

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH by WILLIAM PFARR

MR. PFARR:

This probably will not interest you. Nothing seems to. Maybe it's the heat. But anyhow just like a gang of kids swimming in the river or a muddy creek, many "big shots" in various lines go swimming every afternoon in the altogether in the P. A. A. pool. To date none has tied up anybody's clothes in knots. E. P. O.

The most important development in summer show business has been Young Eppy, the rolly-polly young man who was a prozefighter not so many years ago. Young Eppy has been patronizing the Willows pool each week-end and contributing a diving exhibition which is nothing short of a thud.

Young Eppy, understand, is not a professional diver, but if we were Mr. Anderson, who bosses the Willows pool, we would certainly put an ad in the papers exploiting Young Eppy's contribution.

Once Eppy steps from the dressing rooms he is what the papers call the cynosure of all eyes. Over his gay two-piece bathing suit he has slipped not only a white jacket but a beach robe. Cocked jauntily on his head there is nothing less than a beret. Encasing his feet are soft slippers to protect the Eppy digits from stray pebbles.

Eppy makes for the sands, where piece by piece he discards the superfluous garments into one huge pile. This is the Eppy beach wardrobe.

Well, then, Eppy, fearless, mounts the steps to the highest diving board and plumps into the water. Showmanlike, he pauses on the board before he takes the plunge. Once his head reappears above the water he swims with accurate speed back to the diving board and dives again and again.

Other activities are at a standstill while Eppy performs. Perhaps his dives lack the finesse of a Weismuller's and maybe his tender dogs hit the water as soon as his noble dome, but no audience, whether watching Barrymore in "Hamlet" or Hampden in "Cyrano de Bergerac," was ever more attentive or pleased. Eppy, as variety would say, wows 'em. The young man is a finished acter.

It is pretty late to be reporting that on his last day in Pittsburg Jay Mills, the master of ceremonies, was quietly married to a young woman from New Jersey. They are now living in Philadelphia, where Mills is mastering the ceremonies at a theater which still believes that masters of ceremonies are necessary. If Mills ever returns to Pittsburgh, which does not appear probable, he will be greeted without warmth by the newspaperman who accepted his statement that he was still a bachelor.

Will Rogers Says:

BEVERLEY HILLS, July 30.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

Isn't that too bad about Gertrude Ederle losing her hearing? She is a remarkable girl, and she can always rest assured that she was mainly responsible for this era of athletic women. Our women went in for athletics and our men for bridge. We can always depend on a Gertrude or a Helen Wills bringing home the first prize, but when our men compete it's got to be miniature golf, or tree sitting. Well, Gertrude, bless your stout heart, you couldn't lose your hearing at a better time, for outside of Amos and Andy there is certainly nothing to listen to. There hasn't been a new thing said since you swam the channel.

Yours,

BALLOT FRAUD TEST SUIT EXPECTED

Lawyer Wants Voter's Name Off List; 3 Tax Receipts Credited to Man

Donald C. Anderson, attorney for the Bar Association's election fraud committee, is expected to make a test case of Joseph Rabinovitz, of 1809 Bedford avenue, for whom more than one order was signed to obtain a tax receipt as a qualification for registering to vote at the last primary election.

Rabinovitz, who appeared yesterday at a hearing before the Registration Commission, was asked by Anderson to examine three orders that apparently had been signed by him. Rabinovitz declared he had signed one but not the other two. Anderson contends all names should be stricken from the registration when proof is evident that more than one order had been issued for a tax receipt.

NAME STRIKEN OFF

The commission struck from the books the name of Ella Hays, of 1541 Wylie avenue, who admitted she had not paid for a tax receipt she found in her mail box.

Decision was deferred in the case of Mary E. Kirkel, of 17 Manila street, who first denied she had signed an order for a tax receipt and later reversed herself.

The commission decided to retain on the books the name of Richard Turner, of 1607 Webster avenue, who admitted signing one order and denied signing another.

REPORT TO BE FILED

A report of the contents of the ballot box of the Fifteenth District, Sixth Ward, was to be filed today with Prothonotary John Vogt by the recount board that is checking alleged fraud in the recent primary election.

The board reported 261 ballots were found in the box and 262 names on the numbered list. Fifty-eight were voided because of double markings, erasures and mutilations, and six were segregated because marks on each were made apparently by different persons.

Ninety-two ballots were segregated because of phantom cross marks, 20 because marks on each were made with two pencils of different colors, and 43 because the same person apparently made marks on all of them.

ANSWERS CRITICISM

Attorney Leander Trautman, chairman of the recount board, yesterday replied to a criticism by Attorney Ralph H. Frank and Maj. W. T. Rees, overseers for Gifford Pinchot, to the effect that the board failed to call attention to irregularities in reporting the box from the Fourth District of the Sixth Ward. Trautman declared:

"This is a fact-finding body, not an investigating bureau. We report what we find in the ballot boxes and make no check of registration in the office of the commission."

CELEBRATING ALTMAYER'S BIRTHDAY

JEAN DOVERSPIKE'S JUST A LITTLE GIRL—THAT'S WHY SHE CAN SIT ON A MELON

Visitors at Leech Farm, who with the guests and city officials enjoyed watermelons personally distributed for the most part by Produce Merchant Leo G. Altmayer, who supplied melons for about 15,000 people in 70 Pittsburgh institutions just because he was happy on his birthday. It was the eleventh time that he has celebrated his birthday thusly.

'WORD' AWAITED VAINLY WITH STAGE SET

County Sleuths on Scene To Prevent Gambling as Hundreds of Fans Gather

Sleek greyhounds, their weighers in white pants, tellers and ticket takers waited in vain for the word to open the track of the Guyasuta Kennel Club on the Freeport road last night.

Chief George W. Murren and 10 of his county detectives waited, too, watching the hundreds of spectators come and go through the gambling alley with its windows marked "closed."

WORD NOT GIVEN

"The word" wasn't given. So there were no greyhound races, although from mouth to mouth along the Freeport road yesterday and the day previously, announcement of the re-opening of the tracks had passed.

Chief Murren explained he and his detectives had received instructions from District Attorney Andrew T. Park to close the place and arrest attaches in the event the gambling was attempted. The tracks were closed several

MELONS MAKE INVALIDS GAY

When Leo G. Altmayer, produce man, has a birthday, he celebrates.

Children in 67 Western Pennsylvania institutions know it, anyhow, for yesterday he sent several thousand watermelons to them, and gave them the eleventh annual watermelon party.

Youngsters and adults at the Leech Farm Tuberculosis Hospital were especially favored. A gala throng helped them eat the watermelons, and professional entertainers, a band and several acts performed to give a three-hour program. Besides, there were noise-making gadgets for the children.

Many city and county officials, as well as hundreds of friends, attended the Leech Farm party, which started shortly after 6 o'clock on the lawn in front of the hospital. Scores of melons were cut while songsters voiced popular airs and the band played.

Altmayer gave in all nearly 3,000 melons.

Raquel Gets Chance to Travel as Model

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Raquel Rojos, in revolt against her home in Hermosa, on the Mexican border, accepts a loan from Jack Farrell, a young engineer, and goes to New York, where she puts up at the Hotel Brixton and waits for Farrell to come to marry her. One night at the theater, a strange blonde woman invites her to a night club. Raquel accepts and they go to the Club Divine, escorted by Benny Barnes. To escape Barnes' unwelcome advances, Raquel accepts the challenge of a tango performer she has criticized and dances with him. At the end of the dance, she flees back to her hotel, leaving her hat at the club.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIII.

Raquel awoke the following morning feeling as if she had been in a dream. Something unusual had happened. Something fearsome, stimulating. Where had she been?

To a night club. Memory came back to her. To a play. Then to a night club.

"Pudgy old Mr. Benny Barnes," she said aloud, and laughed. "And that blonde woman! She wasn't so beautiful, now you come to think of her in the daylight."

She tried to visualize Benny. He eluded her. She forced her mind to the task. No. He was gone. Only a smudge of him remained. And a crawly feeling on her flesh where his hand had slid up her arm.

She sat up in bed. Across the room, in the mirror atop her bureau, another Raquel with curving scarlet lips and gleeful eyes was watching her.

"We're going to get up," she told this other Raquel, "go over to Fifth avenue, our street, and buy a dress. A dove grey one like that rich girl wore in the play."

Goes Shopping

Attracted to Beautiful Hat in Window

The luxury of a bath, warm tapering to cold. The satisfying feel of the pretty under things she had bought in the small shop near the hotel. They were only a shade pinker than her flesh.

Adios, old rag of a dress! Now the hat. Where had she put the hat? She had—why she no longer had a hat. Left it on the table, in the Club Divine, when she ran away from Benny. She'd have to go without a hat until she could buy another. Lots of people in New York went without hats. It was a fad.

Along the cross-street in the morning sunshine, Sunshiny world.

Raquel turned the corner into the avenue. Half-way along the block she halted suddenly. That shop was at her right. The Chez Alphonse. In the very center of the shop window, etched against a silvery gray panel, was the most wonderful hat she had ever seen. Raquel drew closer.

The hat was made of black velvet, crushed close to the crown. But the black velvet was the least of it. The wonder of this hat was the delicate white feather fronds that drooped from its side like languid morning mist caught on the wing of the night.

Beautiful hat. Made to adorn Beauty. Raquel had tasted of Adventure. Her flight from Hermosa. The driver who whisked her through the park the night she arrived in New York. The blonde woman in the theater. The Club Divine.

Asks for Hat

Raquel's Appearance Is Unimpressive

Adventure promised well—if it could claim Beauty as its handmaiden. Without Beauty, adventure was just things that happen. Like the hat in the window. It would be just a plain hat were it not for the witchery of white feathers. If she could have Adventure and Beauty both . . . !

"I should like to see the hat in the window, please," Raquel told the tawny young woman who undulated toward her as she entered the shop. The tawny one elevated pencilled eyebrows.

"The Patou with the paradise? That is an import. Quite expensive." The tail of her amber eyes traveled down Raquel's worn green dress, so obviously home-made. Settled on her scuffed black kid shoes. "We have other models, sale hats," she added grudgingly.

"I wish to see the hat in the window," said Raquel. Her arrogance singed the edges of the tawny one's ennui. Who was

WON'T BRING AIR RACES HERE

President James Rae, of the Chamber of Commerce, today announced that the Chamber has given up hopes of bringing the 1931 national air races to Pittsburgh. The principal reason, he said, was because Pittsburgh's municipal airport will not be completed in time for the races.

A special committee of the Chamber had worked more than six months on the question of bringing the races here.

Rae said air experts had advised against the move, pointing out that in view of the incomplete facilities for handling the crowd and planes, it will be impossible to hold successful races here now.

HURT BY AUTO, $35,000 ASKED

Death of one child and the serious injuries sustained by another when struck by automobiles driven by women in different parts of the county, resulted in damage suits totaling $35,000 being on file today in Common Pleas Court.

Will and Clerella Smith, of the Windgap road, whose 5½-year-old daughter, Gladys, was killed by an automobile while she was crossing the road near her home May 2, have brought suit for $10,000 against Charles Nauman, owner of the car. The machine was being operated by an unnamed woman, and the statement of claim filed with the suit charges she was driving at reckless speed.

Elizabeth Harvey, woman driver, was sued for $25,000 by George Drotar, Sr., and his son, George Drotar, Jr., of Munhall, for injuries suffered by the boy August 11, 1929. The boy was knocked down by the machine in Larkspur street, Munhall. His leg was broken and several teeth were knocked out. He claims the woman was driving at excessive speed.

POISON FATAL TO GIRL

Sarah West, 19, of 203 Seventh avenue, West Homestead, was dead today from poisoning, according to a report to the coroner, made by the McKeesport Hospital.

Police said their investigation showed that the girl swallowed poison tablets by mistake in her home Sunday. Members of the family rushed her to the hospital where she died last night.

Veteran Sleuth [illegible]ked To Find Parrot

Sergt. James W. Eagan, veteran officer attached to the Mt. Washington Police Station, scratches his head in perplexity. Frankly, he admits he's stumped.

Oldest police sergeant in point of service and veteran of many a man hunt, Eagan's services have been enlisted in what he terms to be the oddest request of his career.

Miss Jennie Carnegie, of 340 Bailey avenue, Mt. Washington, while cleaning the cage of her pet parrot, hastened to answer the telephone and forgot to close the cage door. She returned to find the bird had taken flight. Frantically she appealed to Sergt. Eagan to locate the missing pet. The sergeant scratches his head and admits he's in a quandary.

17 Await Hearings After Drys Make 21 Raids in Cambria County

The Camera Question Box

George Calvert

GEORGE CALVERT, Electrical Dealer, Crafton:—I don't see why Russian merchandise should be banned if that of other countries is allowed in. I believe in a moderate tariff for the sake of protection but would admit Russian goods on the same basis as others.

Miss Half

MISS HELEN HALF, Secretary, Squirrel Hill: — Certainly not. Russian merchandise is as good as any other and should therefore have as good a chance as the others in dealing with America.

H. Silverman

H. SILVERMAN, Jeweler, Oakland:—Since the authorities are banning Swiss goods why not also ban Russian goods? Business is being killed anyway by this bar on foreign goods and I don't see why Russia should be allowed trade any more than any of the others.

Ted Lincoln

TED LINCOLN, Salesman, Squirrel Hill:—No. I don't think that international relationships should be hindered by such a system, and that's what will happen if this plan is carried out.

Norman Porter

NORMAN PORTER, Actor, Wilkinsburg:—In order to help industry and commerce here we should buy at home first. Although I don't think foreign trade should be stopped.

Sam Schindler

SAM SCHINDLER, Salesman, Swissvale: — No, because of the disturbance such an act would cause when considering foreign relations. There isn't any concrete reason for boycotting Russian trade.

Patrolman Hurt In Fall on Curb

Patrolman Charles Williams, reporting at Central Station, slipped and fell, striking his knee against a curb at Sixth and Webster avenues, this morning.

He was taken to Mercy Hospital, where it was said an X-ray examination would be necessary to determine whether his kneecap had been fractured.

Bedclothing Fire Put Out Quickly

Slight damage was caused to an upstairs room in the home of James J. Callahan, of 8 Alvin street, today when bedclothing caught fire. The flames were extinguished quickly. Cause of the fire was not learned.

CAR WRECKED TAKING CHILD TO HOSPITAL

Truck Victim Dies After Arriving at Institution; Woman, 2 Daughters Hurt

A man and a boy were dead today and four persons were in Mercy Hospital as the result of automobile accidents in the Pittsburgh district, according to morgue and police reports.

The man, Melvin Lewis, a Negro, of 10 Carver street, was fatally injured while cranking his car in front of his home. Police said that the car was in gear, and that when he spun the handle the machine started forward, crushing him against the curbing.

Edward Borellis, 4, of 91 Elder street, North Versailles Township, died in the Braddock General Hospital after Steve Rada, of East Pittsburgh, wrecked his car while hurrying the boy to the hospital.

AUTO HITS CAR

Patrolman Gordon Cargo said the child was struck by a truck operated by Elmer Cuthbert, of 408 Grove street, McKees Rocks, near his home. Rada placed the boy in his car, and while en route to Braddock, collided with a street car.

Rada backed his wrecked machine away from the trolley and proceeded to the hospital, police said. The boy died 15 minutes after he was admitted, due to a fracture of the skull, received when he was hit by the truck, the morgue report said.

Mrs. Marguerite French, of Willock, Pa., and her two daughters, Ruth and Loretta French, are in Mercy Hospital with injuries received when their auto was wrecked near Hays. Ruth has a possible fracture of the skull, hospital authorities said.

Mrs. Nancy Harris, 38, a Negro, of Terrace Postoffice, is in Mercy Hospital with injuries received in a crash between two cars on Brown's Hill last night. Mrs. Rose Smith, a Negro, of 107 Garfield avenue, Mifflin Township, was slightly injured. They were riding in a machine driven, police said, by Mrs. S. S. Atkins, a Negro, of the Garfield street address.

Mrs. Atkins and Albert Bisky, of 9 North Third street, Duquesne, and Albert Senton, of 7215 Kelly street, occupants of the other car, were arrested by police of Squirrel Hill station.

Jack Schecter, 23, of 211 Chesterfield road, was slightly injured early today when he was struck by an automobile while alighting from a street car at Fifth avenue and Chesterfield road. He was taken to Mercy Hospital. H. H. Huddleston, of Huntington, W. Va., said by police to have been the driver, was charged with reckless driving by Oakland police.

STILLS SEIZED, SIX HOTELS INVADED

Crusade by Wilson's Force Climaxes 3-Week Inquiry Into Rum Trade in Towns

Sixteen prohibition agents, 10 state constables and two county officers, under command of Administrator Harold D. Wilson, late yesterday and last night began a cleanup of Cambria County, raiding 21 places, including six hotels, in which they arrested 17 men, and seized 700 gallons of moonshine, two wildcat breweries, 11 stills, one automobile and one ageing plant.

The raids climaxed a three-weeks' investigation. Prior to the start of the raids, 15 stills, two wildcat breweries and a number of smaller seizures were reported to agents scattered throughout the county.

In every building marked during the investigation, evidence of dry law violations was found when they were raided, the agents reported. All prisoners were held under bonds of $1,000 for hearing in Ebensburg. Warrents were issued for several more.

RAIDS IN CASSANDRA

In Cassandra the agents reported raiding the Blum Hotel and arresting Robert Blum, Jr., and another man whose name was not learned. In a building in the rear of the Deihl Hotel they reported finding 43 cases of home brew and 100 gallons of beer mash, and arresting one man. In another section of the town they found an ageing plant and 200 gallons of whisky. A warrant was issued for the owner.

Near Cassandra a wildcat brewery was raided and 148 bottles of beer and a quantity of mash were seized.

In Ferndale, a suburb of Johnstown, two 30-gallon stills, 50 gallons of moonshine and 600 gallons of mash were seized, and two men were arrested.

HASTINGS VISITED

Before sunset the agents said they had raided seven places in Hastings and four in Patton. Ten persons were arrested, while the seizures totaled seven stills, with capacities of 450 gallons; also 460 gallons of moonshine, 4,180 gallons of mash, 260 gallons of wine, and 2,132 bottles of beer, agents said.

Herbert E. Baker was arrested near Gallitzin, agents said, when they found two and a half gallons of moonshine in his car. The automobile, of expensive make, was seized. Near Portage, it was reported, a 50-gallon still and 500 gallons of mash was confiscated. One man was arrested.

INVADE PATTON HOTELS

The raids in Patton, agents reported, took place in four hotels. At the Hotel Patton, it was said, 30 gallons of mash, 20 cases of beer, and one pint of whisky were seized. Two arrests were made.

At the Commercial Hotel, 41 cases of beer were reported seized, and one person arrested. Twenty-six cases of beer were found at the Palmer House, agents said, and one arrest was made. At the Miner's Rest, no one was arrested, but agents said they found a case of beer.

Moonshine Seized, Storekeeper H

County detectives reported finding a half-pint of moonshine today when they raided the store of Oliver Boyd, Negro, at 2147 W avenue. He was charged with violating the Snyder act.

FLAMES PERIL POWDER PLANT

With wind blowing flames toward powder magazines of the explosive division plant of the E. I. Du Pont de Nemours Company at Rand Station, firemen from Homeville, Baldwin Township, and the Thirty-first Ward, extinguished a brush fire late yesterday. The flames reached within 20 feet of the plant, firemen said.

A spark from a locomotive on the Wheeling division of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad was believed to have caused the fire. Chemicals, water and sticks were used to beat out the flames, more than 40 firemen having combatted the blaze.

RAIDERS SEIZE 3 OVER LOTTERY

Acting on a recent order issued by Police Inspector Albert Beebe to "clean house up on the Hill," a raiding squad from Center Avenue Police Station today swooped down on three alleged clearing house lottery offices, confiscated paraphernalia and placed the proprietors under arrest.

The alleged owners—Benjamin Myers, of 1735 Fifth avenue; Joseph Currie, of 47½ Washington street, and Joseph Abraham, of 1004 Bedford avenue—were held in $2,500 bond each on charges of maintaining a lottery.

CROWDS WATCH

As police, under direction of Acting Lieut. Joseph Yeske, swooped down on the lottery offices, excitement prevailed and large crowds of curious collected to watch the raids.

Adding machines, "numbers" pads, and bookkeepers' records were confiscated.

Inspector Beebe today reiterated his intention of "cleaning house" both downtown and on the Hill, and put offenders in jail.

Acting Lieutenant Yeske heads a special lottery squad created by Beebe in an effort to put a stop to placing of lottery bets, he said.

SURRENDERS

Walking into the South Side Police Station early today, Jack Goldstein, 24, of 288 Lombard street, sought in connection with a raid yesterday on the alleged lottery headquarters of Thomas (Goose) Goslin, 12 South Twenty-seventh street, gave himself up.

At a hearing Magistrate John J. Sweeney discharged Goldstein, ruling evidence was insufficient to warrant a fine.

Goldstein denied being at the Goslin establishment yesterday. He said:

"I was away all day yesterday at my camp up the river. I didn't climb through any holes to escape the police. I have never written 'numbers' on the South Side or anywhere else."

Goldstein, said to be the renter of the establishment in which lottery equipment was seized yesterday by Police Inspector John J. McArdle and his "racket squad," was thought to have slipped through a hole cut in the floor on the second story of the building.

BREAKS PAROLE, SURRENDERS

Richard Harry Jones, 28, who disappeared from his home in Canonsburg a week ago, walked into a police station at Memphis, Tenn., and surrendered himself as a violator of a federal parole in Pittsburgh, U. S. Parole Officer George G. O'Brien was notified today.

Jones was paroled in May, 1929, after he had pleaded guilty to forging a government bonus check of $25.

O'Brien said that Jones' father had wired him funds to return home.

SPROUL FOUGHT IN LOUISVILLE

The attempt of the Rev. John W. Sproul, evangelist, to arrange an evangelistic campaign in Louisville, Ky., has met with opposition. The Rev. R. W. Conner, pastor of the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church there, declared that Sproul still owes him more than $100 which he lent him during a campaign in Columbus several years ago.

Mr. Connor is one of the several clergymen opposing the attempt of Sproul to conduct services in Louisville. Sproul was in Louisville July 17 to arrange for a campaign.

Mr. Connor stated yesterday he plans to confront Sproul with the old debts and to request that Sproul return to Pittsburgh and enter some other line of work.

One Drowns as Ship Sinks After Crash

LISBON, July 30.—(AP.)—The steamer Beira rammed and sank the freighter Lisboa in the Tagus River today. The Lisboa had a cargo of 1,000 tons of sugar. One member of the crew was drowned.

DOWNTOWN FIRE JAMS TRAFFIC

Traffic was jammed in Smithfield and Water streets this morning while firemen fought a blaze that broke out in the basement of 327-339 Water street, occupied on the upper floors by the Monongahela House.

Several guests of the hotel rushed to the streets when smoke rose to the lobby. Diners in a lunch room connected with the lobby also were forced to the street.

The basement is used as a storeroom by the Star Jobbing House and, according to firemen, it was filled with second-hand materials of every description. Fire Chief William Graves estimated the damage to the building at $100 and on stock $50. He also said that the fire was caused by defective wiring.

P. R. R. OUTING ON SECOND DAY

CONNEAUT LAKE, Pa., July 30.—Thousands of employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad and their families from the Pittsburgh district were here today for the second day of the eighth annual basket picnic of the Pennsylvania Railroad Mutual Benefit Association.

They came in six special trains, each carrying 12 cars, from Ambridge, Freedom, Rochester, New Brighton, Beaver, Pittsburgh, Sharpsburg, Etna, Millvale, New Kensington and many other towns.

The annual affair of the association has grown to such proportions that this year it was necessary to divide it into three sections, over a three-day period. Yesterday, more than 5,000 from Eastern Ohio and some sections of Western Pennsylvania were guests of the railroad and the association here. At least 15,000 are expected to attend the third day's outing at Idlewood Park tomorrow.

The program today includes sports of all kinds, dancing, bathing and music. Contests in various sports were to be held this afternoon.

PLAYS, DANCES IN MANCHESTER

Closing exercises of Manchester Educational Center, Chateau and Franklin streets, North Side, which start tonight, will be marked by the presentation of three plays by students. The plays will be given outdoors. A number of folk dances will augment the program.

Similar procedure will be carried out at exercises tomorrow night.

Music classes, under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Snyder, will render a program tomorrow morning for parents and friends of the students.

HELD FOR GIVING CHILD WINE

John Shagas, 42, of 8 Moultrie street, who police charge, gave his four-year-old daughter, Alberta, wine which resulted in violent illness, was arrested today and lodged in Central police station on a suspicious person charge.

Meanwhile Childrens' Hospital attaches, where the child is a patient, report her condition as improved.

Shagas disappeared Monday after the child became ill. He was found near his home today.

Alberta, according to relatives, went to the cellar of her home with her father, where he had prepared a quanity of wine to take to a friend. Police say they were informed the father gave Alberta a large amount of the liquor. Later she became violently ill. Lapsing into a coma, the victim was rushed to the Children's hospital. Shagas will be given a hearing tomorrow.

LOS ANGELES, July 30.—(AP.)—Wilford Deming, Jr., whose antics in an airplane over the fashionable film colony at Malibu Beach Sunday put to rout Director Ernest Lubitsch and the children of Gloria Swanson, has been given 30 days in which to mend his aerial manners.

Gasoline Tank Car Found to Hold Ale Shipment

BRADFORD, Pa., July 30.—(AP.)—A new method of shipping ale was revealed here when county officials found 150 cases of the beverage in a gasoline tank car on a refinery siding. The cases were packed in the car, which was sent here from Montreal.

The car, here since last Saturday, was opened by County Detective Jack J. Allison after a "tip" had been received from federal prohibition agents. It was left on the siding ostensibly to be filled with gasoline.

The consignee was unknown by the county detective.

GARAGE BURNS, LOSS $3,000

Fire in a garage in the rear of a four-family apartment building at 6636 Northumberland street early today destroyed two automobiles, with loss estimated at $3,000 by Fire Capt. William Purcell, of Engine Company 34.

The garage was owned by former Police Commissioner John P. Clancy. The automobiles were owned by M. F. Coy, living in the apartment, and Samuel Frankel, of 6606 Dalzell place.

GROUND SCHOOL FOR AVIATORS

Aspiring aviators and aviatrixes are being given an opportunity to gratify their ambitions and receive the preliminary ground school training in a contest being conducted as part of the program for "Aviation Week" being celebrated in all Warner theaters.

Six complete ground school courses, taking in every phase of flying can be learned without actually taking a ship in the air and 12 extended flights over the city will be given as the prizes for the 18 best essays on "Why I Like to Fly."

These courses and flights are being given through the courtesy of the Pittsburgh School of Aviation, the Penn School of Aviation and the Curtiss-Wright School of Aviation. An air parade, featuring 30 of the best known stunt flyers in Western Pennsylvania, will be held over the city at noon, Thursday.

The winners of the essay contest will be announced in next Tuesday's Sun-Telegraph.

Jackson, O'Brine Ten Days in Air

LAMBERT-ST. LOUIS FIELD, July 30.—(INS.)—Surviving the bumpy weather which prevailed late yesterday, the Greater St. Louis endurance plane flown by Dale (Red) Jackson and Forrest O'Brine, swooped into its tenth day this morning.

RETURNS HOME TO BURY SON

Summoned by radio from Europe, Mrs. Joseph Stadtfeld, wife of Judge Stadtfeld, of Common Pleas Court, arrived home today to attend funeral services for her son, Joseph Stadtfeld, Jr., 30, tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. Stadtfeld, with her granddaughter, Dorothy McGee, was en route to Germany to attend the Passion Play. She received a radio message from her husband, while on board a steamer July 19, that their son had been critically injured in an automobile accident the preceding day.

After landing at Bologne, July 19, Mrs. Stadtfeld immediately engaged passage on a return steamer. She left Plymouth July 24, the same day her son died in St. Francis Hospital, but had not learned of his death until she reached New York on the Ile de France.

Services will be held at 2:30 p. m. in the family residence, 5575 Wilkins avenue. Stadtfeld was injured when his auto crashed into a retaining wall at Bigelow boulevard and Craig street, June Day, 26, of Charleroi, with Stadtfeld, suffered a fracture of the skull in the accident. She is reported recovering.

Wilmerding Youth Wins Scholarship

DOG TRACK NOT REOPENED

weeks ago, after Park received complaints from the Allegheny Valley Ministerial Association and the Blawnox Borough council.

That the word "Go" had been said was evidenced by the preparedness with which track employes greeted their potential customers. American Legion men in uniform—the starters—and other attaches spent the first two hours walking back and forth among the spectators, who numbered 2,000 or more. Eventually everyone left except the dog keepers and watchmen.

Chief Murren said he talked with John Douglas, Jr., named receiver for the club, last night, but had received no assurance that the hounds would or would not race.

Douglas yesterday asked Judge Frank P. Patterson, in Common Pleas Court, to grant a preliminary injunction restraining District Attorney Park from interfering with the operation of the track. The court informed him that he would grant no order restraining the district attorney from performing his duty, adding that there had been nothing presented to him indicating that Park intended to interfere with Douglas in his receivership.

EMORY PASTOR GETS CALL

The official board of the Emory Methodist Episcopal Church next week is expected to consider the call extended the Rev. Dr. W. Wofford T. Duncan, pastor, by the Center Venue Methodist Episcopal Church of Indianapolis. Negotiations between the two churches for an exchange of pastors have been under way for some time, it was said. According to information from Indianapolis, the Rev. Frank Lee Roberts, pastor of the Indianapolis church, would come to Emory.

Dr. Duncan is now touring Canada. Although he has not made known publicly what action he would take in the call, it is believed that he will accept it.

He came to Emory Church 10 years ago from Brooklyn, where he held the pastorate of the Janes Methodist Episcopal Church seven years. During his pastorate here he has been responsible for placing Emory Church among the largest of the Methodist denomination in the United States. Its membership is said to be more than 2,600.

Increased Demands Of Potters Opposed

CANTON, O., July 30.—(AP.)—General agreement that present conditions "afford no opportunity for meeting the increased demand" of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, was reported from discussions at the annual mid-summer meeting of the U. S. Pottery Association, comprising owners of virtually the entire ceramic industry in this country.

The question was referred to the labor committee, which is to meet next Monday in East Liverpool to draw up the employers' proposition to be presented August 12 to the joint conference of manufacturers and brotherhood representatives.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Everybody Should Take an Interest in Life

She's sick of life—at 17.

No friends—no interests—no ambitions—in fact, existence is a complete washout to Anne.

If she does go out she's miserable. Feels that everyone is looking at her and secretly laughing at her. And she huddles wretchedly in the corner for the evening, hating the world that has no place for her.

Ever feel like that yourself, Pal? Dollars to doughnuts, you have! And I'm betting, also, that you wrote many a letter like this:

"Dear Sally:

"I am 17 years old and I'm tired of life. That may sound funny to you but it's True.

"And the strangest thing is that I know what the matter is. I know the remedy. But the trouble is, I can't apply it.

"You see, I am with myself too much. I think of myself all day long. I have no friends because I don't go places and do things. And I don't go anywhere because I have no friend. So there's a complete circle. I won't push myself where I'm not wanted, and no one knows me well enough to want me. So there you are.

FORGET ABOUT SELF

"I know that the way to overcome this condition is to forget about myself, and I know I shouldn't be so conscious of myself every minute. I know I should remember when I'm in a group that I'm only one of a crowd, and that people are not all looking at me . . . that I am far from being the most noticeable of the people there. However, it's one thing to know what to do, and quite another to be able to do it.

"Oh, Miss Martin! What can I do to get myself out of this present state of unhappiness? Life is so uninteresting to me. So dull. So full of just nothing at all! It's driving me crazy! I want to have something to live for. And I haven't a thing.

"You're always saying that life is wonderful. Can you help me to see it that way, too? What's wrong with me, that I am this way? Please try to straighten me out, won't you?

"ANNE."

What's wrong with you?

Nothing unique, honey—you're just stuck on yourself.

You don't believe that. Perhaps you indignantly deny it.

"Only conceited people are stuck on themselves," you cry, "and I'm not conceited. Why, didn't I just tell you how self-conscious and awkward I felt?"

SELF-CONSCIOUS

Conceit has many forms, little girl, and self-consciousness is one of the pestiest. Self-consciousness means consciousness of self. If you're everlastingly conscious of yourself—if you're always thinking of yourself, either happily or unhappily, then you can't be conscious of anyone else.

And if you aren't conscious of anyone else, it's a cinch that no one else will be conscious of you.

How can you get friends?

By having something to give friends. What have you to give friends now if they should come your way? Nothing but 17 years of self interest—nothing but your own confusion and fear and resentment and loneliness. Is that now, a swell gift? Yes, it is not.

If you want happiness, you must prepare for it, work for it, battle for it. And you can't prepare by reading a book or attending a party or writing a letter to me. You must get out and hustle 24 hours of the day.

Hustle for what? Hustle for new interests—new charm—new vigor of mind and body and spirit. You can't find these things within you. They lie without you. You can't cure your dullness and timidity by concentrating on them. You can only cure them by accumulating sparkle and courage and charm. How? By going where they grow. Into other lives. Into new adventures—new work—new responsibility.

Take an interest in life and life will take an interest in you.

Praise of Another Fails to Impress, but It Does Bore, Says Fay King

HE'S THE BEST LOOKING THING YOU EVER SAW. ALL THE GIRLS ARE CRAZY ABOUT HIM!
IT IS JUST AS BORING TO YOUR BOY FRIEND TO HEAR YOU RAVE OVER ANOTHER FELLOW, AS IT WOULD BE FOR YOU TO HEAR HIM RAVE OVER ANOTHER GIRL!
HE CERTAINLY KNOWS HOW TO ENTERTAIN A GIRL!
THE SECRET OF POPULARITY IS THE COMPLIMENT OF CONCENTRATION FAY-TING

By FAY KING

Any girl who has had to listen while a young man she likes is praising the beauty, charm and fascination of some other girl to her, knows only too well how boring such a monologue can be.

Yet girls must realize that it can be just as boring for a young man to listen to the same line about some other boy friend.

No doubt both foolish young people who bore their friends with this impolite chatter about someone else do so mostly to impress the fact of their popularity with others. But it so unnecessary.

The best way to impress anyone with your popularity is to compliment him with your concentration. If you interest him he is sure you can interest others.

Robert Savarin Is Revealed as Sender of Package

"Two thousand dollars!"

The words in Harry Underwood's voice seemed to caroon round the side hall where he stood facing Lillian and me with the big wooden box from the Catskills lying between us. I was thankful that neither Lillian nor I had echoed them aloud, although I knew that her brain was ringing with them as mine was. I made one feeble banal effort to postpone what I now knew was inevitable.

"There's probably a mistake. Mrs. Cosgrove probably meant $20 and the express operator got it mixed."

Harry Underwood laughed shortly.

"Considering that $20 is probably the high-water mark for a shipment from that office in as many years," he drawled, "I am afraid that very interesting theory won't hold water. Besides this receipt slip contains other details which I should have given before, only your little chat concerning the evergreens was so entertaining. I simply didn't have the heart to interrupt it. But—well—suppose you look at the thing yourself."

He thrust the piece of paper toward us, and I took it before Lillian could raise her hand. There was that in Harry Underwood's eyes, something primitive, feral, which made me feel that I must shield Lillian as far as lay within me from whatever the arrival of this box involved.

The receipt was stamped with the word "Fragile" and I realized now that the box bore the same label. But it was the name of the shipper which held my eyes fascinated.

Robert Savarin!

It was the name I had feared, yet half expected to see. Robert Savarin, the famous artist, lost to the world through insanity, and hidden in the Catskill Mountain home of his faithful sister, Mrs. Cosgrove, for 15 years, and then miraculously restored to sanity, fame and fortune again.

This restoration had brought him more than all this. It had brought back Lillian into his life. Lillian whom he had befriended when she was an eager young student and to whom he had given her first drawing lessons. He had gone away to Paris, and out of Lillian's life, ignorant of the wild admiration, the first love of a romantic girl, which Lillian secretly had given him. His marriage, his subsequent unhappiness, ending in a broken mind, his disappearance from the artistic world—these had been known only vaguely to my friend because of the troubles which had come into her own life after that first girlish adoration of Robert Savarin had become only a fragrant memory.

Her marriage with Tom Morton, Marion's father, had been a tragedy because of the man's utter rascality and the success of his devilish scheme to keep her child from her, and compelling her to divorce him. Utterly lonely she and Harry Underwood—"another derelict" he had dubbed himself—had joined their lives in a comfortable, comradely marital past which held no touch of romance, and had been fairly content in the "Broadway atmosphere," which had been theirs when I first met them directly after my marriage to Dicky, their best friend.

Then Tom Morton had died, clearing Lillian's name in a deathbed confession, and restoring her little daughter to her. Lillian's instant determination to cast aside the makeup and the dyed hair which Harry Underwood had insisted upon her using because they made her look youthful had been the beginning of the rift between the husband and wife. Then had come Harry Underwood's inexplicable plunge into debauchery and that final culminating drunken act of treason which had nearly cost Dicky's life on the aviation field during our preparations for the World War.

Then for nearly 10 years Harry Underwood had been, first a fugitive, then, because of his bravery under an assumed name in the war, an unofficial detector of plots against constituted government. He had shown no desire even to see Lillian, and it was during this interval that Robert Savarin, his name on every lip in the artistic world, found her again, and fell in love with her as violently as if he were a callow schoolboy.

It had been a wonderful wooing, this of the famous artist, and I had watched with mingled hopes and forebodings Lillian's slow but sure capitulation to it, aided greatly, I knew, by Marion's outspoken affection for her "Uncle Robert" and her demand that her mother make him her "really truly" father. Only Dicky had staunchily insisted that Harry Underwood, despite his sins, was more Lillian's mate than a "doddering ancient," as he persisted in dubbing the famous artist.

Only I knew how near Lillian had been to acceding to Robert Savarin's urging that she quietly divorce Harry Underwood and marry him, and I only knew the reason for the sudden departure of the artist for Europe. It was because she had discovered that the artist, apparently the soul of gentleness, was a Turk at heart, who was jealous of her work, of every man she met in a professional way, and who, she clearly discerned, would demand that even her idolized daughter, Marion, should hold a place in her heart second to his.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND.

Go-Getting a Husband

Every now and then, some feminist valiantly announces that women have the right to do the courting, the pursuing and the proposing, now that they have jobs and pay-envelopes.

OF COURSE, they have! Who's going to stop them? They have the right to wear ear-muffs and shave their heads and paint their noses red and eat onions for dinner, too! But, none of these will get them any popularity with the men.

They have the "right" to call a man 20 times a day on the telephone and send him orchids and chuck him under his itsy-bitsy chin—if he'll stand for it.

It isn't "rights" that a woman needs today; it's common sense—and a little knowledge of masculine psychology. From the beginning of time to the end of time, man always has been and always will be the hunter, the pursuer, the go-getter! That is not an artificial thing produced by social customs. That is the God-given nature of the male of the species!

* * *

If any man ever said "yes" to a woman's frank proposal of marriage, then there was something the matter with him. Nothing so frightens a normal he-man as a woman's unsolicited offer of love. Nothing freezes his budding affections so quickly, as to discover that she has trumped his ace or spoiled his game, by daring to love him before he ASKED her to.

* * *

A small boy doesn't want anybody to "help" him build his blocks or wind his toys; it takes all the fun out of the game for him. And a grown man doesn't want to be "helped out" in the love-game.

Yet, every day in every way, girls are getting to be more and more "helpful" in the matter of overcoming a sweet, shy young man's diffidence and meeting him three-quarters of the way.

Every day, some doubting sister asks me if I do not think she would be more popular if she were more responsive and more easily kissed; or if she had the courage to call a man up and "make a lot of fuss over him."

* * *

Why be so altruistic? Man is a predatory animal. And when he wants anything, he goes right AFTER it, whether it's money or love or only a girl's society.

Nothing discourages a man who is even a little bit in love or a little bit interested in a woman. NOTHING—except too much "encouragement!"

It is possible, of course, to freeze a man's love out—but it would take an electric refrigerator to do it. Yet, it can be choked out in half a minute by a warm blanket of responsiveness. When you seem overanxious to give a man anything, whether it's your love or just your hospitality or your kisses, he naturally concludes that it can't be worth much. That's his psychology—and he can't help it.

A woman may be won by wooing. Like a dog, she appreciates affection and attention. But a man is like a cat; the only way to "win" him is to LET HIM ALONE.

* * *

Of course, the modern self-supporting girl has the "right" to do the courting and the proposing. But, she also has the right to hunt elephants with a bean-shooter, or to catch whales with a hair-net!

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Make Vacation Time One of Rest and Right Living

Every now and then during the summer months, my thoughts go out to the vacationist. I think of the thousands who are somewhere pleasure bent, of those who seek rest and recuperation from strenuous city life. I give thought to those who expect to build for health against the stress and strain of the rest of the year.

DR COPELAND

When you are planning for a vacation be sure you select a sanitary place. Whether it be a summer hotel, a boarding house, a camp or seashore place, it must be one that has a pure milk, food and water supply.

If the children are going to a camp take particular care that the sanitary laws are observed to the letter. Investigate the camp before your child is sent there. Be sure it has the approval of state and local health officers. Many a child has returned from camp life with typhoid germs lurking in the system, germs acquired from milk or water that has been contaminated.

I should like to say something about sports and athletics of children in camp. Of course, all the camps have careful supervision of sports. It must be remembered that boys and girls who have not been accustomed to them must be cautioned not to go too strenuously into sports. There must be a gradual hardening of the body before competitive sports are indulged in by children, or adults either. Have the family doctor look over your child before sending the youngster to camp.

Thousands of people are off on almost daily motoring and hiking expeditions. They have dangers to face. It has been found that persons are more liable to typhoid who stop at camping places, places remote, where drinking water is taken from brook and spring, than those who go to summer hotels and boarding houses. Much trouble is saved by taking along the thermos bottle of drinking water, unless you are to visit a spot known to be safe. Don't take any chances in the water you drink.

It is scarcely necessary to urge plenty of physical exercise for the general vacationist. Rather it is better to remind him that too much or too strenuous exercise is unwise, particularly if he is not accustomed to it. Begin a gradual building up of the body muscles. Exercise in moderation. Do not attempt too long walks in the heat of the day.

Take a first aid kit along on your vacation. Maybe you won't need it, but in case of accident it is a fine thing to have.

The seaside places are meccas for millions of people. You can't find a place without its Coney Island. There are things to be said for and against going into the water where too many people bathe but you can't always stop them.

Don't stay in the hot sun all day, for you may have to pay the penalty with raw-burned skin and much misery. You can have too much of any good thing. Begin the tanning process gradually, toughening the skin to the sun's rays gently and gradually.

Those who make of vacation a time of right living, rest and recuperation return in the autumn in new vigor and health. In the early fall the passing throng in the city streets are a more alive, reanimated, healthy lot of individuals, glad to be back in the fray. It is distinctly worth while to know how to spend a vacation wisely and well.

MISS HARD-BOILED

By JANE DIXON

this saleswoman to judge of her purse?

"There's a bold one," she heard the saleswoman telling someone behind a screen near the window. "She wants the Patou model, no less. Did you get the trick clothes? And no hat! How they find their way up on the Avnoo from the East Side is beyond me."

The comment was made loud enough so that it would reach her. Of this Raquel was certain. Her white teeth came together, shone hostilely between her half-parted lips. She disposed herself in leisurely fashion before a beveled mirror wreathed in cupids and chrome flowers.

The saleswoman brought the hat. Placed it on Raquel's head. She would not trust it to this customer's crass fingers. She stepped back, her amber eyes wide, unbelieving. Cinderella had become the Princess of Beauty!

"Astonishing!" she admitted. "The black and white, with your coloring. As if someone had turned on the lights, inside you. The black velvet, against your pallor—you should wear gardenias, my dear, and soft clinging black, always."

Raquel had no false modesty. She knew the saleswoman, compelled to admiration by the sheer wonder of her beauty, had spoken the truth.

"Yes," she said, "the hat becomes me. Is it very costly?"

"A hundred and fifty dollars. The paradise feathers, they are choice."

Raquel left the shop with heavy feet and heavier heart. She dared not risk it. A small fortune for a hat. Her roll of bills would be getting thin. They must last until Farrell came to New York. She did not leave the hotel again that day. Of what use was it—adventure in ugly clothes? She was morose and unhappy.

Another morning came. With it Raquel's feet led her unerringly to the window of Chez Alphonse. The hat was still there. Its white feather fronds beckoned her. She must try it on once more. Just try it, that once.

Inside the shop the tawny saleswoman was nowhere in sight. A middle-aged acidulous woman with pursed lips sniffed at Raquel's request to see the hat, "the black one with the white feathers." Instantly Raquel knew this acid woman had been the other one behind the screen the day before. With deliberation, Raquel opened her cheap little purse, purchased from a sidewalk collection on Sixth avenue. The roll of bills protruded from its yawning top. The acid woman stared, at once became alert.

"It's your hat, mademoiselle," she gushed in a syrupy way. "So chic! Genteel! Charming!"

"But the price." Raquel fought back her rising want. "If you could let me have it for less, even a hundred dollars—"

The woman pushed the suggestion away.

"No," she said. "We could not. It is already a bargain. Monsieur Alphonse would never consent."

A subtle change in the woman's voice, servility. Raquel's eyes flew to the glass. They met the scrutining face of a man standing at her shoulder. A smallish man with a chalky face and narrow, stooping shoulders.

"Mademoiselle likes the hat, Miss Laura?" he asked.

"It's the most wonderful hat I've ever seen." Raquel exclaimed. Her eager black eyes still held the man's sage unwinking ones in the mirror. "I want it—so much. But the price—"

The form of the chalky-faced man receded. In its place before her mind's eye, was a red-faced conductor in a battered blue cap pushed back, scratching his head with blunt thumb and forefinger. "I can't change this bill—" She had not paid for that train ride to Phoenix. Her red lipt curved into a smile, at once imperative and pleading. Warm lights gleamed behind the mystery curtains of her eyes.

"I can do nothing about the price—unless—" The chalky-faced man paused, devoured every detail of her face, her delicately curved figure. "Have you ever considered becoming a model, Mademoiselle—"

"—Rojos. Raquel Rojos." Duplicity would not do with him.

"I am Monsieur Alphonse. I am in search of a model. For my Paris season. Two are already selected. Your type is—er—unusual. If you are free—"

A half hour later Raquel left the shop. The hat with the paradise feathers was on her head. It crowned her beauty as a royal diadem crowns a queen. Tonight she would have dinner with Monsieur Alphonse. She would decide whether or not she would keep the hat.

Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Skinny gals must eat plenty of butter and drink milk. If emanciation puts her under normal weight she should take cod liver oil, which is not only fattening, but which contains elements that create pep in the human frame. Plenty of fresh air, plenty of sleep and no vigorous exercise form a good working rule for the willowies.

The well-balanced diet that promotes bright eyes, a clear complexion and a steady nervous system consists of meats, eggs, cereals, milk, fruit juices, vegetables, green salads and a small quantity of sugar in some form. Every day there should be taken orange juice, one or two eggs and milk, which provide material for strong teeth.

High pillows are bad. They cut wrinkle lines in the neck and put up and down furrows along the middle of the cheek. Worse still, they contract the chest and interfere with full, free breathing, which is lighter during sleep than during wakefulness. Sleeping always on the same side thins the hair on one side of the head and changes the contour of the face. Never sleep with the arms above the head; that position slows the circulation of the blood.

Household Hints

A steel bodkin is a good thing for joining the seams of a knitted sweater.

If you want to keep crocheting or tatting particularly clean while working on it, always wash your hands before you start to work, dry well and dust with white talcum powder. It will mean cleaner results.

When making fruit pies that are heavy with juice, moisten the edges of the crust with a little milk and press down tight. Then insert two small pieces of macaroni in the center of the pie. The juice will bubble into the macaroni instead of saturating the crust.

CORRECT MANNERS

Amenities of the Engagement Ring

DR. MRS. BEECKMAN:

In order to settle an argument with a girl friend, I would like you to answer the following:

1. On what finger should the engagement ring be worn?
2. During the ceremony?
3. After the ceremony?
4. On what finger should a signet ring be worn?

JOHN.

1. On the third finger of the left hand—the finger next to the little finger.
2. Usually the bride either leaves her engagement ring at home during the ceremony, or wears it on her right hand, on any finger on which it is comfortable.
3. After the ceremony she returns the ring to the finger on which her wedding ring has been placed.
4. Usually it is worn on the "little finger."

'Dinner Is Served'

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

To settle an argument, will you kindly advise if the dinner gong announcing a meal is good form, or if the maid should enter the living room and say "dinner is served?"

We have a very sweet-toned gong and I favor its use, while some maintain it reminds them of a camp boarding house and so forth.

FRED.

I realize how you feel about foregoing the beauty of the tone of the gong, but it is so much better form—indeed, the only good form—to have the maid announce that "dinner is served," that it is best to adopt this custom. Hoping that the maid will also have a "sweet toned" voice!

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

A bore is a person who stays when you want him to leave, who jabbers when you want quiet and who talks about himself when you want to talk about yourself. Keeping up a friendship with a bore or ending it painlessly are life's most trying problems. Sometimes such a friendship is advantageous, for business or social reasons, and sometimes the rest of his family are so enjoyable that you can't hurt them by sidestepping the bore.

I have a letter from a woman who says that her greatest cross is the woman next door. She calls across the way in a cheerful good morning and then says she'd like to run over but her dishes aren't washed and she can't. All the time she keeps jabbering, and soon she is on the writer's doorstep. She must hurry, she can't stay, she has work to do, but in she comes! And she sits and sits and sits! Then she starts to go home and does some more standing, first on one foot then on the other, talking incessantly. Tired, the hostess asks her to sit down—but no, she can't. She must hurry.

"A man," says the writer, "would tip his hat, smile a good morning, say a few words and go. But OH, THIS WOMAN!"

I know. I've had neighbors like that, but I am not as patient as you are. I begin to step around like a restless racehorse, and then say: "I am sorry, but I've got things to do." Maybe they won't like it and won't come back, but that's what you want, isn't it?

I believe you can tell people things in such a way that they will understand, and by forcing them a little, get them out.

You are wrong when you say men don't hang on. I've seen them hang to the office time of a busy man until his secretary and his stenographer wanted to throw him out. The man using every ruse to rid himself of them is often unable to do so.

There is undoubtedly a special hell for those folks. A place where they have to stand and listen to bores until they topple over from sheer exhaustion.

If you don't like people and they are insensitive to your hints and your attitude toward them, it shouldn't be wrong to tell them you are out of patience and would enjoy being let alone. The trouble is bores are sometimes very nice people at heart and so well meaning! And when they are neighbors, they ARE a problem. I'd advise you to tell your bore that you waste too much time standing around and that you must go to work. Do it good naturedly, but make her understand it. Laugh her out of it. If you can't do that, do something to make her a little less fond of you and don't be so invitingly cordial. Perhaps the fault is partly yours. Act a little more the way you feel and see what happens.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Thursday, July 31

Fairly prosperous and gratifying conditions may be presaged from the planetary activities operating on this day. The personal or social element may be an important element in the day's affairs, both business and private. With a tendency to impetuosity, sudden decisions and actions, and vexatious speech under control, all matters may flourish and move along to cherished goals. Very pleasant relations may obtain in social, domestic or affectional spheres.

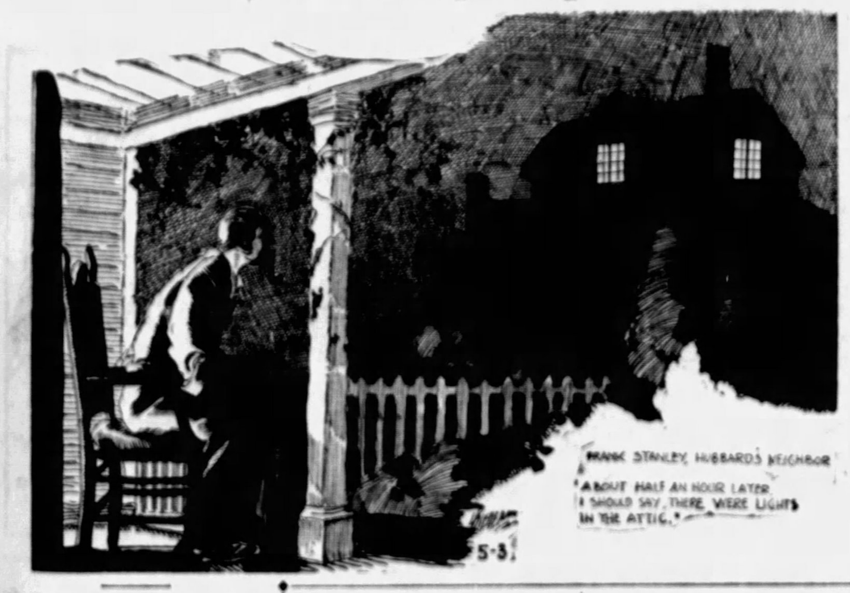
Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a fairly successful, prosperous and happy year, with all affairs moving toward fulfilled ambitions. But this good augury could be negatived by indulgence in rash, hasty, turbulent and vindictive acts and words. Private associations should thrive and be happy.

A child born on this day should be active, clever, genial, ambitious and popular.

Master Mysteries

By ARTHUR HOERL

The Hemp Rope



WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Jonathan Hubbard, last of an old New York family, is found hanged in the attic of his house. The house, an out-of-date mansion, is suspected of being haunted by the ghost of Darrell, a gambler, who was reported to have won the estate from a Hubbard early in the nineteenth century. By observation and deduction Robin Dale gives the police a synthetic description of the culprit: "He is a robust man, at least six feet tall, wears eyeglasses, is left-handed, above average intelligence and probably is fond of the water."

Now Go On With the Story.

CHAPTER III.

"If he likes the water, carries a cigaret lighter and is left-handed, Dale," Blake said with a grim smile. "Our man is walking into the house at this moment!"

As they went down the steps, leading from the attic, leaving Jardin and Dr. Wattles with the body, Capt. Blake took the occasion to congratulate Dale on his keen observation.

"Every fact seems to be backed by simple logic, although I can't say everyone could have reasoned it out that way."

They found the tall, well-dressed gentleman waiting in the big living room on the main floor. He was standing at a table, drumming on it with his finger-tips. Capt. Blake explained his presence in the house.

"I'm Ralph Barnes, of the firm of Jackson, Barnes and Laurel. . . . I am Jonathan Hubbard's personal attorney. I can hardly believe what you tell me about his death, it's almost beyond comprehension. I saw Mr. Hubbard only yesterday afternoon. We discussed certain changes he desired made in his will immediately. I made an appointment with him for this morning and came directly here from my home at Long Beach."

Barnes could hardly be expected to understand the sudden glance which passed between Blake and Dale.

"I'd be interested in knowing about those changes in Mr. Hubbard's will," Capt. Blake said.

The attorney started to unbuckle his brief case in silent acquiescence. Robin Dale took out a packet of cigarets. He held it out to Ralph Barnes, who shook his head and thanked Dale. The reporter took one and then searched unsuccessfully for a match.

"I wonder if you have a light, Mr. Barnes?" Dale asked.

There was a perceptible movement toward his vest pocket, but then Barnes shook his head and replied:

"I'm sorry, I don't smoke and have no need for matches."

Capt. Blake handed Dale a match, smilingly.

"Mr. Hubbard's will was a very simple one, Captain; his entire estate was, in his original will, left in equal shares to his nephew, Andrew Eastly, and his niece, Charlotte Hubbard, with a bequest of $5,000 to Mrs. Mary Lochel, his housekeeper. Through some difference of opinion with his nephew, Mr. Hubbard desired to disinherit him entirely and that was the reason for having me draw up a new will. In this new will the entire estate was left to Charlotte Hubbard excepting the bequest to Mrs. Lochel.

"Under the circumstances, however, the original will shall remain in force and is the one which will be probated. I came here this morning for the purpose of having Mr. Hubbard sign the new testament."

"What was the nature of Hubbard's quarrel with his nephew?" Capt. Blake asked.

"I'd rather have Mr. Eastly explain that, if you don't mind, Capt. Blake," the lawyer answered.

Ralph Barnes left shortly thereafter, having advised Blake that there would be a private reading of Jonathan Hubbard's will a week from that day, in accordance with the old man's wishes, and immediately thereafter the instrument would be placed in probate.

Mrs. Mary Lochel was next called upon by Capt. Blake. In most respects her story was a simple recitation of facts that threw very little light on the mystery. She knew no one who had any reason for murdering Jonathan Hubbard. This, despite the fact that she admitted he was hard and miserly in disposition.

His miserly qualities was the reason for her absence from the house the night before. She had made the habit of going once each week into the farming districts of Long Island to purchase vegetables, butter and eggs sufficient for a weekly supply. This procedure had been inaugurated at the behest of Mr. Hubbard because of the saving it afforded.

"How much do you think was saved each week, Mrs. Lochel?" Robin Dale asked this question.

"Three or four dollars, not more," was the reply.

"Mr. Hubbard held tightly to his money?"

"He never spent a cent that he could help. He liked to hoard his money . . . and now it's no benefit to him."

The only visit, according to Mrs. Lochel, which had been paid Mr. Hubbard the day before was that of Mr. Barnes, his lawyer, who spent over an hour with him early in the afternoon. Mrs. Lochel left about 2:30, shortly after Mr. Barnes had departed.

The only other dwelling on the block with the Hubbard mansion was a small private house set on a single lot. During his investigation the first day Capt. Blake called there. The man of the house was at home. His name was Frank Stanley.

"No, I heard nothing unusual at midnight. It was a pretty hot night and I sat on the porch most of the evening to take advantage of the breeze. It was after 12 before I went in. About 8 o'clock I saw a tall young man enter the house. I've seen him go there often. . . . . the old man's nephew, I think he is.

"I never noticed if he came out. Then, at 11:30 or thereabouts, another man came from the opposite direction and went to the door. He was let in at once. About half an hour later, I should say, there were lights in the attic. I paid no attention because that has happened often before. . . . . you know, there's a belief that the house is haunted, although I don't believe in such nonsense. The light was on no more than 10 minutes. Shortly after that I went in, but I saw no one come out.

"And while I was sitting here unconcerned about it, a murder was being done almost within my sight. You never know when you're going to get it, do you?"

AIR MAIL PILOT SAVES TRAIN

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(INS.)—The heroism and resourcefulness of Mal B. Freeburg, night air mail pilot, probably saved the lives of many persons, including Bobby Jones, amateur golf champion, traveling on a Burlington Railroad train, it was disclosed in a report to the Post-office Department by B. F. Myers, assistant superintendent of the air mail service at Chicago.

According to the report, Freeburg was flying the night air mail from the Twin Cities to Chicago, only July 12. Near Trevino, Wis., he noticed an unusual glow below. Dropping down he discovered a Burlington Railroad bridge afire. Having passed a passenger train headed that way a few miles back, Freeburg turned back until he met the train.

Circling the train and flying low, he flashed his landing lights, dropped a flare and by so doing caused the engineer to stop.

Porcupine Dies Under Sharon Automobile

SHARON, Pa., July 30.—A porcupine came to town to enjoy the hot weather, and met its death. It was killed by an automobile.

SANDINO CAMP DESTROYED

MANAGOA, Nicaragua, July 30.—(AP.)—A Nicaraguan National Guard patrol, commanded by Capt. Puller, reported the destruction of a well-concealed camp in Northeast Jinotega province used for two years by the forces of the Insurgent general, Sandino.

A Sandinsta named Sabar Manzanares was killed in the attack. Before dying he said that the camp had just been occupied by Sandino and his three lieutenants, Altamirano, Ortez and Salgado, who fled.

CANNERS FACE LABOR SUITS

HARRISBURG, July 30.—(AP.)—The State Department of Labor and Industry instituted wholesale prosecutions of vegetable canners, including eight in York County, for violating state labor laws. Harry D. Immel, director of the Bureau of Inspection, said the action was taken as the result of failure of the canners to fulfill pledges made several years ago after a survey had revealed flagrant illegalities in the industry.

While illegal employment of women and children is charged in all actions, it was reported that methods of housing and sanitation had been found which demanded immediate correction. In some cases all-night employment of girls 13 and 14 years old is charged.

INDIGESTION, GAS, PAIN 3 YEARS; FINDS NEW QUICK WAY TO END IT

No More Stomach Torture. Can Eat Everything. Sleeps Fine. Thanks New Formula, Acidine.

"I had a mean case of acid indigestion for the past 3 years," writes Miss Adeline Beljean of 339 99th St., Brooklyn, N. Y. "Tried everything with little if any results. Then heard about Acidine and got some. It is certainly a miracle medicine. I can eat everything without gas or pain. Sleep fine. I'd like to broadcast Acidine so every one like myself would try it and get thoroughly well."

Amazing the way this new formula Acidine succeeds where other remedies fail. The reason is that it is entirely different. Contains an effective starch digestant, Japtase, that promptly liquefies 800 times its own weight of starchy, lumpy food. Five other ingredients instantly relieve burning acid, stop gas and soothe the irritated stomach lining. No other remedy contains this scientific combination to end all acid stomach trouble.

If you use Acidine you can eat, drink and smoke without fear of the acidity which depresses you and results in more serious troubles. A well-known physician says: "I am convinced Acidine is an anti-acid of the first rank. For those who are troubled with gas, heaviness after eating, heartburn, belching, bloating, usually due to excess acidity, I generally prescribe Acidine."

Thousands have found it the only relief from acid indigestion and dyspepsia, gas pain, heartburn, coated tongue, bad taste, dizziness, fullness, short breath, and other troubles from acid stomach. So it is rapidly taking the place of other stomach remedies. No formula for over-acidity surpasses Acidine, the household standby of millions. Your druggist has Acidine.

Grape Juice for Health

Physicians Recommend It

A Brain-Sharpener. Pure grape juice served as a breakfast fruit, is so perfectly adapted to the human system that its rich fruit nourishment and mineral salts are taken into the blood stream without digestive effort—quick, new vigor to meet the awaiting problems of the day!

Non-Fattening. Pure grape juice deserves a prominent place on every reducing diet—first, because it supplies the kind of nourishment the body needs; secondly, because it is non-fattening. Its mildly laxative qualities keep one feeling fit and fine

A Delightful Refreshment. For more than 60 years Welch's Grape Juice—the pure juice of luscious Concords—has proved a delightfully refreshing beverage for millions of people. Six liberal portions to the pint make it the most temptingly delicious soft drink in America. Many prefer it diluted with one-third water. Insist on Welch's—pure, unadulterated.

FLAWS ARE SEEN IN NOCTURNAL GAME

NIGHT BASEBALL MAY be coming along in some parts of the country, and with the improvements that are bound to be made in the lighting arrangements with the passing of a time it may have even greater possibilities than have yet been claimed for it. But the progress of the nocturnal pastime appears to have been exaggerated by its boosters in the report that it has advanced so far that not only will the Cincinnati Reds give it a whirl in Indianapolis tonight but that the New York Giants soon will try it out at the Polo Grounds.

John McGraw.

Major league men declare that they have no intention of going any farther with the night stuff than lending their teams for occasional exhibition purposes in minor league cities where lighting systems have been installed. The strongest denial comes from Manager John McGraw, of the Giants. He admits that the New York club is considering a proposition for the playing of night games at the Polo Grounds, but makes it clear that the Giants are not to figure in the arrangements, though they may play an exhibition game in Bridgeport next month. The New York project involves only some semi-pro clubs that want to rent the Polo Grounds for contests after sundown.

McGRAW HIMSELF CAN'T see night baseball for a minute. He is opposed to it on sentimental grounds, as well as for the reason that he believes it can't be played properly except in daylight. He says that if the diamond sport is taken out of the sunshine, it is taken out of its natural and traditional surroundings, and is spoiled, in consequence.

The Giant boss points out that baseball has always been thought of as a game to be played on a green field under a summer sun. He contends that under electric lights it can be only a shadow of itself, and that it is utterly impossible for the players to put through a contest with the same skill and science hat they bring into evidence in daylight competition.

ONE PITTSBURGH PLAYER in a position to know what he is talking about, and who bears out McGraw as to the difficulties encountered by the athletes in playing at night, is Infielder Ben Sankey.

This Pirate recruit, who was in the Wichita lineup at Des Moines in the first night game ever played in the organized ranks, says it is a very hard matter for an infielder to judge a low bounder, and that it is even more difficult to swing accurately at a low ball while at bat.

Ben Sankey.

SANKEY is backed up in his statement by other players, particularly in the part that deals with the difficulties faced by the batters. They declare a batsman is helpless before a pitcher throwing a low fast ball, and in refuting the claim that the electric lights make the conditions the same as exist in daytime they point to the recent achievement of a hurler in the Mississippi Valley League, who had struck out only 25 men during the entire earlier part of the season but who fanned 18 in a single game played at night. For this reason alone, they contend, it is impossible to get the right baseball conditions under artificial light, and they agree with the great majority of major league magnates that as far as the big show is concerned there is very little chance that the night game will ever be adopted.

AS A RESULT of the Braves' success in beating out the Robins in an extra frame yesterday after an uphill fight, the Cubs did not lose any ground in the pennant fight through their defeat at the hands of the Reds. The principals in the battle for first place in the National League race are still separated by only a game and a half.

The fact that the difference exists entirely on the "Lost" column is an advantage for Brooklyn, but the Robins are likely to find it a tough job to hold their edge unless there is a big improvement in the work of Dazzy Vance. Though he was not charged with yesterday's defeat, it was the Dazzler's collapse that caused the game to slip away. He has lost four games in a row and has won only four of his last 13 engagements. With all due respect to the new help from Hollis Thurston and the strength of the Dodgers in other directions, it is hard to see how they can finish in front without having Vance in a winning stride.

THE EXTENT OF the loss that the Pirates suffered in the long absence of Lloyd Waner was shown again yesterday, when the work of the little center fielder, topped by a single that drove in the tying and winning runs in the ninth, was the main factor in the victory over the Cardinals.

Lloyd Waner.

It was Lloyd's first full game on the home grounds, and in all departments he gave pleasing evidence of being at last close to his true form. The return of the famous Waner act, which stood out prominently in the third inning, when Lloyd punched a double to left center and Paul followed with a home-run wallop into the right-field stand, may make the Bucs a different team during the remainder of the race.

THOSE who have prematurely sentenced the Pirates to a second-division berth are invited to take a look at the standing of the clubs today. The Rovers are only two games from the first flight, with plenty of time remaining in which to fight their way into the select set. There would be no limit to their possibilities if they could play as well against the other clubs as they do against the Cardinals. Yesterday's victory was their tenth over the Redbirds in 14 meetings. They have won six games out of seven played with Gabby Street's outfit here and four out of seven in St. Louis.

THOUGH THE A'S fell before the Yanks again yesterday, they are still so far ahead in the American League race as to have little to worry about. A lead of six full games with only about one-third of the pennant course remaining to be covered is an advantage that isn't often overcome.

To show how comfortably the Mackmen are sitting, it need only be pointed out that even if they lose the majority of their remaining 53 games, winning but 26 and losing 27, the Senators, to beat them out, will be required to win 35 of their remaining 57 games. That

BABE SELECTS EACH CLUB'S 'SPARKPLUG'

By BABE RUTH.
Baseball's Highest Salaried Player.

BOSTON, July 30.—Now that the most-valuable player award has gone out of fashion in the two big leagues, I'm getting dozens of letters asking me what I think of this player and that player, and his value to the team. Naturally I can't answer all those letters. If I did I wouldn't get any time to play baseball.

Babe Ruth

But I have some ideas on the subject and maybe the best way for me to answer the letters is to do it at one jump by naming my idea of the most valuable man to his club on each of the 16 major league clubs.

It isn't an easy job. On most of the clubs, particularly the pennant contenders, there are three or four outstanding men—and it's hard to pick between them. On the Philadelphia Nationals, for instance, both Chuck Klein and Lefty O'Doul are powers with the stick and between them are winning three out of four of every game the Phillies manage to get into the win column. So far as these two are concerned I haven't been able to figure yet which one is the more valuable, so I've called it a tie—and named them both.

SOME STANDOUTS

Some of the others, of course, I figure are real standouts. Fellows like Frankie Frisch, of the Cardinals; Bill Terry, of the Giants; Babe Herman, of the Robins, and chaps like that are just kick-overs in my opinion. And if the two leagues were still offering their most-valuable player awards those fellows would be sure to be right up there in the money.

Anyhow, here's my idea of the most valuable player to his team on each of the big league clubs. Remember there's nothing official about this—and, of course, there's always chance for argument—but it's my own personal idea, and you can't shoot a man for having ideas. So here goes:

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Boston Red Sox—Pitcher Milton Gaston.

New York Yankees—First Baseman Lou Gehrig.

Washington Nats — Outfielder Sam Rice.

Cleveland Indians—Pitcher Wesley Ferrell.

St. Louis Browns — Outfielder Goose Goslin.

Chicago White Sox—Outfielder Reynolds.

Detroit Tigers—Second Baseman Gehringer.

PAUL WANER

Babe Ruth names Waner, Pirate outfielder, as one of the most valuable performers in the major leagues. Paul contributes most to the Bucs' successes, Bambino says, as he names the men most valuable to each of the 16 major league clubs.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: A SHIP WEIGHS LESS GOING EAST THAN WEST—A boat going East travels with the earth's diurnal motion. An object is shortened in the direction of its motion, according to the theory known as "Fitzgerald's Contraction." TOMORROW—WHAT IS THE BIRD ON A U. S. QUARTER.

THE LOWDOWN ON THE BUCS

By THE BENCHWARMER.

Well, folks, we've got some pretty game guys on this ball club, and Al Bool is one of them. When Watkins' bat accidentally clapped Al on top of the head in the ninth inning you could hear it smack like a firecracker all the way to our dugout.

Al started to stagger, but he stayed on his feet and after blinkin' a few times he got in there again and finished the game. When he came into the clubhouse he certainly needed a doctor. I thought some of us would pass out watchin' the doctor work on Al with that needle, but Bool jes sat there and took it like a soldier.

TOUGH HOMBRE

Jule said Al was so tough you could run a plough over him and he would come up smilin' I guess it's partly because Al is in good shape. There's a bird that takes care of himself. He likes to fool around the clubhouse, but he's so strong that nobody will fiddle around with him. When he gets hold of you it just like two vices. He's never been mad since he's been with the club, but I'll bet if he ever breaks loose the clubhouse will look like an explosion in a shingle factory.

RAB WELL TREATED

Jule called Sunny Jim over to our dugout to give us the stuff on Maranville Day in Boston. Sunny Jim and Rabbit are thick and the Cards were in Boston that day. It took Jim about 10 minutes to recall all the presents Rabbit got, and besides the cards, diamond ring and everything, Jim says Rabbit told him he was given $3,000 in gold. Bottomley said he never saw anything like it in baseball.

When them people in Boston go for anybody they don't make any half-way moves. Jim says there was a banquet at night that was almost as big as the stuff in the afternoon.

Solomen Beaten By Jimmy Belmont

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., July 30.—Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, Pa., scored an easy triumph over Mickey Solomen, of New Castle, in the main bout of 10 rounds here last night. Belmont weighed 147 and Solomen 151.

Kenny Davis, East Liverpool, was the victor in the semi-final of six rounds, defeating Sammy Paris, of Pittsburgh. Davis weighed 128 and Paris 126.

Jimmy Guthrie, of Akron, knocked out Eddie Jacobs in the first round of a scheduled four-round bout.

Ray Mitchell, East Liverpool, 140, scored a technical knockout over Jimmy Massey, East Liverpool, 136, in the second round.

GIZZY, COLLINS AT ODDS

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

"No Love Lost Between Battling Gizzy and Ray Collins, Says Manager."

This should be the heading on this story, for it contains all of the innermost details of the relations between the said Gizzy and the said Collins, who meet for the second time in the main bout of 10 rounds at Hickey Park, Millvale, tomorrow night.

It seems, according to a letter from Lester (Duke) Denning, of Erie, manager of Collins, that when Gizzy and Collins first met, at Washington, Pa., some time ago, there was a mixup over contracts and Gizzy forced Collins to take off two pounds after they weighed in.

"As a result of this," Denning continues, "there is no love lost between them, as you will see for yourself when they tangle again at Hickey Park. Collins will not be weakened this time and will win in a walk from Pittsburgh's so-called best 'club fighter.'"

Putting the words of Manager Denning a bit more elegantly, what he wishes to infer is that there is practically no affection existing between his lad and the other bozo; that each believes in abiding by the Golden Rule and doing unto the other party what the other party hopes to do unto him—and if there are any knives handy in the crowd they will proceed to slit each other's throats on the slightest provocation.

Man, there's more than one way to heat up a fight, and, if this is one of them, make the most of it.

Between Rounds

Billy Campbell, of the South Side, and Georgie Tomoski, of Turtle Creek, have been signed for the opening preliminary on the Tony Herrera-Jackie Pilkington card at the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, next Monday night. Incidentally, this will be the third meeting between the main boys. Herrera broke his hands and lost their first fight, in Chicago, last October, and then evened the score in a return bout, Pilkington hails from New York.

Jimmy Thomas, Negro bantamweight, of the Hill, will box Jimmy Severs in the six-round semi-final of an outdoor show at Franklin, Pa., August 14.

Harry (Kid) Brown, who recently fought around here, boxes hard-hitting Billy Townsend at Los Angeles next Tuesday night.

Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, meets Willie Oster in a non-title bout at Newark, N. J., tonight.

Joe Lauder, of the South Hills, returns to the ring following a layoff against Jerry Rivers, of Brentwood, in the second bout at the Meyers Bowl next Monday night.

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

When the Pirates tie into the Cardinals this afternoon, Al Bool, Nebraska ploughman, will be under the bat with half a dozen fresh stitches in his head. A man of less nerve and stamina than Farmer Al would be sojourning in a hospital today after his experience of yesterday, but Rolly Hemsley was painfully hurt a moment before Bool ran into misfortune, so the big fellow will attempt to catch today.

The bad injuries to the two catchers came within two minutes of each other in the ninth inning of yesterday's triumph over the Cardinals. George Watkins was at the plate when Remy Kremer threw a low ball in the dirt. Hemsley stopped the ball but in doing so, his big finger of his throwing hand was terribly lacerated. He will be out of action for at least a week.

STRUCK ON HEAD

Big Al had the chest protector and shin guards on in a jiffy, but on the next pitch to Watkins, the big boy ran afoul of Watkins' swing. The bat of the Redbird struck Al in the head and he sagged and staggered, it being quite remarkable, in view of later developments, that he did not go down in his tracks.

Al was groggy as he swung into position again, but he stayed under the bat long enough to have the batter fanned for the last putout of the inning.

Bool was the second batter up in the Pirate half and the home team was trailing by one run. Suhr walked, Bool singled and the pair moved up on a sacrifice. All the while the big receiver was in pain but he did not ask for a runner. He had not reached the half-way post long before Lloyd Waner came through with a single that scored the tieing and winning runs.

SIX STITCHES NEEDED

Farmer Al asked for a doctor as he reached the clubhouse and the club surgeon was called. An examination showed a severe cut in the head which required something like six stitches. With many of his buddies watching, Al sat without a whimper as the surgeon, after cutting away some hair, sewed up the torn flesh. Bool's head was then bandaged.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—I guess they can start renting the Yankee Stadium and Polo Grounds for football games any time after October first. They won't be bothered with any World Series at either of those parks this fall. For a while I thought the Giants and Yankees were just laying back getting ready to spring, but they lacked the old rubber heels. I admit the Yanks have got power. So has Niagara Falls, but it can't climb upstream. The only way I diagnose the Giants is that they haven't any Esprit De Corps. That is French for stuffed gizzards, but its plumaine poison to McGraw.

GEHRIG SHINES AS YANKS GAIN GROUND

MACKS ROUTED BY POWER OF LOU'S BAT

Associated Press.

With Washington idle and the Philadelphia Athletics held in subjection by Henry Johnson, the New York Yankees made the day's big gain in the American League race with the Cleveland Indians trailing in their wake. The Yankees humbled the world's champions by a 12-to-3 count as Lou Gehrig's hitting ably seconded Johnson's pitching.

The Athletics made only seven hits while Gehrig alone made four, including his thirtieth and thirty-first home runs of the season. The other two blows were a triple and a double and Lou was credited with batting in six runs.

TRIBE DOWNS TIGERS

The Indians combined 13 hits with a burst of wildness on the part of Guy Cantrell while the Detroit Tigers failed to find many effective combinations for the same number of blows. The final count was Cleveland 14, Detroit 7. The Indians scored 12 of their runs in the second and third innings. The Chicago White Sox failed to equal such bursts, but they put over four runs in the fifth inning and defeated the St. Louis Browns, 6 to 2.

BUCS BEAT CARDS

The Pittsburgh Pirates had their full share of grief and more at the start of the 1930 season and are pretty well out of the National League pennant race. But they are on top of the second division and the least slip on the part of their leading rivals will place them among the first four clubs before the season ends.

The Pirates placed themselves only two games out of the first division yesterday with a 6-5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. They piled up an early lead, lost it when Remy Kremer's pitching wabbled a bit, then came through with two runs in the ninth inning to win.

Although the Pirates gained a game on St. Louis by this slugging performance, they could not pull ahead of Boston and St. Louis, their second division rivals. The Braves found an easy solution to the puzzle of Dazzy Vance's pitching after it had baffled them for six innings and gained a tie score. Then with Ray Phelps on the mound, they bunched three more hits in the tenth inning to beat the league leading Brooklyn Robins, 4 to 3.

REDS, BRAVES WIN

The Reds continued to display their mastery over the Chicago Cubs, and kept Chicago from gaining on Brooklyn, by winning the series final, 4 to 3. Old Eppa Rixey had a fairly easy time of it except for Hack Wilson's thirty-third home run of the year, which put the Cubs into the running. It was the ninth time the Reds have beaten Chicago in 15 games this season.

This double defeat of the leaders worked in favor of the third place New York Giants, who trounced the Phillies by an 11 to 5 score. Cary Hubbel gave the Phils 10 hits, but half of them were divided among O'Doul, Klein and Sherlock and did comparatively little damage. The Giants got 11 effective blows.

SPORT VIGNETTES

The picture above of Jock Sutherland, Pitt football coach, showing his class of coaches one of the fine points of the coaching art at the Stadium, emphasizes the crowding of the seasons in sports. In the spring, we have the baseball teams going to camp before hockey, basketball and other winter sports are out of the way, and, in the late summer, football comes into its own weeks before the world series is disposed of. Perhaps the very thought of football at this time of the year will cool many a fevered brow. . . . The Metropolitan racing scene today shifts to Saratoga, the famous Spa, where more than a half-million dollars in purses will be offered for the meeting. The first stakes on the program are the Saratoga Handicap of $9,000, at a mile and a quarter, and the Flash Stakes for 2-year-olds, for $6,000, at five and one-half furlongs. It is interesting to know that the Flash Stakes last year went to Gallant Fox, the champion 3-year-old of this season . . . The football outlook at Dartmouth for the coming fall is very dark indeed. None of the candidates for the squad are working during the summer months as icemen, stevedores or bridge builders . . . Every time the New York Yankees have an off day in the schedule, the scribes traveling with the club write reams about the mystery of why Pitcher Tom Zachary was waived to the Boston Braves and Infielder Leo Durocher was shipped to Cincinnati. . . . Jake Pitler, former Pirate second baseman, and brother of Attorney Dave Pitler, former Fifth Avenue High School and Pitt quarterback, and Johnny Ray, the former boxer, has moved the Elmira (N. Y.) club, which he is managing, into first place in the New York-Pennsylvania League and the fans up there think so well of him that they held a Pitler Day last week . . . Jake, whose home still is in Oil City, Pa., took over the club last season after it had finished last the year before and finished in fifth place with it. Now he's up there fighting it out with three others for the pennant . . . MacDonald Smith, who finished as runnerup to Bobby Jones in this year's National Open tourney, will return to his native Carnoustie, Scotland, cradle of golf, to play in the British Open next year . . . Miss Eleanor Kraus, of New York, fiancee of Jack (Kid) Berg, the English whirlwind boxer, is a regular attendant at Jackie's workouts at Delaware Water Gap, Pa., for his bout with Kid Chocolate in New York Thursday of next week. . . . Pat Sawyer, 17-year-old caddie of St. Paul, at the National Open tourney at Minneapolis, promised Horton Smith he would caddy for him in the St. Paul Open, August 15-17, but since then the youngster has won the Minnesota amateur championship and has decided to be a contestant in the St. Paul Open and has advised Horton to dig himself up a new bag-toter . . . . Such stuff! . . . The British press is all stirred up about the "dismal," "dreadful" and "inept" exhibition of their Philip Scott against our Young Stribling the other night, and even the threat of Joe Beckett to come back and restore the fistic prestige of the land appeases them not . . . Pardon us for tittering up our cuffs, for now the folks back home know what a blitherin' washed-up excuse of a challenger their Philip must have been in that sad, sad spectacle with Jack Sharkey down in Miami last February . . . Philip almost talked 'em out of that one, but now they KNOW . . . As probably has been said before, the Phils are just as bad whether they're Scotts or in the National League . . . Anyway, Frank (Bull) Brown, was home yesterday for a day off from his duties as an American Association umpire and put it in (as he would!) watching the Pirates play the Cardinals at Forbes Field.—HARRY KECK.

SMOKES ROUTED BY GENERALS

Clarksburg's hard hitting Generals walloped Wheeling in the Mid-Atlantic League yesterday at Clarksburg, 15 to 2, and tied with Fairmont for second place. The Generals garnered 19 safe hits.

At Jeannette, the Jays defeated the Charleroi Governors, 5 to 3, the defeat being the third in a row for the Guys.

Scottdale, landing a 10-to-6 win over Fairmont, slipped into first place in the league standing. Scottdale's early attack proved the undoing of the Diamonds.

Johnstown lost to Cumberland at Cumberland by a score of 10 to 7.

Old Pete Signs With Toledo A. A. Club

TOLEDO, July 30.—(AP.)—Grover Cleveland Alexander, veteran pitcher with a score of years of major league experience, was signed yesterday by the Toledo Mudhens of the American Association, club officials announced last night.

Alexander signed with Dallas of the Texas League after being released by the Philadelphia Nationals. Failure to keep in condition is said to have prompted his release from Dallas. He is a free agent, and will report here immediately, it was said.

LORAIN STAR ENTERS TECH

LORAIN, O., July 30.—Colin (Red) Stewart, former local high school football star, who was graduated from Kiski Prep School last June, announced today that he will matriculate at Carnegie Tech in the fall, and become a candidate for the Plebe eleven there.

Stewart made a brilliant record as an athlete in this district, and then went to Kiski to continue his preparations for college. Most of his football experience has been at end, and he plays the bruising, crashing style of terminal that has become so effective under modern football conditions.

He is a big lad, weighing 185 pounds, and is 20 years old. His friends in this district are confident that he will make a big name for himself during his four years with the Plaid.

TECH GETS TWO BACKS

Two triple-threat halfbacks, Henry Graham, of Wilkinsburg, and John E. Sales, of Wheeling, W. Va., are to matriculate at Carnegie Tech this fall, it was announced today.

Graham, who stands six feet in height and weighs 175 pounds, enrolled at Bellefonte after being graduated from Wilkinsburg, and was one of the mainstays of the Academy eleven last fall.

Sayles, who weighs 180 pounds and stands six feet in height, was an All-West Virginia backfield selection in 1929. He was chosen by West Virginia coaches, and received more votes than any other player.

PRIMO STOPS COOK EARLY

CLEVELAND, July 30.—(AP.)—Primo Carnera, the Italian heavyweight boxer, last night added a second-round knockout over George Cook, who claims the Australian heavyweight championship, to his string of victories, before a crowd estimated at 10,000 at Taylor Bowl here. The bout was scheduled to go 10 rounds.

Cook went down for the count under a ponderous left to the jaw after 1 minute and 44 seconds of the second round had passed. He had been on the receiving end of most of the blows struck right from the start.

It is a popular practice today to exploit the carbonation in ginger ales. The carbonation is referred to in many ways—sometimes as a secret process of carbonation, sometimes as full carbonation.

Now, Mister, carbonation may be figured, just as a pound of sugar is weighed, or a yard of cloth measured; it is not figured in "secretiveness" nor "fullness," but in carbonic gas volumes. A gas volume is the unit of measurement for the carbonation in sparkling drinks.

We are reminded that Stephen Girard passed a place where a carter's horse had fallen dead on the street. A throng had assembled, and many of them expressed sympathy for the poor carter. Stephen Girard said, You men all seem sorry, but how much are you sorry? I'm sorry five dollars' worth.

The question is:—how much is the ginger ale carbonated? BILLY BAXTER is carbonated to over five volumes of carbonic gas, the highest carbonated ginger ale bottled in the world! Any reference to carbonation except in gas volumes, is valueless.

The statement regarding the carbonation in BILLY BAXTER GINGER ALE goes for the entire great Billy Baxter Line.

"No, Sir.. I'm a crank when it comes to gas and I want AMOCO"

TAKE the example of the man who drove into a service station--somewhere in Delaware. He drove straight for an Amoco-Gas pump. The attendant had a pet gas--another one of these so-called "just-as-goods." But this motorist had been driving for years--had tried them all.

"No sir, not for me," he said, "I'm a crank when it comes to gas and I want Amoco."

It will pay you, too, to be a "crank" when it comes to gas--pay you in better performance--pay you by saving you money.

For, if you've never used Amoco-Gas, you don't know what real motor fuel performance is--there's the thrill of your motoring life awaiting you.

And Amoco-Gas, costing slightly more per gallon, actually costs less per mile. It gives more miles to the gallon. It reduces operating expense by reducing repair bills. It increases the trade-in value of your car.

Experienced motorists are always "cranks" when it comes to gas--nothing but Amoco-Gas will do. Get cranky yourself. Start getting real motor fuel performance. Start saving money. Start today.

SEMI-FINALS REACHED IN CENTER NET PLAY

SEEDED STARS VICTORS; BOYS GAIN FINALS

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN.

Frank Brodia victor in the final contest of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph revival of the local public parks tournament last Saturday, yesterday led the procession into the semi-finals of the Pittsburgh Center junior championship event on the Carnegie Tech lot. Following Brodia, the number one seeded performer into the penultimate frame were Jack Raymond, city high school and Highland Park champion and Harry Wald, clever little University of Pittsburgh performer. Redmond, seeded number two, merely lived up to the dope in coming through, but Wald, not chosen for the select group, scored striking upset by eliminating Chuck Arensberg, hard-hitting Shady Side Academy captain and third seeded star, 6-4, 6-0.

The fourth semi-finalist remains to be determined, Jack Herrmann, rangy Shady-Sider and Riverview Park premier being slated to tackle the consistent Maurice Saperstein, of Bridgeville, in quarter-final combat early today.

BOYS' FINAL REACHED

In the boys' division with only eight competitors for the title the contesting is already narrowed down to the final with Harold Mathieson, husky Koppel youngster, slated to encounter Robert Entwistle, East End lad, for laurels and the right to represent this district in the national conclave at Culver Military Academy, Culver, Ind., the week of August 11.

Brodia flashing his usual sound ground game, met with little difficulty in accounting for Bud Leyda, Bellevue contender, 6-3, 6-2, in round one, or in disposing of Duane Littell, Beaver Falls hopeful, 6-0, 6-2, in the second bracket. Both losers displayed promise, but lacked the defensive power to cope with the slashing drives of the Parks champ.

Redmond staged the prettiest duel of the day in downing Edwin Clark, accomplished Beaver Countian and runner-up to boys' honors in 1928. Fast, steady forehanding gave Clark the initial set, 6-4, as Redmond found trouble in settling into effective tallying at the net. With the start of the second stanza, however, the Pittsburgh southpaw swung into smoother co-ordination of service and barrier attack, with the result that the visitor dropped the session after innumerable protracted rallies, many of which were cut short by Redmond's sizzling smashes.

Redmond sped into a 5-0 lead in the deciding set. Here Clark spurted gamely to care for two match points and to crack the portsider's service. He likewise snared his own delivery in the seventh game, but it was all over an instant later as Redmond assaulted savagely to run out the contest.

Redmond had previously bumped off Delmont Barbor, Wilmerding entrant, 6-0, 6-3, to attain the frame of eight, Clark having beaten Johnny, last of the Smeatons, 6-4, 6-2, to reach the same notch.

WALD BEATS ARENSBERG

It was the superior consistency of Wald that told the tale of the Pittite's triumph over Arensberg. The latter, the edge apparently gone from his game after a lengthy 12-10, 6-3 morning tussle with Harry Foreman, dogged California (Pa.) aspirant, seemed unable to probe satisfactorily the inadequate backhand of the Panther. Meanwhile, Wald kept the sphere in motion, and presently the verdict was returned in his favor.

Mathieson, strong and with rather good form, romped through Laurent Blatt, hard-driving but erratic College Avenue 12-year-old, in the first round of the boys' milling and went on to thump Edgar Topp, 6-4, 6-1, in the semi-finals. Entwistle, with less pace, but considerable steadiness, outplayed P. J. McArdle, Jr., son of the former Pittsburgh councilman, 6-1, 6-4, for a starter, and moved into the final by virtue of bottling up Robert McElroy, 6-0, 6-2.

Saperstein and Herrmann reel off their junior quarter-final fray at 10:30 this morning, with Brodia facing the survivor an hour later as Wald takes court with Redmond in the opposite semi-final. The junior final is carded for 2:30 o'clock this afternoon and the boys' title tilt ensues at 3. The summary:

JUNIOR SINGLES.

Preliminary round—John Green defeated Charles E. Matte, 6-1, 2-6, 7-5.

EDGEWOOD WINS PLAYOFF

Playing on the P. A. A. courts last evening, Chuck Boyd and Andy Smeaton, of Edgewood, defeated Jack Lauler and Art Glaser, of the P. A. A., 8-2, 6-3, in a doubles match to decide the tie between the teams in their Pittsburgh Tennis Association Inter-Club League meeting last Saturday. Edgewood thus became the victor, 5 matches to 4.

MISS HUNTER WINS

ERIE, Pa., July 30.—Miss Antoinnette Hunter, of Pittsburgh, yesterday won the annual Kahkwa invitation tournament with a 97. Two other Pittsburghers, Miss Emilie Rosebrugh, of Oakmont, and Mrs. D. H. Garber, of South Hills, tied for second with 91.

TOURNEY DATE SET

The fourth annual saddle team golf championship will be staged at the Pittsburgh Field Club on Monday, August 25, George Ormiston, secretary of the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association, announced yesterday.

TITLE PLAY TODAY

MONTEVIDEO, July 30.—Argentine and Uruguay will clash here today for the soccer football championship of the world. A record crowd is expected.

STARS IN LEGION FINAL HERE

Lafayette Post No. 51, of Uniontown, which battled S. J. Pravy Post No. 82, of McKees Rocks, for the championship of Southwestern Pennsylvania in the American Legion junior baseball series at Forbes Field last evening. The Uniontown nine won, 7 to 1.

and he was able to leave the scene without assistance.

Al surely is a tough son-of-a-gun from Nebraska; before he left the clubhouse he assured Manager Ens he would be in there today.

Meantime, Rolly Hemsley was having his smashed finger treated. The doctor said it was an extremely ugly wound and that Hemsley probably would be out of action for 10 days.

In the event of a relapse on the part of Bool, Manager Ens would have to call upon Hal Finney, who recently rejoined the club after catching a lot of games for the Columbia club of the Sally League.

FRENCH TO PITCH

Larry French is down on the books to face the Redbirds today. Jess Haines is due to work for the enemy.

Kremer, with the Waner act furnishing the big features, recorded his thirteenth victory of the season as the Pirates copped a 6-to-5 battle. The victory was the tenth for the Buccos in 14 battles with the Missouri troupe.

Flint Rhem gave the Pirates all sorts of trouble, but the Waner boys broke through, with Adam Comorosky supporting the famous pair. The Polish Flyer tripled in the first to score Brother Lloyd with two out.

The convalescent centerfielder opened the third with a ringing double to left and Brother Paul drove a fascinating homer into the rightfield stands.

The Redbirds began to peck away at Kremer in the five and in each of five succeeding rounds they made one run. Strange to say each tally was pushed across after two were out.

The consistency of the Flock, coupled with Rhem's fine pitching, brought a deadlock in the seventh, but the Pirates went ahead in their half. Once more the enemy tied it up and they took the lead in the ninth when Hafey's short fly to center fell for a double, scoring Frank Frisch.

Gus Suhr opened the home half of the ninth by coaxing a pass out of Al Grabowski. Bool singled and in less than three minutes the game was over in favor of the home team.

Dick Bartell saved the old ball game in a thrilling manner in the eighth. After the tieing run had been made, the foe had runners on third and first when Douthit smeared a hot liner toward left center. Bartell jumped as high as he could and with his gloved-hand outstretched, he speared the rocket.

GODFREY BANNED

PATERSON, N. J., July 30.—(INS.)—Plans for a bout between George Godfrey, Philadelphia Negro, and Arthur De Kuh, New York heavyweight, at Newark, next month, were dropped today as a result of the banning of Godfrey by State Comptroller John McCutcheon, boxing head. McCutcheon held that Godfrey deliberately fouled Primo Carnera, Italian heavyweight, in their Philadelphia bout.

STATE TO O. K. DOE SEASON

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 30.—(AP.)—No recurrence of the widespread, intensive battle over the open season on doe deer two years ago is expected this year, J. J. Slaughterback, secretary of the State Game Commission, said today as preparations were completed for mailing out petitions for opening counties and townships for killings of antlerless deer on November 27, 28 and 29.

Inquiries concerning petitions have been received from several sections of the state, the secretary said, and some hunters and farmers already have applied for licenses to shoot does. The issuance of licenses, however, is automatically delayed until October and none can be granted before that time.

Jamison Family Wins in Golf Event

GREENSBURG, Pa., July 30.—W. W. Jamison and son, T. P. Jamison, tied with W. F. Overly and son, H. R. Overly, each with a net 70, for first place in the annual fathers', sons' and daughters' golf tournament held at the Hannastown Golf Club yesterday.

John M. Jamison and his daughter, Miss Hettie B. Jamison, turned in a net 78 to win the trophy in the father and daughter play.

Forty families took part in the tournament.

VINES VICTOR AT SEABRIGHT

SEABRIGHT, July 30.—(AP.)—Scoring his second victory over Frank Shields in less than a week, Ellsworth Vines, 18-year-old sensation from Pasadena, Cal., smashed his way into the third round of the thirty-seventh annual invitation tennis tournament of the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club yesterday.

Vines eliminated Shields in a stirring match, 6-8, 6-4, 8-6, and thus repeated his triumph of last year over the youthful New Yorker in the Metropolitan turf court championships.

Shaw to Compete In Altoona Grind

ALTOONA, Pa., July 30.—Entries are beginning to come in rapidly for the 200-mile A. A. A. racing classic at the Altoona Speedway here Monday, September 1, Labor Day.

Yesterday's mail brought the signed blank of Wilbur Shaw, last year's champion of the dirt tracks. Shaw is still in the running for the championship driving honors of the season, although he will have to win here and at Syracuse, Langhorne and Salem afterwards to beat out Billy Arnold.

UNIONTOWN GAINS LEGION FINAL

Hitting hard and timely behind the airtight pitching of Talley, who fanned 16 batters, the Lafayette Post No. 51, of Uniontown, captured the Southwestern Pennsylvania American Legion baseball championship last evening at Forbes Field, defeating the Carnegie Post No. 82, of McKees Rocks by a score of 7 to 1.

Uniontown presented a well-balanced club, one capable of smashing out 14 safe hits and that never was in danger of defeat. Talley, a slender Negro youth, pitched admirable ball, keeping the Rox team's half-dozen hits well scattered.

The McKees Rocks youngsters started what looked to be a promising rally in the eighth inning, filling the bases with only out, but Talley bore down with such effect that the next batter grounded into a double play that retired the side.

Hrenzo and Saltrick led Uniontown's attack with three hits apiece, while Talley added to his laurels by garnering two hits, one of them a double.

As a result of the decisive triumph, the Uniontown team enters the Western Pennsylvania final round, and will meet the winner of today's Ford City-Erie contest, booked for Titusville. The final battle will be played at Butler Friday. The score:

Spill Proves Fatal To Caliente Jockey

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 30.—(AP.)—Robert Bertschy, 17-year-old Twin Falls (Ida.) jockey, died late last night from injuries received in a spill at Auga Caliente race track yesterday afternoon.

Bertschy was riding G. Pelter's Hilo. The horse stumbled and went down on the last turn, throwing the rider in the path of bunched horses.

The jockey's mother witnessed the accident.

Cobb Satisfied To Stay Out Of Baseball

ATLANTA, July 30.—(AP.)—Old Ty Cobb, a dominant figure in baseball for more than 20 years, is resting quietly at his home in Augusta, Ga., satisfied with the part he played and not overly anxious to get back.

"I'm enjoying a well-earned rest and I like it," he said, when visiting his mother here. "Maybe some time the desire to re-enter the game will become strong again. Then I'll look around. When a good proposition comes, perhaps I'll be ready to accept it, but I won't play any more.

"You'll never hear of Ty Cobb again as a player. I still can play, but I always said I'd quit while I was at the top and I'm not going back on that promise."

Four Kayos Mark Amateur Ring Show

Four knockouts featured the amateur boxing show staged by the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C. on the North Side last night. In the feature bout Sparky Ewalt scored his thirtieth consecutive triumph, winning by a technical knockout over Young Meyers, of the Superior A. C., when the latter's seconds tossed in the towel in the first round. The summary:

118-pound class—Jack Wills, unattached, won from Jack Hamel, Braddock Library A. C., technical knockout, second round. Time, 1:10.

126-pound class—Mike Piccianno, Pittsburgh Lyceum, won from Young Zeho, Hogan A. C., three rounds, decision.

135-pound class—Mike Sansey, Twenty-seventh Ward A. C., won from Tony Kasper, Hogan A. C., technical knockout, third round. Time, 2:15.

High Blood Pressure Shortens Life

Relief for high blood pressure and other health destroying ailments that have kept thousands of sufferers in misery and doubt for years—is now seen in the modern discovery — BLOOD CELL PROTEIN SERUM.

The importance of this discovery cannot be denied when the life insurance companies refuse to issue policies to applicants with high blood pressure because it tends to shorten the span of life.

High blood pressure gives little warning, and until certain symptoms appear you are not aware of it. You may have head pains, hot flashes, flushed face, dizzy spells, shortness of breath, sleeplessness, nervousness and palpitation of the heart. Remember that HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE is a symptom and not a disease in itself—IT IS NATURE'S WARNING TO TAKE NOTICE.

PACE-SETTERS DEADLOCKED AT OAKMONT

BULLETIN.

Wilson F. (Billy) Marks, of Kiski, runner-up to Regis Wolff in the recent West Penn junior championships, carded 76-6-70 to take the lead in both the low gross and low net races in the individual medal play end of the one-day tournament of the Pennsylvania Golf Association at the Oakmont Country Club today.

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

C. D. Carey, of the Valley Heights Country Club, first off the tee in the two-in-one one-day tournament of the Pennsylvania Golf Association at the Oakmont Country Club today, was first in the matter of low scoring as well as approximately 100 of the army of more than 300 linksmen entered in the combination event posted scores.

Eighteen holes individual medal play under full handicaps and four-ball match play against par under seven-eighths handicaps played simultaneously rather than as morning and afternoon events because of the magnitude of the field, made up the program, and in the individual competition Carey carded a net 73, a mark which many were able to equal but none able to surpass.

FIVE TIED FOR LEAD

E. M. Johnston, of South Hills; Dr. S. B. Ralston, of St. Clair; S. Foster Dickie, of Alcoma, and D. E. Mitchell were among those who matched Carey's 73 as the first mountainous wave of finishers came in.

In the match play against par competition, S. Foster Dickie and R. L. Leitch, Alcoma Club pair, set the pace with a mark of 4 up. Dr. S. B. Ralston, of St. Clair, and J. H. Kunkle, of Stanton Heights, were in the runner-up position with a card showing 3 up.

The field competing in today's tournament is one of the biggest ever to be entered in a like event here, and indications were that the last score would not be posted until sundown.

The scores:

INDIVIDUAL MEDAL PLAY.

C. D. Carey, Valley Heights ..... 42-42—84-11—73
F. E. King, Valley Heights ..... 44-41—85-7—81

J. C. Andrews, Stanton Heights ..... 61-53—114-15—99

MATCH PLAY VS. PAR.

C. D. Carey and F. E. King, 1 up.
R. L. Parsons and R. F. Ellis, 3 down.
W. W. Mills and R. B. Reed, even.
E. M. Johnston and J. C. Andrews, 2 down.
W. W. Ewing and R. Graham, 5 down.

BOOSTER DAY CARDED

The next event of the week is slated for tomorrow at the Valley Heights Country Club, where a Red and Blue match will feature a big Boosters' Day program. Ben Loeffler will be in charge of affairs.

On Friday, the Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania holds a one-day tourney at the Greensburg Country Club.

Last night Carl F. Kaufmann, national public links champion, for the last three years, departed for Jacksonville, Fla., where, beginning next Tuesday, he will defend that crown and try to win it a fourth consecutive year.

He left on the P. R. R. for Washington from the East Liberty station, and will go via the Atlantic Coast line from the Capital City. As soon as he gets to the scene of action he will practice so that he is in the best possible shape for the championship. His last words, and they are encouraging, too, as he left last night were:

"If they beat me, they'll certainly know they've been in a fight. I'm ready to defend my championship, and I feel confident that if anyone does put me out, it won't be because I haven't given my best."

The remainder of the team will leave with Ken Witherow, local U. S. G. A. public links commissioner, Friday night.

Fight Results

At Los Angeles—Midget Wolgast knocked out (technical) Speedy Dado, 5 rounds.

At Cleveland—Primo Carnera knocked out George Cook, 2 rounds.

At Winston-Salem, N. C.—Frankie Wine knocked out Jarvis Smothers, 9 rounds.

At Indianapolis—Bud Taylor defeated Mickey Genaro, 10 rounds.

At New York—Tuffy Griffith-Tom Heeney bout postponed until tonight; rain.

At Chicago — Edgar Norman defeated Texas Moore, 10 rounds.

JAPANESE COMING UP

The decisive victory of Japan in the Eastern Olympic meet at Tokio recently is an indication of the rapid strides the Nipponese are making in competitive athletics.

Knute Rockne

There were signs of this in the Olympic Games in Amsterdam in 1928. Japan was present with a loose-hipped phenom in the hop, skip and jump who won the championship. They had a pole-vaulter who jumped 13 feet, and one broad jumper who leaped 24 feet. One of their marathoners led the pack until the last half-mile, when he weakened, and the best he could get was third. Their all-around strength, however, in this recent meet was sensational. When you figure they have taken up track and field athletics only in the last half-dozen years, a truly remarkable achievement.

They are coming along very rapidly in swimming. Meiji University recently defeated Yale in their competition in Honolulu.

At any rate, it looks as if the Japanese will cut quite a swath when they visit Los Angeles for the world Olympic Games in 1932.

SOCCER READY FOR OPENING

The soccer football season will be officially opened this week end. On Friday evening the annual meeting of the Western Pennsylvania Soccer Football Association will be held and officers for the coming season elected. Last Saturday the referees got together and had their annual pow-wow.

The next big item of the soccer agenda is the five-a-side tourney scheduled for the Scottish Clan picnic at Kennywood Park on Saturday.

George Lumsden, local soccer referee, is in charge of the affair this season, and announces that from an entry point, this is going to be one of the most successful ever held.

The famous Bruel's, of Cleveland, who went into the final of the national challenge cup, only to lose to the Fall River team, will have a team on hand. It is expected that those former Pittsburgh favorites, George and Ralph Caraffi, will be in the Bruells' lineup.

Many good teams from this district including the Celtics, Pierpoints and other leading outfits will be represented. The first round games will be started at 10 a. m. so that the final round will be staged at 4 p. m.

Speigel, Chomyak Win at Greensburg

GREENSBURG, Pa., July 30.—Joey Speigel, junior and senior A. A. U. lightweight boxing champion, defeated Sunny Boy Evans, of the West Newton A. C., in the main three-round bout of the amateur show conducted by the American Legion A. C., of Greensburg, last night.

In the semi-final, Al Sack, of Uniontown, 155, lost to Mike Chomyak, of the Willow A. C., of Pittsburgh, in three rounds.

Results of the other bouts were as follows:

A. S. Capella, 115, Pittsburgh, defeated Mike Restino, Homewood Progressive Club, 3 rounds; Walt Corbin, 126, West Newton, defeated Grif Aberts, Scottdale, 3 rounds; Gerald Clemmens, 112, West Newton, defeated John Giacetti, Uniontown, 3 rounds; Buddy Keiser, 175, Uniontown, defeated Mark Ebrosca, Greensburg, 3 rounds; Billy Wilson, 125, Homewood Progressive Club, defeated Terry Gray, of Greensburg, 3 rounds.

Diegel Takes Lead In Golf Playoff

ANCASTER, Ont., July 30.—(AP.)—Leo Diegel, defending champion, led Tommy Armour, runner-up last year, by one stroke at the end of nine holes of their 36-hole play-off for the Canadian Open golf championship today. Diegel played the first nine holes in 34 strokes, while Armour took 35, even par. Diegel scored two birdies and was over par on one hole. Armour went over par on one hole and scored one birdie: The card:

RAILROADERS FACE VERONA TODAY

By TOM BIRKS.

Verona meets North Bessemer in the feature game of the local sandlot schedule this evening. The game will be staged at North Bessemer and the outcome is vital to both clubs in the pennant chase.

Bill Bright has been having lots of trouble with injuries but a full lineup will oppose the Railroaders this evening. Since Pete Elder took over the Railroaders, he and President Price have been getting good results.

One game will be staged in the western section of the Steel City League. Demor will meet its old rival, the Observatory Civics, at Pleasant Valley. The last game between these clubs on the same lot was a thriller.

SHOEMEN MEET W. O. W.

One game will be staged in the City League, Book Shoe meeting W. O. W. at the Woodmen grounds. Both managers Jedinak and Griffith want to cop this game following Monday night defeats.

In the Minor League the Melrose club hooks up with the North Side Aces at the North Side grounds.

The Greater Pittsburgh Class A eliminations get under way this evening. Coraopolis meets Ingomar on the latter's grounds. In the same tourney New Eagle Indians, a club that went into the final a few years ago, will meet the Iroquois nine at Mellon Field. The upriver crowd always flashed a classy outfit.

Games in the eliminations will be staged every evening this week, and with the Crawford Stars hooking up with Springdale on Friday at Springdale, some real action should be seen.

Springdale was the club that eliminated Stowe Civics in the first game that Stowe played with the title under its belt.

DORMONT BEATEN

Homewood defeated Dormont, 8-1; Stowe walloped the North Side Civics, 11 to 3, and Pleasant Valley downed J. L. Thomas, 4 to 2, in City League encounters last evening.

In the Greater Pittsburgh League, Verona defeated the Jenkins club, 4 to 1, and North Bessemer trimmed Whitaker, 7 to 3.

Reliance Life upset Carnegie Steel, 9 to 3, the victor pulling a triple play in the first inning. Dravo walloped B. & O., 11 to 5, in C. & I. League games, and in the Central League Fintex crushed St. Johns, 11 to 4. Iroquois defeated the Union Printers in the Major League, 6 to 4.

The D. J. Brodericks moved into first place in the Minor League by downing the L. P. Burkes, 10 to 9, at Marshall Field.

Monessen defeated Charleroi Robins, 7 to 3, and Fairhope took over Speer, 9 to 8, in Monon Valley League struggles.

RUDY, TERRY BOUT OFF

WEIRTON, W. Va., July 30.—The scheduled 10-round bout between Young Rudy, Charleroi (Pa.) welterweight, and Terry McGraw, of Wheeling, here last night was stopped by the sheriff. The death of Young Bruno, boxer, following his bout at Wheeling several weeks ago, was responsible for the action taken by the authorities, who claim boxing is illegal in West Virginia.

GOLF
As Champions Play It

How much golf can the average woman play without overtaxing her strength?

Answered by

EDDIE LOOS.

This is absolutely dependent upon the ease or difficulty with which she makes her swing and the skill with which she plays.

To the woman who finds golf a real muscular effort, I should say that nine holes to 12 would constitute a day's sport.

On the other hand, the good player with a relaxed swing can play 18.

I personally do not believe that any woman should play 36 holes. Twenty-seven are enough even for scratch women players.

The above applies, of course, to women in good physical condition and is advanced only as personal opinion from observation.

U. S. GUNNERS SCORE HIGH

ANTWERP, July 30.—(AP.)—American entries scored well in the international rifle shooting matches here yesterday.

Five marksmen from the United States gained the coveted Vermeil medal for prone positions in the masters' shooters category with scores well over the minimum of 390 which was the score of last year's champion. Renshaw scored 394, Hinds 393, S. W. Seitzinger 392, Bruce 392 and Swanson 391.

Fisher with 388 and Sharp with 386 won silver medals in this category.

Seven Americans won silver centenary medals in competition from a prone position. Their scores were: Parson 364, Renshaw 363, Sharp 360, Boles 359, Seitzinger 358, Fisher 357, Swanson 355.

In kneeling position, Swanson scored 384 and Renshaw 382, entitling them to silver medals in this class.

Long's Sport Comment

calls for .614 ball, or a slightly faster clip than that at which the Washington club has traveled up to date.

SPEAKING OF THE American League race, have you noticed the commotion that Donie Bush's White Sox are kicking up in the second division? They have fought their way from eighth place to sixth and are still climbing.

Sammy Mandell.

Donie has been forced to do more shifting than any other pilot in the majors, and the lineup he now presents doesn't look very impressive, particularly with his best player, Carl Reynolds, absent from his post, yet the little skipper has his men hustling at such a rate that they have won nine of their last 12 games.

FIGHT FANS LONG friendly to Sammy Mandell are disappointed at his failure to deny the absurd rumor that he was drugged or doped before the bout in which he lost the world lightweight championship to Al Singer. It would be a sporting act on the part of Mandell, and only fair to Singer, if the former champion were to spike the ridiculous story by admitting that Singer won on his merits. It's an ancient gag, that drug yarn, as an alibi for the defeat of a ring star. It was sprung on behalf of Jim Jeffries when Jack Johnson stopped him at Reno 20 years ago, it was revived to explain the defeat of Jack Dempsey by Gene Tunney at Philadelphia in 1926, and similar stories were circulated when several other fistic luminaries reached the end of the trail. The yarn, of course, had no foundation at any time. In every instance, it was simply a case of a fading fighter's paying the toll of ring wear, inaction or weakening weight reduction.

Industry Matching Population Growth On Pacific Coast

By B. C. FORBES

IN THE WEST, July 30.—Population is increasing very rapidly on the two coasts of the North American continent. This is true of both the United States and Canada. The percentage gain along the Pacific is astounding.

Mr. Forbes

Industry likewise is developing enormously, following the customary economic evolution. And this growth is destined to continue, probably at an even accelerated rate.

CORPORATIONS doing a nation-wide or an international business, are more and more resorting to building branch plants on the Pacific. Not only is the nearby market constantly multiplying but trade with the Orient, as well as with Latin-America, is steadily expanding, despite all the manifold and grave troubles which have beset that teeming part of the world.

What kinds of enterprises are best suited for the Pacific seaboard?

THAT QUESTION is answered interestingly by the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, one of the best managed in America. While the chamber has Seattle and the Puget Sound district particularly in mind, much of what it says applies to other coast sections. The industries sought are described thus:

"1—Industries, the operation of which depend to some degree upon the natural resources of the Pacific Northwest and Alaska, such as woodworking, furniture and related industries; processing of agricultural and dairy products into foodstuffs; products of copper, lead and zinc; paper and paper pulp; woolen textiles; china and glassware; glues and fertilizers.

"2—Industries to supply the rapidly-increasing local demands for commodities not now manufactured in quantities in the Pacific Northwest as carpets, rugs, linoleum, window glass, hardware and tools, garden implements, dairy and poultry supplies, steel and copper wire, iron and steel pipe, aluminum ware, galvanized ware, coil springs, automobile tires and accessories, metal furniture and fixtures, sanitary fittings, rubber goods, asbestos products, linen, boots and shoes, soaps, silk goods, hosiery, toys, canoes, radio cabinets, cigars and tobacco, malted milk, bottle caps.

"3—Industries which depend upon the Orient and countries of the Pacific rim for their raw materials, such as silk, wool, jute, hemp, rattan, ramie, mohair, kapok, rubber, tin, hides, spices, raw sugar, hardwoods, vegetable oils, copra, camphor and other gums, soya beans, peanuts, chocolate, and many other commodities which can be brought to Seattle at extremely low cost, manufactured and then exported or shipped to the consumer in America.

"4—Industries which can depend upon the Orient and countries of the Pacific rim for a market, such as manufacturers of industrial machinery, agricultural and road building machinery, railroad equipment, outboard motors, chemicals, automobile tires and accessories, batteries, electrical machinery and apparatus, wire, hardware, steel strapping, woolen goods, shoes, office equipment, soap, notions, etc.

"5—Industries, allied to major industries, now operating in this territory as manufacturers of products, related to the paper and pulp industry, fisheries, logging and lumbering, shipbuilding, mining and aeronautics."

The enthusiasm of far westerners for their home cities should advantageously be imbibed by those of us living elsewhere. Every citizen is a salesman for his town. This not only builds up but it makes the atmosphere congenial. None of us likes perpetual growling, fault-finding, back-biting Cheerfulness is an elixir of life.

Contracts Awarded Under Year Ago

NEW YORK, July 30.—Contracts awarded for new construction of all types in the 37 states east of the Rocky Mountains during the week from July 19 through July 25 totaled $81,767,100, F. W. Dodge Corporation reports. For July to the 25th, the aggregate was $297,076,700, an average of $14,146,500 per business day, compared with $25,093,700 per business day in July last year. New construction undertaken since June 1 in this territory totaled $2,935,090,000, against $3,545,703,800 for the corresponding period last year.

Exports of Copper Declined in June

NEW YORK, July 30.—Refined copper exports in June totaled 27,493 tons, against 34,090 tons in May and 20,376 tons in April, the American Bureau of Metal Statistics reports. Imports of copper in unmanufactured form were 27,890 tons in June, against 22,294 in May and 37,186 in April.

Retail Sales of Dresses and Hosiery

The retail sales of women's dresses and women's and children's hosiery in the department stores of the United States during the first five months of 1930 are compared with the corresponding figures for the past six years. Indexes are used. 1924 equals 100. Source: Federal Reserve Board.

DRESS SALES

The sales of women's dresses in 1930, as indicated by department stores, equal or exceed any past year, except 1929. This is more evidence that retailing is up to normal.

HOSIERY SALES

Hosiery sales this year exceed any past year but 1929. This shows another satisfactory retailing condition. Note that these sales are increasing faster than dress sales.

STOCKS SLUMP AFTER SHORT UPTURN

Speculators Unnerved by Commodity Weakness; Steel Report Attacked

NEW YORK, July 30.—(AP.)—The bulls appeared to have struck out in today's stock market, and the bears had their inning, for after yesterday's performance it was apparent that the bulls had failed for the third time to break through the resistance points established at the end of the technical rally on July 18.

UPTURN SHORT

Although there was a momentary upturn in the morning the market soon turned emphatically downward, with even General Motors, strongly defended bull outpost during yesterday's bear attacks, losing ground substantially.

Renewed weakness in the commodity markets appeared to have unnerved speculators for the rise. With wheat breaking to new lows, the July option going under 80 cents a bushel and corn and cotton under pronounced pressure there seemed little room for bullishness in stocks.

STEEL STATEMENT

The statement of the finance committee of U. S. Steel, indicating that the recession in that industry had reached bottom, an extraordinary bullish pronouncement to come from so conservative and reticent a quarter, failed to cause more than a brief upturn in that leading issue. Bears made capital out of the fact that only the regular dividend had been declared, although early rumors of an extra had not been taken very seriously.

The earnings report showed 47 cents a share for the common in the six months ended June 30, the asset value as of that date was given as $30.16.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, July 30.—(AP.)—All deliveries of wheat dropped today to new low prices for many years. The principal reason given was lack of buying support, largely a result of big supplies of wheat in the United States and Canada, with European countries minimizing imports. Corn also dragged lower after a rising start, influenced by wheat weakness. Opening ⅛c to ¾c off, wheat afterward showed a pronounced general drop. Corn started unchanged to ¾c up, but subsequently underwent setbacks all around.

Accelerating the downward swing of wheat values were statements current that North American wheat export business today appeared to be at the lowest ebb witnessed in some time. There were also estimates at hand that the prospective wheat crop this season in the 32 chief producing countries would total 4,080,000,000 bushels, compared with 3,888,000,000 bushels last season. In this total, Russia was credited with 40,000,000 bushels more than was the case a year ago.

On the other hand, wheat price setbacks today were in the face of reports that feeding of wheat to livestock in the United States was no longer confined mainly to the Southwest but was prevalent on a large scale elsewhere, notably Ohio.

Corn prices fell even faster than wheat at times, notwithstanding that the corn market owed its original downward impulse today to the effect of a collapse of wheat values. Temperatures in the corn belt, however, where generally moderate, and many traders seemed inclined to regard recent advances in corn as having more than discounted crop damage done thus far by wheat and drought.

Despite sharp downturns in prices today for both corn and wheat, selling pressure was apparently of no greater volume than average. Oats and rye declined with other cereals.

Provisions reflected firmness of the hog market.

Sugar Market.

NEW YORK, July 30.—(AP.)—Raw sugar was quiet early today and, while no sales were reported, prices were easier and sugars were offered at concessions of 1-32c or on the basis of 3.18 for spots duty paid. Refiners showed no interest.

Another set of new low records for all time and the season was established in the raw futures market under a continuation of tired long liquidation and selling of distant positions by houses with producing connections. The market opened unchanged to 2 points lower and continued heavy throughout the balance of the forenoon, with prices at midday 3 points net lower on all positions. The selling seemed to be promoted by the inactivity in the spot market and the willingness of holders to sell at present prices.

In refined second-hand offerings were more plentiful, but there was only a moderate demand, with the trade inclined to hold off expecting lower prices owing to the recent decline in the raw article. Prices were listed at 4.70 by all refiners, with second-hands available at 4.60.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, July 30.—(AP.)—Prices wavered on the curb market today. Profit-taking halted the rise in the utilities, while short selling uncovered some weak spots throughout the list.

The oils were firm, reflecting favorable news from the industry including reduction in the daily average crude output for the past week and also another cut in Gasoline stocks. Cosden and Gulf were strong and Humble appeared on the tape for the first time in several days. Cities Service lagged.

Many of the active utility shares held firm, although realizing brought occasional dips of a point or so in Electric Bond & Share, United Light "A", American & Foreign Power Warrants and Tampa Electric.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded in (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

RAILWAY HEAD SAYS COURTESY AIDS BUSINESS

Holding of Patrons Cited As Vital Merchandising Problem; Bonds Gain

By MERRYLL S. RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, July 30.—Routineers in business give too much time to discussing the trade recession, and too little to creative thought as to how to improve their own volume and profits.

The customer is the coveted asset of business men, and yet at every turn he is still being treated shabbily by stupid practitioners in the realm of give and take. J. J. Bernet, the operating railroad star of the Van Sweringen family, gives some excellent advice along these lines to his fellow employes in the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, of which he is president. He says:

Mr. Rukeyser

"Some folks use our railroad because they have to, but most folks use it because they like to.

"The object of our salesmanship is to provide something that folks will like and want. Customers go where they get their money's worth and are made to feel welcome. They stay away from places where they are cheated and saluted with a grouch.

"Every employe is a salesman of our service, and every good salesman has learned to remember two little words which cost nothing to use and which bring steady returns. They are: THANK YOU.

SMILES BRING RESULTS

"When a customer comes to spend his money, the railway can well afford to smile and say, THANK YOU.

"Most of the bankrupt-sale signs in this world are hung on people who didn't."

Mr. Bernet's advice may sound obvious, but business success is predicated on learning the significance of the obvious.

At every turn the observer finds business men violating these obvious canons. The hotel clerk at resort places is curt and discourteous to guests on peak days. The salesman in the store sometimes tells a customer that he is out of his size without hastening to add that he will order it.

The person who has a human friendly interest in customers has an enormous competitive advantage, which works in hard times as well as in periods of white heat prosperity.

Lew Hahn, former head of the National Retail Dry Goods Association and now chief executive of a chain of department stores which bears his name, likewise urges merchandisers to make a little stronger effort to get the viewpoint of the harassed, ultimate consumer. Mr. Hahn said that a department store, instead of maintaining its price lines, should seek to continue to retain its clientele. To do this in periods of depression, the executive pointed out, it is necessary to carry lower priced merchandise for the same customers.

"If a department store wishes to maintain its position in a community, it must go up and down with the type of people it serves. It is not up to us to do as we think, but as our customers wish.

MUST SOLVE PROBLEM

"One of the problems, under existing conditions, that retailers must solve, is to discover where the consumer is. When prosperity is broken, and incomes are reduced, the consumer abruptly disappears from his previous purchasing level. Then it is up to us to discover at what price we can attract him or her again. When this is definitely determined we will be able to do business, even if on a lower price plane. I am amused by manufacturers and wholesalers who tell the retailers that they should reduce prices. There is no question about it. We have to."

A curative economic factor is seen in the bond market in which the offerings of foreign bonds were nearly double those of the corresponding period of 1929. The world-wide depression was aggravated by the starvation of the rest of the world for credit. The bull speculation in New York, which culminated last Labor Day, attracted funds to the stock exchange, which otherwise would have gone to finance world business.

In spite of the sharp declines in the prices of bank stocks in the last ten months, the shares of New York City banking institutions are still quoted at prices which discount future possibilities, rather than present realities. Of course, in considering price-earning ratios, the practical investor allows for the practice of the banks in hiding earnings and assets. New York bank stocks have recently been selling at about 2.2 times book value as of June 30, 1930, 2.1 times probable 1930 earnings, as indicated by the half-yearly statements, and yield 3.2 per cent.

Spreckels' Rigging Charge Refuted

NEW YORK, July 30.—Rudolph Spreckels, chairman of Kolster Radio Corporation, and other officers and directors are not obliged to disclose to stockholders their stock market transactions in Kolster stock, John A. Bernard, special master, finds in a report made in Chancery Court in Newark. The charge that the market was "rigged" was not substantiated, the report found.

Stock Exchange Topics

Signs Continue to Point To Improvement in Radio Industry.

All signs continue to point to improvement in the radio industry with orders increasing. Many of the companies that suffered big losses in the first six months are likely to more than make them up in the final half of the year. Incrementally, reorganization plans for Kolster including taking the company out of receivership, is another straw pointing to the general betterment in the industry.

The bears seem to be as timid in attempts at depressing values as the bulls were two weeks or so ago in buying for a rise. Over the last week or two, a certain bear group has tested out its side of the market by fairly large sales of representative stocks and found prices didn't give way as easily as they did in the June decline that ended with many new lows. The stocks sold short were absorbed by houses that at times represent large financial interests. This discovery was followed by a hasty covering movement. There still are many big bears, but they are doing little. Most of them are on the side lines.

Things in copper are looking a little better, due to larger sales of the metal at 11 cents a pound. But that doesn't mean much in the way of earnings. On 11-cent copper, few copper companies can earn even current dividends. The large sales, however, help to reduce surplus stock, which must be cut down materially before there can be any lasting improvement. The important question is: "Are producers still turning out a tonnage of copper in excess of consumers' requirements?" If July shows a further increase in surplus stocks, bulls on the copper issues will be disappointed.

Wall Street has heard it rumored that the Bank for International Settlements has placed large sums on deposit with several New York City banks. This cannot be confirmed as the banks take the stand that such deposits would be just as confidential as deposits from a private individual or a corporation. As one bank put it "We would not tell you even if we had such a deposit." As far as can be learned there is nothing in the international agreement to compel the bank to keep money on deposit here.

As far as can be learned there are numerous pools in the market but they are not anxious at present to attract a following. Money is cheap and carrying charges are low so that pool managers consider it a good time to mark up their favorites cautiously with the idea of selling to the public on the expected upturn in the fall. The Street now-a-days has its daily crop of new rumors to entertain it in the absence of excitement in the market. One hears that this and that operator has been commissioned by important interests to lead a market rally or that one or another of the well known operators is locked up in a certain stock.

Establishment of western market facilities for securties of motion picture companies is sought by the Los Angeles Stock Exchange following a survey of activities of its members in these securities. Listing of the amusement stock on the coast exchange would in no way interfere with the present eastern markets, it is announced. One argument brought out by the exchange in favor of its plan was the fact that a western market would provide 48-hour transfer service on certificates, as compared with between three to six weeks required at present. Additional trading hours would also be provided due to the 3-4 hours time differential between the two coasts. With a total industry investment of $2,000,000,000, Joseph M. Schenck, producer, recently estimated the Los Angeles studios are worth in excess of $58,000,000 and employes' salaries aggregate $82,000,000 annually.

Mesta Machine Profit Shows Gain

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

MESTA MACHINE COMPANY in the first half of this year made an outstanding record for industrial organizations in this district. Earnings for the six months showed a substantial gain over last year. They were larger than in the entire year of 1928. They also exceeded the full year of 1927.

H. F. Wahr, president of the company, announced yesterday that net profit for the six months ended June 30, after depreciation and taxes, was $1,271,000 or slightly more than $2 a share on 600,000 shares of common stock after deducting preferred dividends.

The common stock pays regular quarterly dividends of 40 cents and extras of 10 cents. These are equivalent to a $2 basis. Profit for the half year was sufficient to cover dividend requirements for a full year.

Profit to Continue Large

PROFIT FOR THE SECOND half of 1930 is expected to equal that of the first half so that dividend requirements will be earned twice. Unfilled orders on July 1 amounted to $5,286,000. A large volume of new business is in sight and Mesta Machine may logically be expected to get a normal share of this. Contracts on hand and expected new business make the prospects for profits to continue at a high rate for the balance of this year, as well as the early part of 1931; exceptionally bright.

Mesta has benefited from the vast amount of improvement work now being carried on in the steel industry. Nearly all the major producers are either adding to capacity or they are replacing old equipment with more modern machinery.

Plant at West Homestead

THE COMPANY MAKES gas and steam engines, condensers, rolling mill machinery, steam-hydraulic forging and bending presses, steel castings and allied products. The plant at West Homestead covers 20 acres of ground, fronting on the Monongahela River.

Based on official estimates, the earnings for this year will amount to about $2,500,000 or $4 a share on the common stock. This will compare with $1,797,242 or $2.81 a share in 1929, on the basis of the present capitalization. In 1928 net profit was $1,051,473 or $1.56 a share and in 1927 profit was $1,227,699 or $1.94 a share.

No Funded Debt

WITH PHYSICAL PROPERTIES valued at $7,958,146, against which reserves for depreciation of $3,095,084 have been set up, the company has no funded debt. The 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock outstanding amounts to only $1,721,500.

The financial position is exceptionally strong. Current assets at the close of 1929 amounted to $4,001,174 against current liabilities of $899,416. Cash totaled $2,358,857. Working capital, which stood at $2,755,102 at the end of 1927, was increased to $2,982,750 in 1928 and to $3,101,758 in 1929.

Total assets amounted to $11,971,164 and surplus was $3,255,164 at the close of 1929.

Outlook Bright

CONSTANT CHANGES taking place in steel mill practice in the struggle for lower costs insure the Mesta Machine Company of a fairly steady volume of sales. Expansion into new producing districts, such as Detroit will also be responsible for the placing of contracts for large amounts of steel mill equipment in the future. All these factors indicate a good future for the company, which is one of the leaders in its field.

THE PRODUCE MARKET

The demand for fruit and vegetables was slow today at the wholesale produce markets in Pittsburgh. There were no changes in quotations.

The poultry markets remained steady, demand good, supply nominal, with slight changes in quotations.

The butter, egg and cheese markets ruled firm, demand good, supply adequate, with slight changes in prices.

The hot supplies were nominal with six cars on track. Arrivals included 13 cars of apples, 1 cabbage, 28 cantaloupes, 2 cucumbers, 3 California fruit, 2 lemons, 1 lettuce, 3 onions, 1 orange, 21 peaches, 1 pear, 21 potatoes, 2 sweet potatoes, 23 tomatoes, 2 mixed vegetables and 43 watermelons.

STEEL EARNINGS $47,061,304 IN QUARTER

Unfilled Orders on Hand June 30, 3,968,064 Tons; Dividend of $1.75 Declared

NEW YORK, July 30.—(AP.)—The United States Steel Corporation reported total second quarter earnings of $47,061,304, compared with $49,615,397 in the March 31 quarter and $71,995,461, the peace time record, in the second three months of 1929. The figures are after the usual deductions and operating expenses.

Net income for the last quarter was $52,126,717, against $55,777,697 in the first three months of 1930 and $53,825,843 in the second quarter last year.

Unfilled orders on hand June 30 totaled 3,968,064 tons, in contrast with 4,570,653 on March 31, and 4,256,910 a year ago.

Directors declared the usual quarterly dividend of $1.75 per share on common and preferred stock.

Net profit for the second quarter was equal to $3.02 per share of common. This compared with $3.44 in the previous quarter and $6.68 in the three months ending June 30, 1929.

A statement by the finance committee said that plants of the corporation were now operating on about 63 per cent of capacity and that indications in the industry pointed to an increase in this rate during the remainder of this quarter, with an improvement in volume during the last three months of the year.

RAIL BUSINESS AIDS STEEL

NEW YORK, July 30.—The Iron Age in its weekly summary of the iron and steel trade tomorrow will say:

Rail business stands out as the only new element in the iron and steel market situation. The Van Sweringen lines have contracted for 58,600 tons of rails, and there are indications that other railroads will place their annual requirements earlier than usual. The New York Central is expected to inquire for 200,000, the Pennsylvania for 180,000 tons and the Reading for 35,000 tons. The only immediate effect of hastening rail buying would be to improve business sentiment, since the railroads are behind in their specifications against present contracts. However, slight improvement in rail releases is reported from the South and from Chicago.

Outside of prospective support from the carriers there is nothing in the current state of iron and steel demand that offers any definite clue as to the future. The trade still voices its belief that improvement is near, but, with concrete evidence of increasing activity lacking, makes no prophecy as to the extent of recovery.

AUTO PLANT "VACATIONS"

The extension of "vacations" among consuming plants and the announcement of fresh suspensions by companies that have operated through this month indicate that the stimulus from industrial resumptions may not be felt until the middle or end of August.

Tendencies in steel plant operations are irregular, with losses offsetting gains. Ingot output for the country at large remains unchanged at 56 per cent for the fourth week. Activity is at its lowest ebb among manufacturers of goods for the ultimate consumer. Following the decisions of the Ford Motor Company to postpone resumption of operations from July 28 to August 4, telegrams were sent to the steel trade rescinding releases of shipping orders. It is possible that the Ford shutdown may be extended into a fourth week, because of large stocks of cars in dealers' hands. Other motor car builders have suspended operations and it now seems unlikely that August output will show much of a gain over July production, estimated at 220,000 cars for this country.

TRADE FEELS WEATHER

The low prices of agricultural products and the extreme hot weather have further reduced farmer buying of sheets and wire products and have rendered the production plans of implement and tractor manufacturers more uncertain. An offsetting factor is a large foreign order for tractors booked by a Milwaukee plant.

The protracted heat spell is also undoubtedly affecting canning crops, although the extent of damage suffered is not yet known. Tin plate output is still at a higher rate than production of most finished products, averaging 65 per cent. Pipe lines, structural steel work and shipbuilding remain outstanding sustaining factors in an extraordinarily quiet period.

The total of structural steel projects added to the pending list, at 51,000 tons, is the largest since the last week in June.

Prices have undergone further scattered reductions.

The Iron Age composite price for pig iron has declined from $17.09 to $16.96 a gross ton, dropping below $17 for the first time since 1915. Finished steel is unchanged at 2.171 cents a pound, its lowest since 1922.

150,000 Subscribe For A. T. T. Stock

NEW YORK, July 30.—Subscriptions to the 2,350,000 shares of American Telephone and Telegraph stock rights to subscribe to, which expire August 1, are pouring into the company's offices and at the close of business July 29 the company had approximately $90,000,000. Over 150,000 subscriptions have been received in which 78 per cent are full paid and 22 per cent in installments.

DAILY TRUE STORY

Duty

Al's feet were tired.

A patrolman's feet are supposed to be good subjects for jokesmiths and wise-cracks from racketeers.

That doesn't prevent them from getting mighty tired.

He had been covering his beat from Clarkson Avenue to Dock Street, a long lonely tough district.

He walked up the three flights to the apartment that had the little name-plate A. J. Cardigan on it. No hint at all that A. J. Cardigan was one of the finest.

A ray of light shone out from under the door.

"Mom had no need to have left a light," he muttered.

Al lived with his mother in the little apartment. It didn't occur to him then that anything could be wrong with her. He should have realized that she never left the light. But he was, as he said in the ward room at the station house. "Dog tired with tired dogs." He couldn't think about much else.

He unlocked the door and stepped in.

"Sh-sh-sh."

Someone stood in the door to his mother's room—a girl. Her hair was red and wavy and she wore a flimsy black dress with silver spangles on it.

"Now who th' devil are you?" Al asked.

"Are you Cardigan?" the girl asked.

She closed the door softly and came to him in her stocking feet.

"Sure I'm Cardigan. Did you think I was a robber in these clothes? And what the devil are you doing in my home?"

"Your ma was hurt a little—"

Cardigan leaped to his feet.

"Ma hurted? Fer Gawd's sake why didn't you tell—"

"Hush up—take them pavement slappers off your big feet and keep quiet—she's asleep now—she's all right—I mean she won't—she'll be all right in a couple days. Mister Cardigan."

"Honest, kid? On the level? What happened—if anything happened to ma—Gawd—"

Understands

"Sure, I know. I lost mine a year ago."

The girl sat down and smiled at him.

"Excuse me. I left my pumps in her room. My feet hurt and I walked quieter without them heels clickin'."

What happened?"

A friend was taking me over to the River A. C. Dance. He's a taxi man, owns his own bus—we skidded around a corner and bumped your ma—"

"How bad is she hurted?"

Sweat stood out on Cardigan's forehead.

"Honest, Mister Cardigan, take it easy. She got a gosh awful bruise on her hip but no bones broken. We brought her up here and got a doctor. She'll be lame for a week. Gee, I'm sorry, but th' street was wet and your Ma oughtn't to cross with th' lights against her."

"She don't see none too good. When did it happen?"

"'Bout nine."

"Four hours ago. You been here all th' time?"

"Yeah."

"That's swell of you, kid. You missed your dance. I'll get a taxi and send you over. Was your gentleman friend sore?"

"Aw, I don't feel like dancin'. My dogs hurt like—they hurt. I work over to Jake's restaurant, on my dogs from noon to eight at night, and to tell you th' druth it was my brother takin' me. I wasn't goin' to tell you first, afraid you might get sore at him, but it wasn't his fault."

"Probably not. Ma don't see as good as she used to and when a car skids—sure—say, it was swell of you—and excuse me."

Patrolman Albert J. Cardigan removed his heavy shoes and sighed as he wriggled his weary burning toes.

"Gee," he said, with relief.

"Take off that coat. There's some tea on th' stove. Your ma fussed so about your eats I promised to stay and get 'em for you."

"I'm gonna take a look at her."

"Don't wake her."

He went in and looked at his little gray-haired mother. She was sleeping comfortably. Bandages and liniment were on a stand by the bed. A pair of silly little black and silver pumps with high heels looked odd beside the prim button shoes that his mother wore.

The girl served him a portion of hot stew and tea and bread.

"What did you pay doc?" he asked.

"He knows you—it's charged. He said for me not to call you if I could stay and put on th' hot liniment till she got sleepy."

Embarrassed

"Kid, you are a peach. Who are you?"

"Delia Reardon."

"Where do you live?"

"Aw, never mind, Mister Cardigan. I don't want no thanks. Once there was a cop saved my mother and me when th' old tenement caught fire and I guess it will take m plenty time to square accounts."

"Yeah? Listen, Delia, you didn't know Ma was a cop's mother when you hit her."

"That's all right. Gee, you're keen—you ought to be a detective."

"I'd like to be—fat chance, though."

"They say if you always do your duty and are keen about it, you can make it."

"I been doin' me duty for five years and I'm still poundin' pavements."

"Cheer up. Any guy as good to his ma as you is sure to make th' grade. She told me about you."

"Aw," said the embarrassed Al.

He put on his shoes, his citizen's coat and took Delia Reardon home—a place more squalid than he had suspected.

"I'll be seein' you—if you need help let me know, come and see us, Delia."

"I'll do that. Your ma makes me think of mine—and I don't need no help—I can work."

Al's mother told him all about the swate girl like an angel who cared for her.

"I'd like ye to marry a girl like that, Al," she said. "Barrin' a bit of temper th' redheads make fine, faithful wives and intelligent mothers. I know all about it."

"Me marry? Go awn, ma!"

But Al Cardigan fell in love with Delia Reardon just the same.

Come Christmas Cardigan who had been going about a bit with Delia invited her to his home for Christmas dinner.

Bring yer brother Delia," he invited.

"Aw he wouldn't come. He's—he's married."

But Delia came to dinner and she and Al's mother wept a little over her own departed mother and she gave Al a big hug and kiss when she unwrapped the fur neckpiece he gave her. If he bought it off some crook it didn't matter to her. In fact he didn't do anything like that but told her he did because she said he couldn't afford anything like that.

In Duel

By Spring Al got a sort of promotion to a reserve squad known as "Crime busters." They went places for daring raids and gangster fights, they drove cars like the devil and nosed around plenty of places. If Al landed a few big crooks, badly wanted, he stood a chance to be made detective.

He told Delia about it.

"That's swell, Al," she agreed, "only for Gawd's sake, don't get in a jam with them gangsters—they'd be just fools enough to bump you."

"And you'd care?"

"I was thinkin' of your poor Ma."

"Ye lie, ye was thinkin' of me, meself."

"Sure—a little."

The day that the papers printed a picture of "Officer Cardigan, who shot out a duel with a jewelry store robber," there was joy and apprehension in the Cardigan home.

"He might have killed ye, Al," his mother said, with a sob.

"'Twas me duty to get him, Ma."

"And I'm proud of ye."

Delia didn't say much then. Later she begged him to be careful.

"They don't pay me to run away, me darlin'. I'm like to get a promotion to th' detective staff for this."

But he didn't. However, he was told that he was in line for such a promotion if he continued with his fine record.

It certainly seemed as if Officer Cardigan would get his promotion soon after this.

"Red" Kelly was wanted in the Baker gang death-car fight. Plenty of witnesses saw "Red" Kelly lean out of the car and plug both Baker and Ginson.

Officer Cardigan had seen "Red" Kelly several times and knew one of his hangouts.

He went down there, in civilian clothes, when off duty. If he could bring "Red" Kelly in, with "Red" being wanted for a dozen crimes, he would get his promotion sure.

Cardigan walked through the alley and up the stairs. He sized up the door, tapped lightly and waited.

"Open," said a voice.

The door opened suddenly.

A girl screamed and a man sitting at a table, leveling a big automatic at Cardigan, said: "Reach up—quick!"

The girl who screamed was Delia Reardon.

Officer Cardigan didn't raise his hands, but he hurled his gat, and it floored "Red" Kelly.

Surprised

Cardigan was on him in a flash and got both of his gats.

"What you doing here, Delia?"

"I came to warn him, Al. I knew you'd do your duty. He's my brother—"

She sat down. You couldn't hear a sob out of her, but tears came.

"He's all I got—and he's always been a crook. He did take another name for Ma's sake—"

She choked up.

Officer Cardigan recalled a girl who had cared for his mother.

"Was he the one who brought Ma home after she was hit?"

"He couldn't help that—for God's sake—Oh, well, I know you got to do your duty."

"Let's go to a movie, Delia," Cardigan said.

"Why—why, Al—what do you mean? How about him?"

"I don't see nobody here, except me and you, Delia. Let's go," said Officer Cardigan.

They went out and saw a movie together.

Ma Cardigan was right—redhead, make faithful wives and wonderful mothers. Ask Officer Al Cardigan.

Road Construction at Record-Breaking Speed

At the beginning of the year Gov. John S. Fisher estimated that Pennsylvania's road building program would furnish sufficient employment to support a city of the size of Scranton. Latest reports of the State Highway Department indicate the estimate was none too high.

From Harrisburg yesterday came word that 17,102 men are directly employed by contractors in the construction of state highways. Add to their number the men engaged in producing the paving material and equipment and the host of others who aid in the undertaking, and some conception can be had of the enormous size of the road-building payroll. We should be very grateful to the inventor of the automobile. If it were not for him these road builders and an army of others might be idle this summer.

The speed with which the state highways are being constructed is impressive. The Harrisburg report states that for the sixth consecutive week the contractors built more than 50 miles of new road during the seven days ended last Thursday—a record-breaking performance. By the end of the year there will be 10,100 miles of paved road in the state highway system, as compared with 2,660 miles on January 1, 1914.

The improvement of the state highways has cost the people of Pennsylvania a fabulous amount of money. When James Lyall Stuart, of Pittsburgh, secretary of highways, goes out of office next January he alone, during his four years' tenure, will have superintended the expenditure of $207,500,000 on road construction and maintenance.

Who can doubt that it has been good policy to lavish these enormous sums on new highways? Besides furnishing employment to thousands of men, road construction has helped the industry and commerce of Pennsylvania by providing transportation facilities for regions previously lacking them. The expenditure would have been worth while if it had done no more than open the way for the people of the state to visit its various sections and enjoy its beauties, as multitudes do every day. The millions spent on Pennsylvania's highways have been a splendid investment.

Pennsylvania Supremacy In Historical Monuments

The announcement that a bronze tablet, marking the last camping place of the Confederate army in Pennsylvania, will be unveiled at services on the Patterson farm, near McConnellsburg, Fulton County, tomorrow, is a reminder of the splendid work that has been done by the State Historical Commission and similar bodies in commemorating notable events. Pennsylvania has a record in this respect of which the citizens may well be proud.

Pennsylvania leads all the states in marking the sites of the outstanding events of the Civil War. And the work goes on. Next October a tablet will be set up on the old site of the Western Penitentiary on the North Side to commemorate the fact that Confederate prisoners of war were confined there.

For the services tomorrow the tablet has been provided by the Pennsylvania Historical Commission. The Fulton County Historical Society is sponsor and Pittsburgh Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy will conduct the unveiling. Thanks are due all three bodies for the interest they have shown in marking this spot of such historic and sentimental interest—the last bivouac of the southern soldiers before they retreated across the Mason and Dixon line.

Pittsburgh Artillery Regiment's Fine Record

If the Pittsburgh baseball team, composed of professional players, of whom not more than one or two claim Pittsburgh as their home, were to win the pennant, we would all go wild with joy. The Chamber of Commerce would give a dinner for the team, City Council would pass appropriate resolutions, thanking the players for the glory they had brought Pittsburgh, and other honors would be heaped upon them.

Well, it looks as if we were to be denied that pleasure this year; but we might spare a tiny bit of our pent-up enthusiasm for an amateur organization, all Pittsburgh boys, who have just brought distinction to the city. We refer to the One Hundred and Seventy-sixth Field Artillery, commanded by Col. W. R. Dunlap.

The regiment, it is announced, led all other units in the Third Corps Area, which includes Pennsylvania, Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia, in the annual federal inspection of National Guard troops. The inspection of the One Hundred and Seventy-sixth was conducted in the General Logan Armory here by Regular Army officers and was a thorough one.

The Sun-Telegraph salutes the regiment on its splendid showing.

Another Official Visit On Postoffice Matter

Long before some of our bright young business men were born it was decided that Pittsburgh's postoffice on Smithfield street, between Third and Fourth avenues, had become too small and that we should have a new federal building.

Some 25 years ago Leslie Mortier Shaw, then secretary of the treasury under President Roosevelt, came to Pittsburgh to look over sites for the new postoffice. We thought it would only be a matter of a few months until ground would be broken for the structure.

Secretary Shaw's visit is recalled by the news that the Senate Postoffice Committee is coming to Pittsburgh to investigate the leasing of quarters here.

Secretary Shaw and many who worked for the new postoffice are dead, and we still are using the old one. Meanwhile technicalities arise and investigations continue to be made.

Patience in this case has ceased to be a virtue.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Oil Upon the Waters

We are indebted to government scientists for a lot of things we don't know after we have learned them.

"Bugs" Baer

They work year after year with retorts and tubes scramming out the details of what's-this and how's-those.

You mightn't think this means anything. But it "Bugs" Baer does. Especially when it doesn't.

A scientist can step along any place and see things that other government people are getting paid not to see.

That's the reason we captured $300,000 worth of liquor just last week while we were rolling up that heat wave into snow balls.

Bathers along the beach had been much annoyed by oil along the silvery strands. It got between their toes, into their hair and turned their ears into journals on freight trains.

It's all right to be oiled when you are swimming the English Channel. It's even better to be well-oiled when listening to an after-dinner speech.

But nobody wants to be greased north, east, south and west when dipping into the rollicking surf.

The bathers squawked about the oil. But they didn't do anything about it, not even bathe.

Then a government scientist stepped along in a seersucker bathing outfit and started a romp into the ocean. He got a mouthful of oil, sputtered and went into executive session.

Only a scientist knows enough to swim and dive with his mouth open. If there is any animal life in the ocean the scientist always wants to get in the first bite. This is all right but it doesn't work so good with jelly-fish.

Did the scientist give up the mouthful of oil? We don't mean your uncle. He swallowed it. His eyes fluttered like the iris on a moving picture camera, his spine vibrated like a suburban trolley car and a pleased expression came over his face that three people could not have carried.

He said, "That ain't oil. That's Scotch." It was. Of the purest ray serene and warranted to unloosen your shoelaces at a thousand yards.

He took another snifter. On the third mouthful he started to eat seaweed for free lunch.

Then he staggered back to shore and reported to the proper authorities. They traced the scummy Scotch out to sea and nailed a row of rum boats.

MARVELS OF RADIO

By Archibald Henderson

As we look into the future, and by no means a remote future, we confidently expect the perfection and realization of scientific marvels already previsioned by the imagination of man. We become accustomed to the thought of these marvels, long before they are actually realized. When they do arrive, they seem almost like commonplaces. Children born today accept the airplane as casually as they accept the automobile or the locomotive.

Take young John Hayes Hammond, Jr., for example, as an illustration of the brilliant, imaginative inventor. Already he has learned how to send eight messages on one wave length, and demonstrated it for distances up to 1,700 meters. This discovery is analogous to that of the discovery of the multiplexing system in telegraph, telephone, and cable work. Hammond has developed a method whereby aircraft may project torpedoes and then control their path in the water by radio from a lofty altitude. Marconi has developed power transmission over great distances so that by pressing a button in Rome he switches on all lights in Melbourne, Australia. The possibilities of the transmission of power by radio are practically limitless, full of all the mysteries and dangers of the unknown.

In the next war an airplane can hover over the scene of some vast naval engagement, like the battle of Jutland in the World War, photograph the scene with a television eye over a 100-square-mile area, say, and flash the picture by television to naval headquarters, to a royal palace or the White House, or even to a fleet of submarines waiting to go into action. Aviation and radio and television will be among the dynamically directive and controlling factors in the next great war.

The astronomers in the near future are going to find much value in the use of aviation and television in common. Suppose we are at Portland, Me., at the time of the next eclipse of the sun, August, 1932; or at some other favored point at a much later date, when the sun suffers an eclipse. We may rest assured that aircraft will soar aloft above the clouds, should they obscure the view and with radio eyes televise the beauties of coronal display.

The beautiful pale halo, the long streak of light, the beautiful red streamers, will all be caught and transmitted through the air to any given point—a great public hall or an ordinary private home, properly equipped with receiving appartus. An eclipse, instead of being like the tariff, a "local issue," will thus become an international affair. As Orrin Dunlap happily says, the celestial show, called "Dusk of the Gods," will be televised in all its grandeur for those who are outside of the path over which the shadow trails with all its weird effects.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Here is a true letter. It isn't literature. It's life:

Dear Elsie Robinson:

I have just read about another of these missing girls who have left home. And I suppose everybody will think there is a man in it. That's what people usually say. But I and lots of other girls can tell them different. It isn't a lover that makes us leave home. IT'S OUR PARENTS.

I am a girl of 17. I am the oldest of three children—my brother is 16 and my sister 12. I go out to work. I do not mind that, but what I do mind is this: I am never allowed to go out for the least fun, and I have to do most of the housework after I get home at night.

My mother is a strong, healthy woman. All she does is to cook enough for us and just throw it on the table. For the rest of the day she just sits around and talks with the neighbors. When I come home the work is waiting to be done. She says I needn't do it, but if I don't the house is a pig pen.

Even if I had any time to have friends I couldn't, for if I go anywhere I get the awfulest bawling out. It doesn't worry my parents a bit to have me go out and work and bring back money, but if I want to go out for my own fun they act as if I committed a crime.

Don't get the impression I want to be wild. I don't even want boy friends, but I do want girl friends. Life is just a prison for me. I feel like an outcast when I see the lives other young people have. I am sick of work all day and pots and pans at night and never any fun. What chance is there for me unless I do run away? My mother says she could have me arrested as a minor. But she is acting lots more like a minor than I am, I think. If people really knew the truth about missing girls, they would find that nine times out of ten the PARENTS were to blame.

CLARA.

An unusual picture? Not at all. One of the commonest pictures in America today. Any social worker, any personnel manager, can tell you how common. You yourself can confirm it if you'll use your eyes. There are a dozen situations like that in your own neighborhood, probably. Nothing very remarkable about them. And they certainly wouldn't strike a casual stranger as tragic. Just a typical American family. Nice, comfortable house — easygoing parents—healthy children. Bright, ambitious youngster—that oldest girl. Always hustling. No "funny business' about her.

NO FUNNY BUSINESS!

There's the rub.

What's life without "funny business" at 17?

Easy enough to answer that—it's hell. Such a hell that a rebellious girl will do desperate things to escape it. Lose herself in a strange city—anything.

Don't ask what we're going to do about reckless girls like that. Ask, rather, what we're going to do about lazy, incompetent, criminally selfish PARENTS like that!

Why should any mother leave her housework for her working daughter to do after hours? That housework is as much the mother's job as typewriting or clerking is the daughter's job. She has no more right to "sit around" than the daughter has. And, if she does, she's as truly a loafer and a vag as the bum who rides the rods.

And why should any parent deny life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness to the youngster who is supporting herself and contributing to the family? A great people once went to war over the question of "taxation without representation." The girl who runs away from such a home is fighting for the same principle. If she comes to a tragic end, don't blame that girl. Blame the PARENTS!

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

Revelations

Once I heard song made perfect,
Each note a crystal sphere;
Tossed to the winds of heaven,
Vibrant and pure and clear;
Flinging its joyous challenge
Forth to the coming dark,
Perfect, that soaring rapture,
Song of the meadow lark.

Once I saw radiant beauty
Dance through an April hour;
Meadows, mist hung, were shining
Under a silver shower.
Poplars, three were standing,
Just at the side of a lane;
There I saw beauty dancing,
Silver and green in the rain.

Once I watched peace unveiling
Its soul to my hungry gaze,
Calming the pulse of passion
After life's storm-stirred days;
Peace with its mystic power,
Ever serene and wise,
Peace, in its triumph, smiling
Out of an old man's eyes.

Text for Today He shall dwell on high; his place of defence shall be the munitions of rocks: bread shall be given him; his waters shall be sure. Thine eyes shall see the king in his beauty; they shall behold the land that is very far off.—Isaiah, xxxiii: 16, 17.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

Such differential changes may go on all through the growth. We are all born with snub noses. A Roman nose is Roman because of the relatively high growth-rate of its bridge, causing the baby's infantile snub to straighten and bend over; a less eagerly-growing bridge would have made the nose straight, a yet smaller one have left it snub through life.

One of the most obvious examples of the changes in shape brought about by exaggerated local growth of one organ is seen in fiddler crabs. These are so called because the full-grown males have one enormous claw which they generally hold in front of them as a violinist holds his fiddle.

H. G. Wells

The other claw of the male is tiny and is just like both claws of the female. The big male claw may grow to weigh almost as much as all the rest of the body. But all this striking masculinity is brought about during the animal's growth. The youngest crabs, both male and female, are all alike, with two equal small claws.

And the difference between the sexes is entirely brought about by one simple fact—that while both the female's claws and one of the male's grow at the same rate as the animal in general, the other male claw grows half as fast again. This claw and the rest of the body are like two sums of money put out to compound interest at different rates, the claw's rate being the higher, and so, as the animal increases in bulk, the proportionate size of the claw is bigger and bigger.

If growth were to go on long enough then the large claw would eventually grow larger than the whole of the rest of the body. But before that, death in some form overtakes this over-balanced animal.

Fiddler-crabs, like all crustacea, go on growing as long as they live. So a male fiddler-crab has no fixed or final shape, since it changes the relative size of claw and body as it grows. All that is constant is the proportion between the claw's rate of growth and that of the rest of the body.

A further interesting fact is that the male's big claw is growing fastest of all near its tip, the growth-rate grading down towards the body. As a result the claw changes the proportions of its parts as it grows.

This does not happen in the female's claws; not only are they growing as fast as the rest of the body, but all their parts are growing at the same rate. This local exaggeration of growth in a particular region, a "growth-center," seems to be universal for organs that grow faster than the body as a whole.

In our selves and other higher vertebrates just the same difference in growth capacity exists between different parts. From birth onwards, for instance, our arms and our legs are growing faster than our trunk.

The difference between us and a fiddler-crab is that at a more or less definite time, growth is inexplicably arrested. Our proportions have been changing as steadily as those of the crab, but now change is stopped.

We have attained a more or less fixed final shape. If we could solve the riddle of that arrest and defer the time at which growth ceases, human beings would not simply be larger than they are, their proportions would be different, their shape would be changed.

Abroad With A New Yorker

By O. O. McIntyre

AMSTERDAM.—Two large French windows in the venerable Amstel Hotel look down upon Amsterdam's network of captivating canals. It is 9:30 and a beautiful opalescent twilight. Darkness is an hour away. One of the half-block-long family canal boats drifts lazily by, creaking a soft threnody.

On the fore deck sits a full-bosomed Holland mother, and grouped about her are five straw blond children. She is reading to them from, judging from their age, a book of nursery rhymes. Aft is the father, leaning back in a chair, looking dreamily into the sky and puffing a long-stemmed china bowl pipe.

Wherever you go in Amsterdam or in all Holland you have that closeup of domestic content. Yet in spite of Holland's ardent fireside domesticity, the Hollander is a traveler. In every world capital and in every far-flung outpost of civilization you find the Dutch trader, big-boned, quick-moving, impressive.

Holland, too, is, next to England, the world's greatest colonizer. The Netherlands owns 50 times the size of its native land in colonies in Java, East Africa and various parts of the Far East. For this reason the Hollander is constantly traveling between home base and the colonies. Many have Javanese wives.

There are in Amsterdam 50 miles of canals spanned by 400 bridges, thus giving it the charm of Venice, minus the gondola, the singing gondolier and the aroma of garlic. Blooming flowers sprinkle canal banks, emphasizing Holland's domination in the art of flower growing. No wonder Rembrandt loved this—his native city.

Amsterdam will never be a gay capital. It is stuffed tight with age-old and traditional stolidity. The vesperal hour thunders with cathedral chimes. The streets are empty at 10 p. m. Shops, stores, cafes and hotels are not permitted to sell anything to take out after 8 in the evening. Customs never die.

I am an insomniac traveler and was awake before dawn crept over the city of canals and bridges. Last night it occurred to me that in strange lands one should eat the dishes of the country. I thought up a bowl of schmeerkase for breakfast and forgot it. But on my tray was a half-moon slice of bright yellow cheese.

Prowling early around this ancient hospice with its vast lobby and echoing corridors, I found the elevator man formerly worked at the old Marlborough on Broadway and married a fraulein from Hoboken. The porter's assistant was born in Cincinnati's Over-the-Rhine, and his father was a Moerlein brewmaster. He had not heard old Wielert's had closed. There was a place!

One of the nearby suburbs of Amsterdam, through which we drove, is Bruekelen. It is the little town for which Brooklyn was named. Here you dodge bicycles instead of trolley cars.

The size of the beds in Holland prompted me to measure mine. It was 12 feet wide, making room for all three of us—wife, dog and myself. In fact Billy was so far away he gave me a big fright. I thought he was a mouse.

Out of my window this noon on the banks of the Amstel I saw one of those Dutch paintings in real life—an old woman in Holland white bonnet with varnished wooden neckyoke and basket attached to each end of dangling ropes. She tooted a strange sounding horn, and I tried to attract her attention. I don't know what she was selling, but she was so neat and picturesque I would have taken two of each.

Never take on a Netherland manicure. One of my hands looks as though it had been caught in a wringer and the other mangled in a sausage grinder. I tossed the butcheress a guilder—the exact price—and a dirty look, and left in high rage.

After the manicure I stopped in at a corner bakery to soothe myself with a slice of fresh black pumpernickel and a flagon of cool milk. The bread was crumbly dry and the milk sour. The psalmist must have had a similar experience when he sang: "For I have eaten ashes like bread and mingled my drink with weeping."

Every Amsterdam native in talking to an American will jockey conversation around so he can mention Hendrik Hudson, one of the local boys who made good in New York. And come to think of it, why wouldn't "Hendrik Hudson" be a dandy name for the next big New York hotel.

I just remember I have scooted all the way across Holland without seeing a tulip.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

How foolish to lose your temper in a card game when the only stake is the honor of winning.

In any endeavor man makes mistakes.

But not often does he become so incensed over trivial matters as he very often does over the wrong play of a card partner.

The result of a card game should be considered in the spirit of a good sport.

Husbands and wives quarrel over misplays and poor judgment, and friends are strained to the breaking point over the card table.

To be sure, when anyone takes part in a game it should be with the idea of coming out ahead, else why a game?

And partners are paired so that there may be a feeling of contest.

But it is silly to get angry over any gaming table, even when the play is not according to rule.

Serious, sensible thoughtfulness is essential to a card partnership.

You are expected to do your best or it would not be worth playing.

But to fly in a rage and be at fever heat in the race for a prize, scowling or sarcastic, as the case may be, and giving every evidence of uncontrolled feelings as a game progresses, is unpardonable and foolish.
